Gas Explosions Kill 98 People Near Expo Site

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — A series of gas explosions tore through a subway construction site in this Expo '70 city today killing at least 98 persons and injuring 155, police said.

The disaster occurred in a business district 10 miles from the fair grounds and did not damage the explosition.

Many of the injured were in serious conditions.

Three explosions in quick succession occurred about 5:30 p.m., just after offices had closed for the day and most subway trains were jammed with commuters on the way home. Police said many of the victims were commuters.

The explosions leveled several buildings, and the fires that followed destroyed about 30 houses, police said.

Investigators attributed the explosions to leakage in the municipal gas system.

The disaster occurred about 33 feet underground, in an area where workers were constructing a new subway line.

Police ordered an immediate investigation to determine the cause of the explosions, which came over a 330-foot-area.

One witness said he spotted flames licking at pipes in the subterranean work area seconds before the explosions rocked the area.

"I ducked and became almost deaf from the explosions," said Jun Ji Matsushita, 34. "Then I saw columns of fire shooting about 10 meters (33 feet) into the air from below the ground."

Carswell Rejected For High Court Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected today the Supreme Court nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell, handing President Nixon a second defeat in his efforts to name a Southern judge to the nation's highest court. The vote was 51-45.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two more senators lined up with the opposition to the Supreme Court nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell today amid increasing signs that supporters have their backs to the wall.

Sens. Quentin N. Burdick, D-N. D., and Charles Mc Mathias, R-Md., disclosed they will vote against confirmation of the 50-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., judge as the long fight over his nomination nears a tense showdown.

In the final debate between the Senate vote, Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., a Carswell supporter, said that if the nomination is rejected, he hopes President Nixon will wait until after the next election to submit another appointment.

Although both sides predicted victory, some senators said before the crucial roll call the lineup was so evenly balanced a tie-breaking vote by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the Senate's presiding officer, was a distinct possibility.

Nixon nominated the 50-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals judge Jan. 19, following the Senate's 55-45 rejection last November of his first choice for the seat, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth.

As in the Haynsworth situation, a handful of uncommitted senators held the key to confirmation and the result was a large question mark before the vote opened.

Maneuvering by both sides continued through the night Tuesday and into today's early hours. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., released a statement shortly before 2 a.m., taking his name off the uncommitted list and placing it in line against the nomination.

Carswell meets none of the standards necessary for the nation's highest tribunal, Percy said in becoming the ninth Republican senator to announce against the selection.

An Associated Press survey made prior to the vote and disregarding the four expected absentees showed 44 for confirmation, 41 against and 11 uncommitted.

Sens. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., both were ill and their aides said Tuesday night neither would be on hand for the vote.

Away attending a meeting in Southeast Asia were Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

All Federal Employes Get Pay Raise OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 6 per cent general pay raise for postal workers and nearly all other federal employes has been cleared for final Senate action, but Democrats say they'll fight any subsequent move to finance it through higher postal rates.

The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee tacked the measure to a minor House-passed postal bill Tuesday. But the panel made it clear a second 8 per cent pay hike for postal workers will be considered separately.

Government and union negotiators worked out the two-stage pay plan to settle a simmering postal pay dispute, which resulted in the nation's first mail strike.

The President has asked for an increase from six to 10 cents an ounce in first class postage and smaller boosts for other mail and parcel post. He said the $2.6 billion from the higher rates is needed to finance the two proposed postal pay raises, to wipe out the postal deficit and to increase the system's efficiency.

Nixon tied the 8 per cent raise for postal workers to his proposal for a postal corporation.

Addressing itself to the 10-cent stamp proposal, the committee unanimously approved a resolution saying "there should be no increase until such time as mailers using other than first-class privileges pay their fair share of postal costs."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, told newsmen if the 6 per cent boost had not gone through committee Tuesday, the nation would be faced with another postal strike.

He said the next task is to work out a postal reorganization plan, adding, "Frankly, if it is not worked out the system will fall flat on its face."

Kopechne Testimony May Be Made Public

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The secret testimony at the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car last summer may be made public within a week.

Now that the Dukes County Grand Jury has adjourned a special session called to delve into the accident, and reported Tuesday it had no findings, the way is open for releasing quickly the inquest transcript and the report of District Court Judge James A. Boyle, who presided over the January inquiry.

Kennedy Elated

In Washington, Kennedy said: "I'm happy this case seems to be coming to a close. I'm relieved as well for everyone who's involved and I hope the transcript of the inquest will be made public as soon as possible."

Kennedy drove his car off the side of a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island into a deep tidal pool last July 18. Miss Kopechne, 28, and a former secretary for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was trapped in the car and drowned.

Kennedy escaped and, after he delayed for some 10 hours in reporting the accident to police, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Pleads Guilty

He pleaded guilty a week after the crash and was sentenced to two months in jail on the charge. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for a year.

The night of the court arraignment, Kennedy went on national television to give his recollection of the accident and express regret for his subsequent actions.

He later testified for two hours at the inquest and upon leaving the court room told newsmen he was "satisfied that I responded completely to all the questions asked of me, both by the district attorney and the court."

2-Day Session Ends

The Dukes County Grand Jury wound up its two-day session when presiding Judge Wilfred J. Paquet refused to have the inquest transcript and the judge's report brought to the island for inspection of the 10 men and 10 women jurors.

The state Supreme Judicial Court, in a decision last fall on a petition by Kennedy and others who then were prospective witnesses at the inquest, ruled that it must be held in secret, that the transcript and report should be impounded until all prospect of any further criminal prosecutions was ended.

Certificate Needed

One of the conditions laid down by the court as a prerequisite for release of the papers said that a Superior Court justice could order them made public if the district attorney filed a certificate saying that there was no proposed prosecution in the case.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis announced Tuesday when the grand jury adjourned that he would prepare such a certificate immediately and send it to the Suffolk County Court in Boston, where the transcript and report, along with other documents and exhibits from the inquest, are being held.

Judge Paquet has the final say on release of the documents since he is assigned currently as justice of the Suffolk County Court.

Airport Aides In Contempt, Judge Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that whatever Air Traffic Controllers have been doing for the past two weeks—sick-in, slowdown, sick-out—is, in fact, a strike.

Judge George L. Hart Jr., found the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—PATCO—guilty of contempt Tuesday, but put off announcing any penalties until Saturday.

Meanwhile, 90-minute delays remained at several major airports and flight volume has been cut 40 per cent along some routes. Controllers continued to return to their control towers and air traffic radar scopes, but not in sufficient numbers to totally cure air travel woes.

Hart showed sympathy for the men who claimed to be ill, saying they had acted "under extreme provocation," adding "you just can't strike against the government for any reason." For the moment, at least, Hart turned aside a government request to fine the union.

PATCO and its executive director, F. Lee Bailey, are protesting what they say is government inattention to having more controllers on the job working with improved equipment.

A PATCO spokesman had no comment on the decision.

Hart's decision does open the way, however, for the government to seek legal penalties against controllers who still refuse to return to work.

Belize Turning To America For Independence Aid

LANSING (AP)—The premier of the tiny British crown colony of Belize in Central America told the Michigan Legislature Tuesday that his people look to the United States for help in gaining their independence.

George Price, premier and leader of the governing People's United Party, told a joint legislative session that membership in the United Nations and the organization of American States, plus receipt of U. S. foreign trade and development funds will determine the success of his people's bid for self government.

Belize, with a population of some 120,000 and a territory of less than 10,000 square miles, formerly was known as British Honduras until issued a separate Constitution in 1964.

A new capital, to be known as Bel Mopan, is being built some 35 miles inland with the aid of Great Britain.

Price, 51, told legislators that "we in Belize aspire to be a united, free and sovereign nation. We are fellow Americans, we share the same history and traditions."

Rail Strike Bill Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House members saw no obstacle today for quick passage of President Nixon's proposal to avert a nationwide rail strike.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, noting the Senate Labor Committee approved the bill unanimously Monday, said it appeared it would pass with little delay.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee which approved the measure 15-12 Tuesday, said he hoped the House also could clear it this afternoon.

There are minor differences between the two versions. But sponsors said these undoubtedly would be ironed out in time to get the bill to Nixon for signing before the Saturday strike deadline.

The legislation would impose on the four shopcraft unions involved in the dispute and the rail lines a settlement which their negotiators worked out in December.

It was ratified by members of three unions—the machinists, electrical workers and boiler makes. But the members of one—the sheet metal workers—rejected it and mediators have been unable to work out an agreement since that time.

The December settlement provided pay increases of 68 cents an hour retroactively and prospectively for the 47,000 employes involved in the dispute.

The current hourly wage is $3.60.

Temperature Fall Over 40 Degrees In Quick-Change

By The Associated Press

Cold air spilling out of the northern Rockies swept into the Great Plains today, dropped temperatures as much as 40 degrees and ended a brief spell of spring mildness.

The mercury soared to 85 at Bismarck, N.D., Tuesday—the highest ever for so early in the season there—then dived into the lower 40s by early today.

Strong, gusty winds accompanied the falling temperatures. Gusts in excess of 60 miles an hour were clocked at Havre, Glasgow, and Great Falls, in Montana, and at Norfolk, Hastings and McCook, Neb.

Temperatures skidded into the 20s and 30s, and occasionally into the teens, from the northern Rockies into the Dakotas.

Unseasonable warm maintained overnight lows in the 40s, 50s and 60s from the southern Plains through the Midwest. Midday highs from the 60s into the 80s were common over the region Tuesday.

Teamsters Set Pentagon Talks

By The Associated Press

Top officials of the Teamsters Union scheduled a meeting today in Washington to discuss spreading strikes by truck drivers dissatisfied with terms of a tentative national contract.

Frank E. Fitzsimmons, acting president of the union, summoned the leaders one week earlier than a planned general executive board meeting.

The walkouts gained momentum in the Midwest Tuesday and began spreading into the East. There were reports of violence against some Midwestern truckers who stayed on the job.

Trucking industry leaders in Chicago said they are prepared to retaliate against piecemeal strikes there with a general lockout of all drivers in the area.

The sriking truckers outside Chicago are dissatisfied with a tentative $1.10-an-hour wage increase agreed upon at national talks in Washington last week.

In the Chicago area, where the Teamsters and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union negotiate separately from the national unions, talks have been deadlocked for more than a week. The two unions have been conducting strikes against selected firms.

Wildcat walkouts reached the East Tuesday when some 70 Teamsters struck a Carlstadt, N.J., firm.

In West Virginia, drivers walked off their jobs in Charleston and Clarksburg. There were reports of strikers throwing rocks at trucks crossing their picket lines in Charleston.

Rash Of Measles Haunts Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Doctors reported today that latest blood sample tests show Apollo 13 astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly II is not immune to German measles, increasing the chances that Saturday's scheduled launch to the moon will have to be postponed.

A space agency announcement said, "This finding creates the possibility that unless there is a change in Mattingly's condition between now and launch, he could develop German measles in space."

Analysis of the blood samples, taken Monday night, showed that the other two crewmen, James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr., are immune to the disease.

All three astronauts were exposed through contact with backup astronaut Charles Duke, who came down with the measles Sunday. The incubation period for the disease is 14 to 21 days. The flight is to last 10 days.

The space agency said doctors will continue to check Mattingly's condition and that additional blood samples will be taken "to see if he develops symptoms of the disease or antibodies."

By studying a series of blood samples taken at intervals after an individual is exposed, doctors can determine if antibodies are building up in to combat the disease.

Saturday's planned blastoff time is 2:13 p.m. EST.

While waiting results of the blood tests, the astronauts climbed aboard spacecraft simulators to rehearse lunar orbit and lunar surface activities.

Medics are especially concerned about Mattingly. They reported Tuesday night he apparently had no immunity to German measles and that he might be coming down with the disease.

Earlier Tuesday they said that both Mattingly and Haise had a possibility of being infected. Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief astronaut physician, said that if symptoms develop, they could be expected within 24 to 48 hours.

He said both may have early stages of the disease, but that it was too early to tell for certain.

After Duke became infected, blood samples from Lovell, Haise and Mattingly were taken Monday and flown to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston. Analysis of these samples showed that all three men had satisfactory immunity to German measles at the time the blood was taken. But Berry said in the case of Haise and Mattingly, the information could be misleading.

6 Guides Killed On Mt. Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Six Nepalese Sherpas have been killed by a huge block of ice that fell on them while guiding a Japanese expedition up Mt. Everest, according to a message reaching here today.

It was the worst disaster ever reported on the world's highest mountain.

The message said the accident occurred last Sunday and that two other Sherpas were rescued.

The ice block roared down the slopes of the mountain as the Sherpas were at an altitude of 18,860 feet—10,168 feet below the summit, carrying equipment to the first main camp site.

2 Fishermen Lost, Thought Drowned

ELBERTA (AP) — Two Elberta young men were missing and presumed drowned today in Frankfort harbor, where their fishing boat was found overturned shortly after last midnight.

The two are Wendell Vinson, 21, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vinson, and Jake Noffsinger, 21, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Noffsinger.

The two left about 10 p.m. Tuesday to go steelhead fishing in the harbor. Earl Snow, Elbert village marshal, spotted their overturned 12 - foot wooden boat from shore about 12:30 a.m. and quickly notified the Benzie County sheriff's office and Coast Guard.

While the harbor is largely landlocked a strong wind prevailed Tuesday night and the water was choppy.

Elbert and Frankfort are twin cities on the Lake Michigan shore about 45 miles north of Ludington.

Kennedy Elated

In Washington, Kennedy said: "I'm happy this case seems to be coming to a close. I'm relieved as well for everyone who's involved and I hope the transcript of the inquest will be made public as soon as possible."

Kennedy drove his car off the side of a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island into a deep tidal pool last July 18. Miss Kopechne, 28, and a former secretary for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was trapped in the car and drowned.

Kennedy escaped and, after he delayed for some 10 hours in reporting the accident to police, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Pleads Guilty

He pleaded guilty a week after the crash and was sentenced to two months in jail on the charge. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for a year.

The night of the court arraignment, Kennedy went on national television to give his recollection of the accident and express regret for his subsequent actions.

He later testified for two hours at the inquest and upon leaving the court room told newsmen he was "satisfied that I responded completely to all the questions asked of me, both by the district attorney and the court."

2-Day Session Ends

The Dukes County Grand Jury wound up its two-day session when presiding Judge Wilfred J. Paquet refused to have the inquest transcript and the judge's report brought to the island for inspection of the 10 men and 10 women jurors.

The state Supreme Judicial Court, in a decision last fall on a petition by Kennedy and others who then were prospective witnesses at the inquest, ruled that it must be held in secret, that the transcript and report should be impounded until all prospect of any further criminal prosecutions was ended.

Certificate Needed

One of the conditions laid down by the court as a prerequisite for release of the papers said that a Superior Court justice could order them made public if the district attorney filed a certificate saying that there was no proposed prosecution in the case.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis announced Tuesday when the grand jury adjourned that he would prepare such a certificate immediately and send it to the Suffolk County Court in Boston, where the transcript and report, along with other documents and exhibits from the inquest, are being held.

Judge Paquet has the final say on release of the documents since he is assigned currently as justice of the Suffolk County Court.

All Federal Employes Get Pay Raise OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 6 per cent general pay raise for postal workers and nearly all other federal employes has been cleared for final Senate action, but Democrats say they'll fight any subsequent move to finance it through higher postal rates.

The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee tacked the measure to a minor House-passed postal bill Tuesday. But the panel made it clear a second 8 per cent pay hike for postal workers will be considered separately.

Government and union negotiators worked out the two-stage pay plan to settle a simmering postal pay dispute, which resulted in the nation's first mail strike.

The President has asked for an increase from six to 10 cents an ounce in first class postage and smaller boosts for other mail and parcel post. He said the $2.6 billion from the higher rates is needed to finance the two proposed postal pay raises, to wipe out the postal deficit and to increase the system's efficiency.

Nixon tied the 8 per cent raise for postal workers to his proposal for a postal corporation.

Addressing itself to the 10-cent stamp proposal, the committee unanimously approved a resolution saying "there should be no increase until such time as mailers using other than first-class privileges pay their fair share of postal costs."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, told newsmen if the 6 per cent boost had not gone through committee Tuesday, the nation would be faced with another postal strike.

He said the next task is to work out a postal reorganization plan, adding, "Frankly, if it is not worked out the system will fall flat on its face."

2 Fishermen Lost, Thought Drowned

ELBERTA (AP) — Two Elberta young men were missing and presumed drowned today in Frankfort harbor, where their fishing boat was found overturned shortly after last midnight.

The two are Wendell Vinson, 21, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vinson, and Jake Noffsinger, 21, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Noffsinger.

The two left about 10 p.m. Tuesday to go steelhead fishing in the harbor. Earl Snow, Elbert village marshal, spotted their overturned 12 - foot wooden boat from shore about 12:30 a.m. and quickly notified the Benzie County sheriff's office and Coast Guard.

While the harbor is largely landlocked a strong wind prevailed Tuesday night and the water was choppy.

County's Tax Base Jumps $17 Million

Delta County's tax valuation for 1970 was equalized at $113,-557,500 Tuesday night by the County Board of Commissioners at the Delta County Building.

The county total in 1969 was $96,473,325 and the new figure represents a gain of $17,084,175, making this the third straight year that an impressive gain has been made in the county's tax base.

Last year the county jumped approximately $9 million in valuation and about $6.2 million the year before.

The largest single factor in the county's increased valuation was the Mead expansion, which produced a gain of $12,715,000. This is in addition to a gain in excess of $1,250,000 which was reflected in the 1969 tax roll and a portion under construction as of Dec. 31, 1969, which will be an additional gain in the 1971 roll.

The gain was distributed as follows: Wells Township, $13,-567,650; City of Escanaba, $1,-537,050; Masonville Township, $443,950; City of Gladstone, $290,150 and the 11 other townships, $1,245,375.

20 Per Cent Of County

Mead's valuation of $21,475,-800 in Wells Township represents almost 72 per cent of the total township valuation. In addition, Mead's tax valuation in the townships of Escanaba, Cornell and Baldwin amounts to $1,423,150. These figures do not include some timberland parcels in other townships of Delta County on which Mead pays taxes, said John Olson, county equalization director.

The total tax valuation of Mead represents roughly 20 per cent of the entire county valuation.

In addition to the increased valuations of Mead, Wells Township also showed an increase of $371,000 in other industrial and commercial properties and a gain of almost $500,000 in valuation of residential properties.

Facilities Completed

The gain in Masonville Township was in large part due to the further completion of the compressor station and district office of the Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co. north of Rapid River, Olson said. This produced an increase of roughly $200,000. The construction of a TV translator station in Masonville Township also resulted in a gain of about $135,000 in valuation.

In addition to the increased valuation in Masonville Township, the Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co. accounted for over $500,000 in valuation in Baldwin, Ensign, Garden, Maple Ridge and Nahma townships because of an adjustment in pipe line cost figures.

Townships — Baldwin, $2,654-300; Bark River, $2,204,350; Bay de Noc, $1,335,650; Brampton, $2,103,075; Cornell, $1,686,300; Ensign, $1,597,125; Escanaba, $3,353,550; Fairbanks, $901,750; Ford River, $3,758,200; Garden, $2,633,300; Maple Ridge, $2,221,-950; Masonvill, $5,345,700; Nahma, $2,934,800; Wells, $29,-895,600.

Religious Teachers Given Instruction

Use of audio visual aids as a teaching tool was explained Tuesday night by Sister Ann Stadelhofer of Spalding at the fourth of six sessions in a Catechetical Workshop program for teachers of area Catholic parishes at St. Anne school.

Sister Ann explained discussion techniques used in connection with the viewing of a film. As a practical application of the theory given, the group viewed the film, "The Parable" and carried on a discussion similar to that which would be held with a class of students.

The workshop was organized by Sister Arlene and Mrs. William Suriano of St. Anne's Parish. They coordinate St. Anne's religious education program for children of the parish in grades one through eight who are not attending the parish school.

Sister Ann, workshop instructor, is working full-time this year in the field of religious education. She is coordinator of the religious education center at St. Francis parish in Spalding and instructor of the catechetical teachers there and in other areas of the Upper Peninsula.

The six weekly sessions are an inservice workshop for Catholic teachers who give religious instruction below the high school level. Purpose of the evening classes is to acquaint teachers new in the field as well as those more experienced with developments in the modern approach to catechetics.

Teachers participating are from parishes in Flat Rock (Holy Family). Schaffer (Sacred Heart), Wells (St. Anthony), and Escanaba St. Patrick, St. Joseph, and St. Anne.)

Topics already covered in addition to this week's are: The Catechist and Classroom Psychology; Need for Right Atmosphere and Attitudes; Lesson Planning: Creativeness in Planning Lessons; Demonstration of a Lesson Plan; Religion: a Way of Life for Teacher and Student.

The last two sessions will cover "Group Dynamics" and "Modern Catechtics."

Public Works Dept. Approved By Board

A resolution establishing a County Department of Public Works was unanimously approved Tuesday evening by the Delta County Board of Supervisors at their meeting in the Delta County Building.

This resolution will enable funds to be saved on essential public works under Act No. 185, which dates back to 1957.

Act No. 185 provides for the adoption by any County Commission in Michigan of its provisions for financing essential public works sponsored by townships, cities and villages within the county.

Cities and townships will now be able to sponsor public works programs for public water supplies, water treatment and sewage treatment at less cost, the board indicated. There is no cost to the county as a unit of government.

A seven member board, including the drain commissioner, will be named by the Board of Commissioners at a future date.

Students Plan 'Mother Earth' Program Here

The Student Council of the Escanaba Area Public High School has approved plans to sponsor a series of student activities to draw public attention to problems of environment pollution. The 'Mother Earth' program will begin on April 10 and end in early May.

According to Student Council President Fredric Jurmu, the activities will have two purposes: to organize constructive efforts to clean up the environment, and to focus public attention on environmental quality legislation being sponsored in the state legislature by Representative Serotkin (R-Mt. Clemens) and Gov. William Milliken.

The "Mother Earth" program will begin Friday with a poster contest open to all public high school students, and a photo contest open to all Delta County residents. Prizes will be awarded for the winning posters by the Student Council.

Awards in the photo contest are being given by local merchants. Entries, to be collected at the Photoart, must deal with some aspect of the improvement or deterioration of environmental quality.

Student activities will begin April 17 when Congressman Philip Ruppe will address students of the high school on the subject of pollution. The following students Tuesday will participate in class competition to clean up the high school grounds.

On April 25, Escanaba and Holy Name service clubs, stucouncils and volunteers plan to join in cleaning up Ludington Park. The next week a committee of Escanaba High School Student Council members will request to meet with representatives of local industry to discuss pollution control.

Contests will close on May 4, with judging to be done by five area photographers. The Student Council plans to officially end its 'Mother Earth' activities in conjunction with the statewide 'Day in May' pollution programs on May 9.

County Board Adopts Pollution Ordinance

In a surprise move Tuesday night, the County Board of Commissioners unanimously approved the Delta County Air Pollution Ordinance and appropriated $10,000 in the 1971 budget for carrying out the provisions of the ordinance.

The ordinance will now be submitted to the governor's office for approval and will not go into effect for 60 days, during which time time the ordinance can not be enforced.

Accordingto Prosecuting Attorney John Beauchamp, the statute under which the board passed the ordinance does not require any public hearing. The board, however, has held open discussions on the ordinance at several meetings.

Send To Governor

A copy of the ordinance, signed by the board chairman and the county clerk, will be sent to the governor and he must either approve or disapprove it within 10 days.

If the ordinance is approved, it will be filed with the Secretary of State. If it is disapproved, the ordinance will be sent back to the board and the governor's recommendations will be studied before further action.

Adoption of the ordinance came after nearly a year's study on the part of the board. The Save Our Air Committee submitted a suggested ordinance to the board in June of last year. The board later decided to develop an ordinance of its own. The board's ordinance has been under discussion since last fall.

Create Commission

The ordinance will create a nine-member air pollution control commission, which will include one licensed doctor of medicine, one member of industrial management, one member of industrial labor, one member from the township boards of Delta County, one member from the city council of Escanaba, one member from the city commission of Gladstone, one member of the tourist industry, and two citizens at large.

The ordinance also provides for the Air Pollution Control Commission to receive, review and approve or disapprove all applications, plans, specifications or any port thereof required for a construction permit.

Before construction, improvement, operation or implementation of any plant, equipment, stack, device, method or process in Delta County by any person for commercial, municipal or industrial purposes that may directly or indirectly cause or, by the current state of information, tend to cause air pollution, such a person shall obtain a permit from the Commission.

"All future state standards . . . promulgated by the Michigan Air pollution Control Commission" are incorporated into the ordinance.

The section on variances provides that variances from standards can be granted for up to one year and be continued from year-to-year, but "the total period of time for which a variance can be continued, including the initial period of time and continued periods of time, shall not exceed five years."

Regarding permits, the ordinance specifies that "where the standards adopted by the State of Michigan and the standards adopted by Delta County are the same, approval, conditional approval or denial of a permit by the State of Michigan shall constitute approval, conditional approval or denial of a permit by the county."

Situation May Temper 'News' In Small City

A small community newspaper may not be able to print "all the news" that's fit to print because of its unique relationship with its community, the editor of the Escanaba Daily Press told the Escanaba Rotary Club Tuesday.

David L. Andrews, who was named editor of the newspaper last May, pointed out that even though the newspaper staff is aware of a "story" in the community and that people may be talking about it, other factors may determine when or whether a report is published.

He pointed out, for example, that last fall when a young man on what police described as a "bad trip" on LSD crashed through the front door of a store building in the next block from the newspaper office early in the morning the Daily Press delayed publication of the story for more than 24 hours in cooperation with the Escanaba Police Dept. and the prosecuting attorney.

Aware of Incident

Although the newspaper was aware of the incident, he said, no report was printed in response to a police suggestion that publicity in the case might hamper further investigation.

The Daily Press and its staff must live with the people of the community who are its news sources, Andrews pointed out, and unless it cooperates with those people the newspaper could be faced with the loss of information and cooperation from its sources.

The people of the city may be talking about a new industry or business development, he said, but the corporation or owners may not have final plans completed and be reluctant to make statements for publication which might jeopardize those plans until all of the details are finalized.

What About Meetings?

In some instances, he added, although local officials are aware of company or corporate plans, they are not authorized to speak for the company. Information must come from headquarters in another city, thus delaying a public report.

"Do we try to jam our way into executive sessions of city councils or local boards, or does this only serve to drive the council or board to someone's home, the next time not even revealing that a meeting is scheduled?" he asked.

"Should a newspaper publish a police report at the time of an arrest at the risk of embarrassing an individual, or wait days, weeks or months until a court disposition while the community talks anyway?"

Should the newspaper print one side of a labor dispute while the other says "no comment" and be accused of publishing a one-sided story, or withhold the side available and be accused of favoring the silent party?

Sports Problems

Andrews said problems even can develop in sports reporting, asking if the newspaper should level criticism at a high school team or coach after a poor performance or recognize that high school athletes are not professionals and are trying to do their best?

It is in these relationships that decisions and stories in small community newspapers differ from those of the metropolitan press. Escanaba doesn't have professional politicians like Detroit, Andrews said. In most instances, local politicians are just citizens trying to serve the community like the newspaper.

A question and answer session followed.

Andrews was introduced by Clint Dunthan, managing editor of the Daily Press and program chairman. Rotary President Thomas Streebel presided over the meeting at the House of Ludington.

Group Appointed To Select New UMTA Director

President Robert Sayles of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association today named a committee of selection to recommend a new executive director of the association to succeed Kenneth Dorman of Houghton.

Sayles, of Newberry, named William Veaser, Vice President - Administration, U. P. Power Co., Houghton; Jack Miller, Rapid River restauranteur, who will act as chairman of the committee; Harold Dettman, St. Ignace motel owner and chairman of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress; Louis Gheller, manager of Big Powderhorn Ski Resort in Gogebic County, and Ted Bogdan, owner of the Holiday Inn at Marquette, and Harold Dunklee, Munising motel owner.

Sayles said that the association had received several applications for the director's job, but that no commitments had been made and that the Committee would have free rein in its work of finding the best person to head the Upper Peninsula's new effort in recreational development. The UMTA director represents the Upper Peninsula on the State Tourist Council, which funds 80 per cent of UMTA's expenditures for advertising the Upper Peninsula's recreational resources.

UMTA's Executive Committee has named Sayles to represent it on the Michigan Tourist Council until an executive is chosen.

Delta Causes Given Support

MARQUETTE—Three resolutions from Delta County were endorsed by representatives of Upper Peninsula county governments at the organizational meeting of the U. P. Association of County Commissioners.

Nine of 15 counties in the Upper Peninsula were represented.

The group supported the appeal from Delta County that County Rd. 483 leading to Fayette State Park on the Garden peninsula become a part of the state trunkline system; that the federal government establish a staffed Weather Bureau office in Escanaba similar to the one which was closed after 92 years of service to the Upper Peninsula, and that when federal and state programs call for funds, the programs be financed by the respective levels of government rather than charging portions of these funds to county expenses by the statute.

Nelson Cook of Chippewa County, who was elected president of the organization, appealed to the six counties not represented to join the association to allow the U. P. to present a united front in its approach to development and new legislation.

Public Works Dept. Approved By Board

A resolution establishing a County Department of Public Works was unanimously approved Tuesday evening by the Delta County Board of Supervisors at their meeting in the Delta County Building .

This resolution will enable funds to be saved on essential public works under Act No. 185, which dates back to 1957.

Act No. 185 provides for the adoption by any County Commission in Michigan of its provisions for financing essential public works sponsored by townships, cities and villages within the county.

Cities and townships will now be able to sponsor public works programs for public water supplies, water treatment and sewage treatment at less cost, the board indicated. There is no cost to the county as a unit of government.

A seven member board, including the drain commissioner, will be named by the Board of Commissioners at a future date.

Students Plan 'Mother Earth' Program Here

The Student Council of the Escanaba Area Public High School has approved plans to sponsor a series of student activities to draw public attention to problems of environment pollution. The 'Mother Earth' program will begin on April 10 and end in early May.

According to Student Council President Fredric Jurmu, the activities will have two purposes: to organize constructive efforts to clean up the environment, and to focus public attention on environmental quality legislation being sponsored in the state legislature by Representative Serotkin (R-Mt. Clemens) and Gov. William Milliken.

The "Mother Earth" program will begin Friday with a poster contest open to all public high school students, and a photo contest open to all Delta County residents. Prizes will be awarded for the winning posters by the Student Council.

Awards in the photo contest are being given by local merchants. Entries, to be collected at the Photoart, must deal with some aspect of the improvement or deterioration of environmental quality.

Student activities will begin April 17 when Congressman Philip Ruppe will address students of the high school on the subject of pollution. The following students Tuesday will participate in class competition to clean up the high school grounds.

On April 25, Escanaba and Holy Name service clubs, stucouncils and volunteers plan to join in cleaning up Ludington Park. The next week a committee of Escanaba High School Student Council members will request to meet with representatives of local industry to discuss pollution control.

Contests will close on May 4, with judging to be done by five area photographers. The Student Council plans to officially end its 'Mother Earth' activities in conjunction with the statewide 'Day in May' pollution programs on May 9.

County Board Adopts Pollution Ordinance

In a surprise move Tuesday night, the County Board of Commissioners unanimously approved the Delta County Air Pollution Ordinance and appropriated $10,000 in the 1971 budget for carrying out the provisions of the ordinance.

The ordinance will now be submitted to the governor's office for approval and will not go into effect for 60 days, during which time time the ordinance can not be enforced.

Accordingto Prosecuting Attorney John Beauchamp, the statute under which the board passed the ordinance does not require any public hearing. The board, however, has held open discussions on the ordinance at several meetings.

Send To Governor

A copy of the ordinance, signed by the board chairman and the county clerk, will be sent to the governor and he must either approve or disapprove it within 10 days.

If the ordinance is approved, it will be filed with the Secretary of State. If it is disapproved, the ordinance will be sent back to the board and the governor's recommendations will be studied before further action.

Adoption of the ordinance came after nearly a year's study on the part of the board. The Save Our Air Committee submitted a suggested ordinance to the board in June of last year. The board later decided to develop an ordinance of its own. The board's ordinance has been under discussion since last fall.

Create Commission

The ordinance will create a nine-member air pollution control commission, which will include one licensed doctor of medicine, one member of industrial management, one member of industrial labor, one member from the township boards of Delta County, one member from the city council of Escanaba, one member from the city commission of Gladstone, one member of the tourist industry, and two citizens at large.

The ordinance also provides for the Air Pollution Control Commission to receive, review and approve or disapprove all applications, plans, specifications or any port thereof required for a construction permit.

Before construction, improvement, operation or implementation of any plant, equipment, stack, device, method or process in Delta County by any person for commercial, municipal or industrial purposes that may directly or indirectly cause or, by the current state of information, tend to cause air pollution, such a person shall obtain a permit from the Commission.

"All future state standards . . . promulgated by the Michigan Air pollution Control Commission" are incorporated into the ordinance.

The section on variances provides that variances from standards can be granted for up to one year and be continued from year-to-year, but "the total period of time for which a variance can be continued, including the initial period of time and continued periods of time, shall not exceed five years."

Regarding permits, the ordinance specifies that "where the standards adopted by the State of Michigan and the standards adopted by Delta County are the same, approval, conditional approval or denial of a permit by the State of Michigan shall constitute approval, conditional approval or denial of a permit by the county."

Situation May Temper 'News' In Small City

A small community newspaper may not be able to print "all the news" that's fit to print because of its unique relationship with its community, the editor of the Escanaba Daily Press told the Escanaba Rotary Club Tuesday.

David L. Andrews, who was named editor of the newspaper last May, pointed out that even though the newspaper staff is aware of a "story" in the community and that people may be talking about it, other factors may determine when or whether a report is published.

He pointed out, for example, that last fall when a young man on what police described as a "bad trip" on LSD crashed through the front door of a store building in the next block from the newspaper office early in the morning the Daily Press delayed publication of the story for more than 24 hours in cooperation with the Escanaba Police Dept. and the prosecuting attorney.

Aware of Incident

Although the newspaper was aware of the incident, he said, no report was printed in response to a police suggestion that publicity in the case might hamper further investigation.

The Daily Press and its staff must live with the people of the community who are its news sources, Andrews pointed out, and unless it cooperates with those people the newspaper could be faced with the loss of information and cooperation from its sources.

The people of the city may be talking about a new industry or business development, he said, but the corporation or owners may not have final plans completed and be reluctant to make statements for publication which might jeopardize those plans until all of the details are finalized.

What About Meetings?

In some instances, he added, although local officials are aware of company or corporate plans, they are not authorized to speak for the company. Information must come from headquarters in another city, thus delaying a public report.

"Do we try to jam our way into executive sessions of city councils or local boards, or does this only serve to drive the council or board to someone's home, the next time not even revealing that a meeting is scheduled?" he asked.

"Should a newspaper publish a police report at the time of an arrest at the risk of embarrassing an individual, or wait days, weeks or months until a court disposition while the community talks anyway?"

Should the newspaper print one side of a labor dispute while the other says "no comment" and be accused of publishing a one-sided story, or withhold the side available and be accused of favoring the silent party?

Sports Problems

Andrews said problems even can develop in sports reporting, asking if the newspaper should level criticism at a high school team or coach after a poor performance or recognize that high school athletes are not professionals and are trying to do their best?

It is in these relationships that decisions and stories in small community newspapers differ from those of the metropolitan press. Escanaba doesn't have professional politicians like Detroit, Andrews said. In most instances, local politicians are just citizens trying to serve the community like the newspaper.

A question and answer session followed.

Religious Teachers Given Instruction

Use of audio visual aids as a teaching tool was explained Tuesday night by Sister Ann Stadelhofer of Spalding at the fourth of six sessions in a Catechetical Workshop program for teachers of area Catholic parishes at St. Anne school.

Sister Ann explained discussion techniques used in connection with the viewing of a film. As a practical application of the theory given, the group viewed the film, "The Parable" and carried on a discussion similar to that which would be held with a class of students.

The workshop was organized by Sister Arlene and Mrs. William Suriano of St. Anne's Parish. They coordinate St. Anne's religious education program for children of the parish in grades one through eight who are not attending the parish school.

Sister Ann, workshop instructor, is working full-time this year in the field of religious education. She is coordinator of the religious education center at St. Francis parish in Spalding and instructor of the catechetical teachers there and in other areas of the Upper Peninsula.

The six weekly sessions are an inservice workshop for Catholic teachers who give religious instruction below the high school level. Purpose of the evening classes is to acquaint teachers new in the field as well as those more experienced with developments in the modern approach to catechetics.

Teachers participating are from parishes in Flat Rock (Holy Family). Schaffer (Sacred Heart), Wells (St. Anthony), and Escanaba St. Patrick, St. Joseph, and St. Anne.)

Topics already covered in addition to this week's are: The Catechist and Classroom Psychology; Need for Right Atmosphere and Attitudes; Lesson Planning: Creativeness in Planning Lessons; Demonstration of a Lesson Plan; Religion: a Way of Life for Teacher and Student.

The last two sessions will cover "Group Dynamics" and "Modern Catechtics."

Group Appointed To Select New UMTA Director

President Robert Sayles of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association today named a committee of selection to recommend a new executive director of the association to succeed Kenneth Dorman of Houghton.

Sayles, of Newberry, named William Veeser, Vice President - Administration, U. P. Power Co., Houghton; Jack Miller, Rapid River restauranteur, who will act as chairman of the committee; Harold Dettman, St. Ignace motel owner and chairman of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress; Louis Gheller, manager of Big Powderhorn Ski Resort in Gogebic County, and Ted Bogdan, owner of the Holiday Inn at Marquette, and Harold Dunklee, Munising motel owner.

Sayles said that the association had received several applications for the director's job, but that no commitments had been made and that the Committee would have free rein in its work of finding the best person to head the Upper Peninsula's new effort in recreational development. The UMTA director represents the Upper Peninsula on the State Tourist Council, which funds 80 per cent of UMTA's expenditures for advertising the Upper Peninsula's recreational resources.

UMTA's Executive Committee has named Sayles to represent it on the Michigan Tourist Council until an executive is chosen.

Gust Cary Myrsten, 65, 1411 Stephenson Ave., pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of liquor and was ordered to pay a $50 fine, $47 costs and $3 judgement fees. His license was also sent to the Secretary of State's office.

Dan Bushey, Rte. 2 Bark River, was found guilty of selling dirty eggs and was ordered to pay $25 fine, $15 costs and $3 judgment fees within seven days.

Delta Causes Given Support

MARQUETTE—Three resolutions from Delta County were endorsed by representatives of Upper Peninsula county governments at the organizational meeting of the U. P. Association of County Commissioners.

Nine of 15 counties in the Upper Peninsula were represented.

The group supported the appeal from Delta County that County Rd. 483 leading to Fayette State Park on the Garden peninsula become a part of the state trunkline system; that the federal government establish a staffed Weather Bureau office in Escanaba similar to the one which was closed after 92 years of service to the Upper Peninsula, and that when federal and state programs call for funds, the programs be financed by the respective levels of government rather than charging portions of these funds to county expenses by the statute.

Nelson Cook of Chippewa County, who was elected president of the organization, appealed to the six counties not represented to join the association to allow the U. P. to present a united front in its approach to development and new legislation.

White Pine Co. Tells Of Huge Expansion Plan

WHITE PINE (AP) — An expansion program to lift copper production from 159 million pounds a year to 234 million pounds in 1972 has been announced for its White Pine mine by the Copper Range Co.

A fifth grinding mill to raise the crushing and concentrating capacity from 25,000 tons to 32,000 tons of ore a day will be added, according to James Boyd, Copper Range president.

Boyd said capital expenditures could be met from internal sources, and reported that working capital was increased from $18 million in 1968 to $25 million at the end of 1969, despite capital expenditures of $12.1 million.

Boyd also reported a net profit of $15.8 million, equal to $7 a share in 1969, on sales of $102.2 million, compared with $9.7 million, or $4.37 a share, on sales of $82.1 million in 1968.

Food Industry Target Of Nader's Raiders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has permitted itself to be shackled to a chemical and genetic time bomb by the food industry, a report by investigators working under consumer advocate Ralph Nader said today.

"Nader's Raiders" charged the agency with wasting time on senseless campaigns of harassment while the food industry develops techniques "for manipulating the content of food products as dictated by corporate greed and irresponsibility."

"Until the FDA recognizes the food business for the profit-making giant that it is, this public agency will continue to be the vessel of an industry which through callousness, ignorance, or greed routinely mauls the public interest," the report said.

The investigators, the so-called Nader's Raiders, are young lawyers and law students recruited by Nader to look into areas of alleged consumer abuse.

The report, devoted almost entirely to what it termed the "total collapse" of the FDA's food regulation activities, said the agency had in effect reversed procedures for insuring the safety of food additives.

Instead of following the law requiring additives be safe, the report said the FDA accepts often insubstantial industry evidence, allows the chemicals' use and then challenges critical researchers to prove the ingredients unsafe.

In addition, the report said, the agency allows the industry to mask the additives' presence by freeing producers from the responsibility of listing ingedients on labels.

Further, the Nader investigators alleged, the FDA ranks sanitation inspection among its lowest priority jobs, taking the position food processors will maintain clean conditions voluntarily.

Yet the agency's own figures show in fiscal 1969 only 39 per cent of the establishments inspected were in compliance with sanitary regulations, the report went on.

League Sponsors Continued Study On Local Topics

The League of Women Voters of Escanaba elected Mrs. Harold Anderson president at its annual meeting on Monday of this week, succeeding Mrs. William Taylor who was recognized for her many contributions to the League during the past two years.

A budget was adopted by the membership to carry on its work in voters service, legislation, candidates, meetings, publications, and local operation. A finance drive in the fall is expected to raise part of the budget. The remainder of the needed funds will come from the League's annual used book sale in July, dues, and member contributions.

A study of library needs and services in Delta County was adopted as a new local study item. This topic was chosen to determine future library use and support.

Study Goals

The membership also voted to reexamine the local study items it has been carrying for several years for new or additional study and action. These items include:

1—Air pollution: Work for effective enforcement of strong local legislation.

3—Support of improvements in services to children through measures to strengthen the family unit by family counseling services, by protective services under "Children's Charter," and by increased support of existing agencies.

5—Support of adequate financing to meet the Escanaba Area Public School needs.

6—Support of Home Rule for Delta County if the legislature amends the present bill to provide more flexibility in the structure of county government, and if the legislature provides more options in the political party requirements for elected county officials.

In addition to Mrs. Anderson, other officers and directors elected for 1970-71 are: Mrs. Robert Haack, first vice president; Mrs. Vernon Ihlenfeldt, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Benson, Mrs. Roland Berry, and Miss Kitty Voelker, directors.

Other Officers

Elected last year for two year terms and continuing in office are: Mrs. Louis Gregory, second vice president; Mrs. Vernon Wicklander, treasurer; Mrs. Ronald Baston, Mrs. Wesley Lehmann, and Mrs. Harold Simoson, directors. The nominating committee will consist of Mrs. Luther Barrett, chairman; Mrs. N. L. Lindquist, and Mrs. Albert Halcli.

Miss Voelker, District of Columbia Petition Drive chairman, announced that the Escanaba League will participate in a nationwide petition drive, seeking signatures to petition Congress to propose a constitutional amendment to give D. C. residents representation in Congress.

At present the only government officials D. C. residents can vote for are the president and vice president and the local school board. In all other matters the city of Washington is governed by Congress.

Know Your County

In May delegates from the 40 Leagues throughout the state and the state officers of the League of Women Voters of Michigan wil convene in Escanaba for State Council. Plans are afoot for this meeting under the direction of Mrs. N. L. Lindquist.

The League's annual report was distributed. Some of the highlights during the year included candidates' meetings for school board and city council, LWV 50th anniversary celebration and drive for funds, demonstration of new voting machines in Gladstone, giving testimony before the Michigan Water Resources Commission in support of high water quality standards, and a public meeting to discuss the pros and cons of public funds for non-public schools.

The Escanaba League's handbook on local government, "Know Your County" is now completed. It contains a wide variety of information on Delta County, Escanaba, and Gladstone with many charts and pictures.

White Pine Co. Tells Of Huge Expansion Plan

WHITE PINE (AP) — An expansion program to lift copper production from 159 million pounds a year to 234 million pounds in 1972 has been announced for its White Pine mine by the Copper Range Co.

A fifth grinding mill to raise the crushing and concentrating capacity from 25,000 tons to 32,000 tons of ore a day will be added, according to James Boyd, Copper Range president.

Boyd said capital expenditures could be met from internal sources, and reported that working capital was increased from $18 million in 1968 to $25 million at the end of 1969, despite capital expenditures of $12.1 million.

Boyd also reported a net profit of $15.8 million, equal to $7 a share in 1969, on sales of $102.2 million, compared with $9.7 million, or $4.37 a share, on sales of $82.1 million in 1968.

Food Industry Target Of Nader's Raiders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has permitted itself to be shackled to a chemical and genetic time bomb by the food industry, a report by investigators working under consumer advocate Ralph Nader said today.

"Nader's Raiders" charged the agency with wasting time on senseless campaigns of harassment while the food industry develops techniques "for manipulating the content of food products as dictated by corporate greed and irresponsibility."

"Until the FDA recognizes the food business for the profit-making giant that it is, this public agency will continue to be the vessel of an industry which through callousness, ignorance, or greed routinely mauls the public interest," the report said.

The investigators, the so-called Nader's Raiders, are young lawyers and law students recruited by Nader to look into areas of alleged consumer abuse.

The report, devoted almost entirely to what it termed the "total collapse" of the FDA's food regulation activities, said the agency had in effect reversed procedures for insuring the safety of food additives.

Instead of following the law requiring additives be safe, the report said the FDA accepts often insubstantial industry evidence, allows the chemicals' use and then challenges critical researchers to prove the ingredients unsafe.

In addition, the report said, the agency allows the industry to mask the additives' presence by freeing producers from the responsibility of listing ingedients on labels.

Further, the Nader investigators alleged, the FDA ranks sanitation inspection among its lowest priority jobs, taking the position food processors will maintain clean conditions voluntarily.

Yet the agency's own figures show in fiscal 1969 only 39 per cent of the establishments inspected were in compliance with sanitary regulations, the report went on.

League Sponsors Continued Study On Local Topics

The League of Women Voters of Escanaba elected Mrs. Harold Anderson president at its annual meeting on Monday of this week, succeeding Mrs. William Taylor who was recognized for her many contributions to the League during the past two years.

A budget was adopted by the membership to carry on its work in voters service, legislation, candidates, meetings, publications, and local operation. A finance drive in the fall is expected to raise part of the budget. The remainder of the needed funds will come from the League's annual used book sale in July, dues, and member contributions.

A study of library needs and services in Delta County was adopted as a new local study item. This topic was chosen to determine future library use and support.

Study Goals

The membership also voted to reexamine the local study items it has been carrying for several years for new or additional study and action. These items include:

1—Air pollution: Work for effective enforcement of strong local legislation.

3—Support of improvements in services to children through measures to strengthen the family unit by family counseling services, by protective services under "Children's Charter," and by increased support of existing agencies.

5—Support of adequate financing to meet the Escanaba Area Public School needs.

6—Support of Home Rule for Delta County if the legislature amends the present bill to provide more flexibility in the structure of county government, and if the legislature provides more options in the political party requirements for elected county officials.

In addition to Mrs. Anderson, other officers and directors elected for 1970-71 are: Mrs. Robert Haack, first vice president; Mrs. Vernon Ihlenfeldt, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Benson, Mrs. Roland Berry, and Miss Kitty Voelker, directors.

Other Officers

Elected last year for two year terms and continuing in office are: Mrs. Louis Gregory, second vice president; Mrs. Vernon Wicklander, treasurer; Mrs. Ronald Baston, Mrs. Wesley Lehmann, and Mrs. Harold Simoson, directors. The nominating committee will consist of Mrs. Luther Barrett, chairman; Mrs. N. L. Lindquist, and Mrs. Albert Halcli.

Miss Voelker, District of Columbia Petition Drive chairman, announced that the Escanaba League will participate in a nationwide petition drive, seeking signatures to petition Congress to propose a constitutional amendment to give D. C. residents representation in Congress.

At present the only government officials D. C. residents can vote for are the president and vice president and the local school board. In all other matters the city of Washington is governed by Congress.

Know Your County

In May delegates from the 40 Leagues throughout the state and the state officers of the League of Women Voters of Michigan wil convene in Escanaba for State Council. Plans are afoot for this meeting under the direction of Mrs. N. L. Lindquist.

The League's annual report was distributed. Some of the highlights during the year included candidates' meetings for school board and city council, LWV 50th anniversary celebration and drive for funds, demonstration of new voting machines in Gladstone, giving testimony before the Michigan Water Resources Commission in support of high water quality standards, and a public meeting to discuss the pros and cons of public funds for non-public schools.

The Escanaba League's handbook on local government, "Know Your County" is now completed. It contains a wide variety of information on Delta County, Escanaba, and Gladstone with many charts and pictures.

New Leaders

Politically, quite a fuss was made several months ago as the United States closed out the "Soaring Sixties" and embarked into a new decade. President Richard Nixon talked about the programs of the 10 years ahead. So did Gov William Milliken of Michigan. A census was scheduled to count up the people and some of their problems. It was time to revitalize the nation, to assess the advances and setbacks of the 1960s and to move forward.

But few people in Escanaba then realized just how important 1970, all by itself, will be to the future of the community.

Before the year is over, voters of the city will have cast ballots in at least five elections. The first of those elections is history as three councilmen were put into office Monday. Still to come is the Escanaba Area public schools Board of Education election, a millage proposal of some type from the school board, the state primary and finally the general state election. And when the balloting is over, in addition to the city council, voters will have decided on the composition of the school board, the financial stability of the school district, a state representative, a state senator, state officers including the governor, a United States Congressman and a U. S. Senator. The question of aid to non-public schools also may be settled in Michigan if a petition drive to place a Constitutional amendment on the November ballot is successful.

In retrospect, voters of Escanaba appear to have done a reasonable job in Monday's Municipal election, choosing a banker, pharmacist and a businessman to help govern the city for at least the next two years. Ron DeVos, the banker, and Albin (Bud) Pearson Jr., the businessman, will be around for four year terms. Richard Pryal, the pharmacist, won the right to serve the final two years of an unexpired term.

Voters could have elected any of the eight candidates and received honest representation, but there is indication that the new composition of the council will give it a balance that might not have been achieved with other combinations.

DeVos, who along with incumbent Councilmen Robert Bink might be classed as "The Young Lions" of the community on the basis of their agressive involvement in community affairs, is a relative newcomer to the community, moving here from Illinois about five years ago. As such, he may lend a varied viewpoint to council deliberations.

Pryal, who has served an internship on the council as an appointee during the past year, as a pharmacist and businessman logically might represent a different view point, perhaps providing leadership in problems the city faces in its central business area. His experience as a professional man also should be invaluable.

Pearson, at least in terms of years, will be the senior member of the new city council and he brings with him the experience and knowledge of nearly three sometimes stormy years on the Area Board of Education. Council's gain is the school board's loss, but if Pearson can do anything to bring about a greater cooperation between the two groups the city and school district both may wind up winners.

The fifth member of the council is Cecil Chase, an employe of Clairmont Transfer Co. who brings as much dedication to his job as anyone.

Hopefully, the five men will be able to work together for the good of the community. The campaign is over now. Monday, the new Council will meet to reorganize and elect a mayor. Next Thursday, the firing starts in earnest. And the council's work is cut out.

Immediately, the budget is at hand. There is a $6 million water and wastewater treatment program. The yacht harbor needs improvements.

What does the city plan to do about the municipal dock? How about traffic flow in the city, particularly in downtown Escanaba and in the area of the new shopping center? There is need to expand the electric generating capabilities.

How about the ice arena? Can the city assist?

What about the airport? The snow removal difficulties of winter 69-70 apparently are gone, but winter 70-71 must be considered. County operation should be explored anew, in fact, greater cooperation between city and county government should be given a long, hard look from both ends.

The challenge of the 1970s is just beginning. It's up to the five men in the council chairs to lead the way.

Peninsula Potpourri

Harris Kahl, veteran school administrator with 35 years of experience in the tri-county area, resigned as superintendent of the Rudyard School system, effective June 30. He will remain as consultant to the Rudyard system and expects to continue living at his home in Rudyard.

Visitors to Fort Wilkins State Park this year will find an enlarged park store and remodeled nature museum, according to Park Supervisor Ike Lundberg. Books, brochures and pamphlets pertaining to the fort, Keweenawland, the Copper Country and Upper Peninsula will be available.

Snowmobilers in the Wakefield area think that Raymond Kahila may have set some sort of a record for distance traveled in one season. Kahila logged 5,700 miles this winter and has a two-year mark of 10,100 miles. His longest trip was 140 miles, traversing the territory through Silver City, White Pine and Bergland, his favorite route. He travels both day and night from November to April. This year he went through 410 gallons of gasoline and 82 quarts of oil, averaging 13.9 miles on a gallon of gas and 71 miles on a quart of oil. Kahila, who is a construction worker in the summertime, last worked at Copper Peak, has been a snowmobile enthusiast for four years.

"CALL FOR MR. U THANT!"

Bold U.S. Approach Needed In Mid-East

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The politics of oil and the Middle Eastern policy of Secretary William Roger's State Department seem inextricably mixed. But nothing in our teeter-totter Middle Eastern diplomacy seems to be thought through.

We try to offend nobody, neither the Arabs nor the Israelis, and we end up by offending everybody. Jittery about our big oil investments in Libya and in the Arabian peninsula, we fail to give real solid backing to Israel, denying that plucky little country 35 Phantom jets that may be needed, at some point along the line, to counter the steady flow of armaments (including the new SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles) that the Russians keep sending to Egypt's Nasser.

But if the Arabs ever get the jump on Israel — and we must remember that the Israelis, with their tiny living space, can't afford to lose even a single battle — our eastern oil investments will collapse overnight.

Without a strong Israel, the Russians, using the Arabs as their front, stand to take over the whole Middle East. Their fleets would dominate the eastern Mediterranean, the Red Sea, and even the Indian Ocean.

Paradoxically, the Occidental oil interests in Libya, for example, depend on Israel's continued existence. As long as there is a balance of power between Arab and Israeli in the Middle East, tense though it may be, the attractiveness of our technological oil know-how and our capital can do something to protect our stake in Arab oil. But if Israel falls, and the balance of power collapses, the Russians, probably with the help of the French, would pick our bones all the way from Algeria to the Persian Gulf.

In a half-hearted way the Nixon Administration recognizes the dangers we run. Realizing that it would be imbecilic to put ousselves at the mercy of the Arabs — and the Russians — for our oil supply, Nixon has shelved the recommendations of his task force on oil import control.

The task force panel, headed by Secretary of Labor Schultz, had recommended a switch to a tariff system which would have made imported oil to our East Coast consumers more plentiful and cheaper than the present quota system allows. In a world without dangerous power politics there would be no legitimate argument against free trade in oil.

But when the marauders of Communism threaten to close the seas, it would be dangerous to tie our oil consumers to dependence on a foreign product even though they might save a few dollars on it for the short run.

So we continue to encourage the domestic oil industry. By enabling the domestic business to continue operating the more marginal stripper wells, which account for approximately 30 per cent of all domestic oil, we keep the industry profitable.

Oil exploration capital continues to be raised on a complicated tax shelter basis by companies such as Inexco, King Resources, Buttes Oil and Gas Prudential and Apache, which can show funded people how to limit their risk in playing for big oil profits. (Oil, cattle, and real estate are three inflation-proof items that can withstand almost any market debacle.)

The very existence of oil on the Alaskan North Slope, even though the decision for a clearance of the Trans Alaska Pipeline languishes, is a heartening assurance that the Arabs — and their Russian supporters — won't be able to hit us in the solar plexus so far as fuel is concerned.

But we don't use the prospect of a western hemisphere oil sufficiency to any effect when it comes to our diplomatic dealings in the Middle East. Instead of letting the Arabs worry lest we declare our total oil independence, we seem to be doing the worrying.

It would be a more effective diplomacy if we coupled a forthright support of Israel with a policy of blaring to the Arab world our successes in opening great new oil fields in Alaska and in sending ice-smasher tankers such as the Manhattan through the Northwest Passage.

Congressman Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut sees the virtue of coupling strong support for Israel with a correspondingly tough diplomatic representation to Nasser that, while we are glad to have access to Arab oil, we don't need it on any blackmail terms.

In life, the Milquetoast approach betrays the stigmata of the born loser. In international diplomacy, the same rule holds. We should be bold in our approach to the Middle East.

Veteran Space Pilot Will Guide Apollo 13

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The world's most experienced space pilot will be at the controls for man's third, and most dangerous, landing on the moon.

James A. Lovell Jr., a 42-year-old Navy captain who has spent more time in space than anybody, will guide the Apollo 13 lunar module to the first manned landing in the rugged highlands of the moon.

Apollo 13 is the fourth space flight in eight years for Lovell. No other man has made as many flights into space or stayed there as long.

Last Career Trip

The moon mission also is the finale for Lovell's space career. He has announced he'll retire from space flying after Apollo 13.

"I feel that I've had more than my share of spaceflight," says Lovell. "I think in my career I've touched on every aspect of space flight that we have done."

Apollo 13 will be Lovell's second moon trip. He was the command module pilot on Apollo 8, which orbited the moon for the first time.

On Longest Voyage

He was also aboard for the longest space voyage, the flight of Gemini 7 in 1965. Lovell and Frank Borman orbited the earth 14 days to test man's ability to live in space.

Lovell was commander of Gemini 12, the last of the Gemini missions. The four-day flight included the first rendezvous using on-board computations.

After the two Gemini flights and the Apollo 8 lunar orbit, Lovell was asked if he had had enough.

"It'll be hard for an encore after going around the moon for 10 times and coming home," he said. But later he added: "I want to command a moon landing mission."

Will Quiet Addiction

Apollo 13 is that mission and Lovell believes it will quiet what he calls his "addiction to space flight."

Where once he talked excitedly of more space adventure, Lovell, now speaks of trips with his family and of working with the space agency from behind a desk.

"It seems like ever since 1962 I've been either going on a flight or off one," he says. "My wife is pretty happy that I can slow down a little bit and not either be training or debriefing and going into training again."

Milwaukee Native

Lovell grew up in Milwaukee where he showed an early, and almost disastrous, fascination with aviation and rockets.

He recalls that he and a high school friend once constructed model rockets using packing casings with gunpowder and glue. One of the home built missiles exploded on launch, he says and he and the friend narrowly escaped injury.

Lovell tried for the U.S. Naval Academy after high school graduation but was rejected.

Instead, he enrolled in the University of Wisconsin and joined the Naval Air Cadet program. He dropped out of college after his sophomore year and began naval flight training at Pensacola, Fla.

Academy Appointment

But within two months he received an appointment to the Naval Academy, left flight training and headed for Annapolis.

As a midshipman, Lovell "was far from a bookworm," says a classmate, but he still managed grades well above average.

He married Marilyn Gerlach of Milwaukee, three hours after his graduation. Lovell and Marilyn had dated since their high school days.

The newlyweds went to Pensacola, Fla., where Lovell started his flight training again.

Lovell was a test pilot at the Naval Air Test Center in Patuxent River, Md., when the space agency asked for applications for America's first group of astronauts.

Passed Over

He was among the first in line, but was passed over. When second selection was announced, he again applied and was in the astronaut group chosen in 1962.

Six years later, Lovell, Borman and William A Anders stunned the world by orbiting the moon 10 times on Christmas Eve.

They beamed earthward a television view of the moon from 60 miles above its surface. In a Christmas time gesture, the three spacemen read the first 10 verses of the Bible, the story of creation.

Rocket Fires

On its 10th lunar orbit, Apollo 8 disappeared around the backside of the moon as Lovell was preparing to fire the rocket engine to start homeward. If the rocket failed, the astronauts would be stranded about the moon.

For more than 40 minutes listeners on earth waited tensely to learn if the rocket had worked.

They learned it from Lovell. As Apollo 8 reappeared from behind the moon, he quipped from 223,000 miles out in space: "Please be informed there is a Santa Claus."

Trio Lands Safely

Two and half days later, the three astronauts landed safely in the Pacific. Borman and Anders had had enough. They dropped from the space corps within a few months.

Lovell, Fred Haise Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II served as the back-up crew for Apollo 11, the first moon-landing mission.

After that success, the trio were named to Apollo 13.

Lovell's plans to retire as an astronaut are a relief to Marilyn Lovell.

"Each space flight is more difficult. I can't explain why," says the astronaut's wife. "I'm behind him, but I'll be very happy when he retires from space."

The Lovells live in a two-story house in a lakeside community not far from the Manned Spacecraft Center. Most of the other astronauts live nearby.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

EMBARRASSED ANNOUNCER

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) —The announcer on Rhodesia's only television channel began a news item about an African wanted for housebreaking. As he said police were appealing for information about the man, on the screen flashed a picture of Chief Leabua Jonathan, prime minister of the tiny African kingdom of Lesotho. "It was just one of those things," mumbled an embarrassed station spokesman.

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

Let's say you're East, defending against four spades. Partner leads the queen of diamonds, dummy following low, and continues with the jack, which South ruffs. Declarer enters dummy with a spade to the ace and returns a heart.

If you make the mistake of following low, South makes the contract. His jack forces West's ace and there is nothing your partner can return to harm declarer.

A heart lead to your king would be futile, since it would make South's queen a trick and permit him to discard one of dummy's clubs on the queen. A club return would be equally fruitless, while a diamond return would also accomplish nothing, since declarer could build up a heart trick all by himself.

But if you climb up with the king when the heart is first led from dummy and return a club, the story is altogether different. South winds up losing two hearts, a diamond and a club — and down he goes.

Now how in the world are you supposed to know that you should go up with the king of hearts at trick four? It seems to be a difficult play to make without seeing all four hands, especially because it violates the rule of second hand low.

Yet, actually, the king play is entirely logical. You can tell from seeing dummy that the only real hope of acquiring four tricks on defense is to assume that your partner has a trick in hearts and a trick in clubs.

If declarer has the A-Q of hearts, your king is dead regardless of what you do, so you might as well put up the monarch and hope for the best. When the king wins the trick, returning a club is like adding some icing to the cake.

Organ Transplant Gives Woman Jitters

Dear Ann Landers: All this talk about transplanting organs has me worried sick. For personal and religious reasons I don't want any of my parts removed after I die. I want to meet my Maker intact.

Why should the dean of Harvard Medical School or my next of kin have access to my heart or kidneys or eyes?

I have no objections to anyone else giving up their parts if they want to, but I do not choose to do so myself. How can I make sure it won't happen? — Anchorage Reader

Dear Ann Landers: On occasion you reprint poems sent in by readers. I've been saving this one for years. It was written by Betty Billipp. I'm sure there's as much truth as poetry here. Please print it.

"No child of mine, I used to cry,
Before the stork had fluttered
Will ever throw a temper fit.
by,
Or bite or scratch or whine or
hit.
Or wear a diaper till he's three
Or sit for hours and watch TV
Or dawdle so he makes me late
Or leave his spinach on the

Or act, in short, like other kids
Who've made their parents flip
their lids.
But with the patter of baby feet
Are 40 million words to eat."

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a reader wrote complaining about doctors — their fancy cars, trips to Europe, etc. I would like to use your column to say "Thank you" to a doctor in Grant, Nebraska.

His "office" is in his home and his hours are when you need him. Believe it or not, he even makes house calls. I know personally of times he has driven 25 miles at 2 a.m. to see a patient and then brought him to the hospital in his own car, which is a Ford not a Cadillac. I know of one hospital patient who was so upset he couldn't sleep. When the nurse called for special orders Dr. C. came to the hospital at 4:30 a.m. to talk with the patient.

Dr. isn't a young man anymore. His wife is his office nurse and assistant. You pay him when you can and he never duns you.

I know there aren't many doctors like Dr. C. and I want everyone to know how much we appreciate him. Grant, Nebraska

Dear Friend: I'll bet Dr. C. will have a busy telephone today! My best wishes to you — and to him.

New Leaders

Politically, quite a fuss was made several months ago as the United States closed out the "Soaring Sixties" and embarked into a new decade. President Richard Nixon talked about the programs of the 10 years ahead. So did Gov William Milliken of Michigan. A census was scheduled to count up the people and some of their problems. It was time to revitalize the nation, to assess the advances and setbacks of the 1960s and to move forward.

But few people in Escanaba then realized just how important 1970, all by itself, will be to the future of the community.

Before the year is over, voters of the city will have cast ballots in at least five elections. The first of those elections is history as three councilmen were put into office Monday. Still to come is the Escanaba Area public schools Board of Education election, a millage proposal of some type from the school board, the state primary and finally the general state election. And when the balloting is over, in addition to the city council, voters will have decided on the composition of the school board, the financial stability of the school district, a state representative, a state senator, state officers including the governor, a United States Congressman and a U. S. Senator. The question of aid to non-public schools also may be settled in Michigan if a petition drive to place a Constitutional amendment on the November ballot is successful.

In retrospect, voters of Escanaba appear to have done a reasonable job in Monday's Municipal election, choosing a banker, pharmacist and a businessman to help govern the city for at least the next two years. Ron DeVos, the banker, and Albin (Bud) Pearson Jr., the businessman, will be around for four year terms. Richard Pryal, the pharmacist, won the right to serve the final two years of an unexpired term.

Voters could have elected any of the eight candidates and received honest representation, but there is indication that the new composition of the council will give it a balance that might not have been achieved with other combinations.

DeVos, who along with incumbent Councilmen Robert Bink might be classed as "The Young Lions" of the community on the basis of their agressive involvement in community affairs, is a relative newcomer to the community, moving here from Illinois about five years ago. As such, he may lend a varied viewpoint to council deliberations.

Pryal, who has served an internship on the council as an appointee during the past year, as a pharmacist and businessman logically might represent a different view point, perhaps providing leadership in problems the city faces in its central business area. His experience as a professional man also should be invaluable.

Pearson, at least in terms of years, will be the senior member of the new city council and he brings with him the experience and knowledge of nearly three sometimes stormy years on the Area Board of Education. Council's gain is the school board's loss, but if Pearson can do anything to bring about a greater cooperation between the two groups the city and school district both may wind up winners.

The fifth member of the council is Cecil Chase, an employe of Clairmont Transfer Co. who brings as much dedication to his job as anyone.

Hopefully, the five men will be able to work together for the good of the community. The campaign is over now. Monday, the new Council will meet to reorganize and elect a mayor. Next Thursday, the firing starts in earnest. And the council's work is cut out.

Immediately, the budget is at hand. There is a $6 million water and wastewater treatment program. The yacht harbor needs improvements.

What does the city plan to do about the municipal dock? How about traffic flow in the city, particularly in downtown Escanaba and in the area of the new shopping center? There is need to expand the electric generating capabilities.

How about the ice arena? Can the city assist?

What about the airport? The snow removal difficulties of winter 69-70 apparently are gone, but winter 70-71 must be considered. County operation should be explored anew, in fact, greater cooperation between city and county government should be given a long, hard look from both ends.

The challenge of the 1970s is just beginning. It's up to the five men in the council chairs to lead the way.

Peninsula Potpourri

Harris Kahl, veteran school administrator with 35 years of experience in the tri-county area, resigned as superintendent of the Rudyard School system, effective June 30. He will remain as consultant to the Rudyard system and expects to continue living at his home in Rudyard.

Visitors to Fort Wilkins State Park this year will find an enlarged park store and remodeled nature museum, according to Park Supervisor Ike Lundberg. Books, brochures and pamphlets pertaining to the fort, Keweenawland, the Copper Country and Upper Peninsula will be available.

Snowmobilers in the Wakefield area think that Raymond Kahila may have set some sort of a record for distance traveled in one season. Kahila logged 5,700 miles this winter and has a two-year mark of 10,100 miles. His longest trip was 140 miles, traversing the territory through Silver City, White Pine and Bergland, his favorite route. He travels both day and night from November to April. This year he went through 410 gallons of gasoline and 82 quarts of oil, averaging 13.9 miles on a gallon of gas and 71 miles on a quart of oil. Kahila, who is a construction worker in the summertime, last worked at Copper Peak, has been a snowmobile enthusiast for four years.

"CALL FOR MR. U THANT!"

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The politics of oil and the Middle Eastern policy of Secretary William Roger's State Department seem inextricably mixed. But nothing in our teeter-totter Middle Eastern diplomacy seems to be thought through.

We try to offend nobody, neither the Arabs nor the Israelis, and we end up by offending everybody. Jittery about our big oil investments in Libya and in the Arabian peninsula, we fail to give real solid backing to Israel, denying that plucky little country 35 Phantom jets that may be needed, at some point along the line, to counter the steady flow of armaments (including the new SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles) that the Russians keep sending to Egypt's Nasser.

But if the Arabs ever get the jump on Israel — and we must remember that the Israelis, with their tiny living space, can't afford to lose even a single battle — our eastern oil investments will collapse overnight.

Without a strong Israel, the Russians, using the Arabs as their front, stand to take over the whole Middle East. Their fleets would dominate the eastern Mediterranean, the Red Sea, and even the Indian Ocean.

Paradoxically, the Occidental oil interests in Libya, for example, depend on Israel's continued existence. As long as there is a balance of power between Arab and Israeli in the Middle East, tense though it may be, the attractiveness of our technological oil know-how and our capital can do something to protect our stake in Arab oil. But if Israel falls, and the balance of power collapses, the Russians, probably with the help of the French, would pick our bones all the way from Algeria to the Persian Gulf.

In a half-hearted way the Nixon Administration recognizes the dangers we run. Realizing that it would be imbecilic to put ousselves at the mercy of the Arabs — and the Russians — for our oil supply, Nixon has shelved the recommendations of his task force on oil import control.

The task force panel, headed by Secretary of Labor Schultz, had recommended a switch to a tariff system which would have made imported oil to our East Coast consumers more plentiful and cheaper than the present quota system allows. In a world without dangerous power politics there would be no legitimate argument against free trade in oil.

But when the marauders of Communism threaten to close the seas, it would be dangerous to tie our oil consumers to dependence on a foreign product even though they might save a few dollars on it for the short run.

So we continue to encourage the domestic oil industry. By enabling the domestic business to continue operating the more marginal stripper wells, which account for approximately 30 per cent of all domestic oil, we keep the industry profitable.

Oil exploration capital continues to be raised on a complicated tax shelter basis by companies such as Inexco, King Resources, Buttes Oil and Gas Prudential and Apache, which can show funded people how to limit their risk in playing for big oil profits. (Oil, cattle, and real estate are three inflation-proof items that can withstand almost any market debacle.)

The very existence of oil on the Alaskan North Slope, even though the decision for a clearance of the Trans Alaska Pipeline languishes, is a heartening assurance that the Arabs — and their Russian supporters — won't be able to hit us in the solar plexus so far as fuel is concerned.

But we don't use the prospect of a western hemisphere oil sufficiency to any effect when it comes to our diplomatic dealings in the Middle East. Instead of letting the Arabs worry lest we declare our total oil independence, we seem to be doing the worrying.

It would be a more effective diplomacy if we coupled a forthright support of Israel with a policy of blaring to the Arab world our successes in opening great new oil fields in Alaska and in sending ice-smasher tankers such as the Manhattan through the Northwest Passage.

Congressman Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut sees the virtue of coupling strong support for Israel with a correspondingly tough diplomatic representation to Nasser that, while we are glad to have access to Arab oil, we don't need it on any blackmail terms.

In life, the Milquetoast approach betrays the stigmata of the born loser. In international diplomacy, the same rule holds. We should be bold in our approach to the Middle East.

EMBARRASSED ANNOUNCER

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) —The announcer on Rhodesia's only television channel began a news item about an African wanted for housebreaking. As he said police were appealing for information about the man, on the screen flashed a picture of Chief Leabua Jonathan, prime minister of the tiny African kingdom of Lesotho. "It was just one of those things," mumbled an embarrassed station spokesman.

Veteran Space Pilot Will Guide Apollo 13

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The world's most experienced space pilot will be at the controls for man's third, and most dangerous, landing on the moon.

James A. Lovell Jr., a 42-year-old Navy captain who has spent more time in space than anybody, will guide the Apollo 13 lunar module to the first manned landing in the rugged highlands of the moon.

Apollo 13 is the fourth space flight in eight years for Lovell. No other man has made as many flights into space or stayed there as long.

Last Career Trip

The moon mission also is the finale for Lovell's space career. He has announced he'll retire from space flying after Apollo 13.

"I feel that I've had more than my share of spaceflight," says Lovell. "I think in my career I've touched on every aspect of space flight that we have done."

Apollo 13 will be Lovell's second moon trip. He was the command module pilot on Apollo 8, which orbited the moon for the first time.

On Longest Voyage

He was also aboard for the longest space voyage, the flight of Gemini 7 in 1965. Lovell and Frank Borman orbited the earth 14 days to test man's ability to live in space.

Lovell was commander of Gemini 12, the last of the Gemini missions. The four-day flight included the first rendezvous using on-board computations.

After the two Gemini flights and the Apollo 8 lunar orbit, Lovell was asked if he had had enough.

"It'll be hard for an encore after going around the moon for 10 times and coming home," he said. But later he added: "I want to command a moon landing mission."

Will Quiet Addiction

Apollo 13 is that mission and Lovell believes it will quiet what he calls his "addiction to space flight."

Where once he talked excitedly of more space adventure, Lovell, now speaks of trips with his family and of working with the space agency from behind a desk.

"It seems like ever since 1962 I've been either going on a flight or off one," he says. "My wife is pretty happy that I can slow down a little bit and not either be training or debriefing and going into training again."

Milwaukee Native

Lovell grew up in Milwaukee where he showed an early, and almost disastrous, fascination with aviation and rockets.

He recalls that he and a high school friend once constructed model rockets using packing casings with gunpowder and glue. One of the home built missiles exploded on launch, he says and he and the friend narrowly escaped injury.

Lovell tried for the U.S. Naval Academy after high school graduation but was rejected.

Instead, he enrolled in the University of Wisconsin and joined the Naval Air Cadet program. He dropped out of college after his sophomore year and began naval flight training at Pensacola, Fla.

Academy Appointment

But within two months he received an appointment to the Naval Academy, left flight training and headed for Annapolis.

As a midshipman, Lovell "was far from a bookworm," says a classmate, but he still managed grades well above average.

He married Marilyn Gerlach of Milwaukee, three hours after his graduation. Lovell and Marilyn had dated since their high school days.

The newlyweds went to Pensacola, Fla., where Lovell started his flight training again.

Lovell was a test pilot at the Naval Air Test Center in Patuxent River, Md., when the space agency asked for applications for America's first group of astronauts.

Passed Over

He was among the first in line, but was passed over. When second selection was announced, he again applied and was in the astronaut group chosen in 1962.

Six years later, Lovell, Borman and William A Anders stunned the world by orbiting the moon 10 times on Christmas Eve.

They beamed earthward a television view of the moon from 60 miles above its surface. In a Christmas time gesture, the three spacemen read the first 10 verses of the Bible, the story of creation.

Rocket Fires

On its 10th lunar orbit, Apollo 8 disappeared around the backside of the moon as Lovell was preparing to fire the rocket engine to start homeward. If the rocket failed, the astronauts would be stranded about the moon.

For more than 40 minutes listeners on earth waited tensely to learn if the rocket had worked.

They learned it from Lovell. As Apollo 8 reappeared from behind the moon, he quipped from 223,000 miles out in space: "Please be informed there is a Santa Claus."

Trio Lands Safely

Two and half days later, the three astronauts landed safely in the Pacific. Borman and Anders had had enough. They dropped from the space corps within a few months.

Lovell, Fred Haise Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II served as the back-up crew for Apollo 11, the first moon-landing mission.

After that success, the trio were named to Apollo 13.

Lovell's plans to retire as an astronaut are a relief to Marilyn Lovell.

"Each space flight is more difficult. I can't explain why," says the astronaut's wife. "I'm behind him, but I'll be very happy when he retires from space."

The Lovells live in a two-story house in a lakeside community not far from the Manned Spacecraft Center. Most of the other astronauts live nearby.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

Let's say you're East, defending against four spades. Partner leads the queen of diamonds, dummy following low, and continues with the jack, which South ruffs. Declarer enters dummy with a spade to the ace and returns a heart.

If you make the mistake of following low, South makes the contract. His jack forces West's ace and there is nothing your partner can return to harm declarer.

A heart lead to your king would be futile, since it would make South's queen a trick and permit him to discard one of dummy's clubs on the queen. A club return would be equally fruitless, while a diamond return would also accomplish nothing, since declarer could build up a heart trick all by himself.

But if you climb up with the king when the heart is first led from dummy and return a club, the story is altogether different. South winds up losing two hearts, a diamond and a club — and down he goes.

Now how in the world are you supposed to know that you should go up with the king of hearts at trick four? It seems to be a difficult play to make without seeing all four hands, especially because it violates the rule of second hand low.

Yet, actually, the king play is entirely logical. You can tell from seeing dummy that the only real hope of acquiring four tricks on defense is to assume that your partner has a trick in hearts and a trick in clubs.

If declarer has the A-Q of hearts, your king is dead regardless of what you do, so you might as well put up the monarch and hope for the best. When the king wins the trick, returning a club is like adding some icing to the cake.

Organ Transplant Gives Woman Jitters

Dear Ann Landers: All this talk about transplanting organs has me worried sick. For personal and religious reasons I don't want any of my parts removed after I die. I want to meet my Maker intact.

Why should the dean of Harvard Medical School or my next of kin have access to my heart or kidneys or eyes?

I have no objections to anyone else giving up their parts if they want to, but I do not choose to do so myself. How can I make sure it won't happen? — Anchorage Reader

Dear Anc: Put it in your will.

Dear Ann Landers: On occasion you reprint poems sent in by readers. I've been saving this one for years. It was written by Betty Billipp. I'm sure there's as much truth as poetry here. Please print it.

"No child of mine, I used to cry,
Before the stork had fluttered
Will ever throw a temper fit.
by,
Or bite or scratch or whine or hit.
Or wear a diaper till he's three
Or sit for hours and watch TV
Or dawdle so he makes me late
Or leave his spinach on the plate.
Or act, in short, like other kids
Who've made their parents flip their lids.
But with the patter of baby feet
Are 40 million words to eat."

Any parent who is honest will appreciate this. — Mrs. D. H. J.

Cyanide Leakage Into Lake Causes Uproar Downstate

LUDINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of gallons of deadly cyanide were released into Lake Michigan some three weeks ago, and officials were at odds today over whether the public could have been endangered by the leakage.

Leakage Made Public

Leakage of the poison was first made public at a Ludington City Council meeting Monday night when the council asked local plating companies to provide emergency waste disposal systems so nothing similar could happen again.

"I'm no chemist," said Ken Baars, manager of the Ludington sewer treatment plant, "but if someone were to drink that water, they'd have been done."

Baars said if the leak had occurred during the summer months, anyone swimming near the plant's outlet or drinking water from the outlet could have been killed.

However, Donald Pierce, chief of the Waste Water Department of the State Public Health Department said that as far as could be determined the spillage did not endanger Ludington's water supply.

Water Inlet Nearby

The spillage occurred March 15, and according to a spokesman at the Straits Steel and Wire Co. from 800 to 1,000 gallons of eight per cent cyanide solution escaped when electrolitic action ate a hole in a 12,000-gallon holding tank.

When asked why there was no public announcement that the cyanide had been released, Ludington Mayor Robert Overholt said:

"I'm not sure. There have been a couple of council meetisgs since then."

Baars said a report from a state laboratory indicated there were 180 parts per million of cyanide coming into the sewer plant that night and 80 going out —despite heavy treatment with chlorine at t he plant that Sunday night.

Goes Into Lake

He said the cyanide went into nearby Pere Marquette Lake and eventually into Lake Michigan.

"We knocked out 100 parts of it, but still this is awfully potent for any stream," Baars said, adding:

"I'd hate to go through it again."

He added that the situation might have been far more serious if the leak and had not been noticed quickly and the sewage plant informed so that it could begin treatment at once.

Even so, Baars estimated that 80 parts per million of cyanide remained in the effluent when it reached Lake Michigan.

No Dead Fish

Surprisingly, he said, weeks of tramping beaches near the plating plant outlet and the outlet for the sewage plan' have not disclosed a single dead fish.

"I've been unable to find that any fish were killed, Baars said. "Personally, I believe there just weren't any fish there."

Baars said he doesn't believe anyone wanted to keep the release of the poison secret. He said county Health officials and the State Department of Natural Resources were notified immediately.

City Manager James Cartier also denied any effort to hide the information and added that city officials wanted "evidence so this couldn't be covered up."

Chlorine Being Used

Cartier added that the city protected the lakes "to the best of our ability — we were pouring chlorine to it at full capacity."

He said he questioned whether any cyanide as such got into Lake Michigan at all.

An official for the steel company said the cyanide tank burst "while we were standing there."

The spokesman, who asked the Ludington sewer system got about 800 to 1,000 gallons of cyanide before the plant managed to stuff rags into the leak and stopped it.

"As soon as we found the leak, we called the sewer plant so they could begin treating it."

Began On Sunday

He said it was lucky that the leak occurred on a Sunday morning when little water is used, so that about three hours elapsed before any of the cyanide actually got to the treatment plant.

"Cyanide tanks don't break," he said, "You never have an accident like that — but we did."

The official added that the company had a construction company on the scene within 25 minutes to begin pumping the rest of the tank into another storage tank, and the sewer is now plugged when the plant is closed each night.

Official Criticized

Pierce, the State Health Department official, was sharply critical of the city's handling of industry pollution. He said Ludington has been giving soft treatment to industry

"We have been working with the city for six years or more to strengthen t h e i r backbone," Pierce said in a telephone interview. "It seems every time we think things are under control, some months later another incident happens."

Pierce said that in the past there had been more than one industry involved in Ludington.

"About four in the town have created this kind of problem," he contended.

"It seems to me that the industrial management people are not taking the matter seriously enough to undertake steps to put in positive control measures so that they won't have a loss to the city sewer system from time to time."

Similar Incidents

Mayor Overholt said similar incidents had happened "a couple of times in the past, and we had fish killed—but there is a lot of water out there."

He said no humans have been affected by the latest or earlier discharges of cyanide.

The mayor said thus far there have been no public protests because the public was not informed about the leakage of cyanide.

"But maybe there will be now that the press is checking into it," he said. "Maybe we need a little public pressure sometimes. I'm not unhappy that it's out and whatever public opinion or pressure t hat comes, we'll be thankful for."

CHARTER OFFICERS of District 1 of the Michigan Association of Counties were elected at an organizational meeting in Marquette. They are, seated, from left, Theodore Mattson Sr., Ishpeming, secretary-treasurer; Frank Stupak, Gladstone, vice president, and Nelson Cook, Sault Ste Marie, president; and standing, from left, Lindsley Frenette, Gulliver, director, and Wendell Sanders, Dickinson County, also a director. Time Change Due April 26

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States' "annual bout with confusion" is due at 2 a. m. on April 26, when many Americans will advance clocks, watches and other timepieces by one hour, marking the beginning of daylight saving time.

The confusion stems from the fact that not all Americans will switch to the new time. For example, in 1966, before Congress passed a law standardizing DST, more than 100 million citizens living in 20 states made the annual time change, but more than 80 million other Americans either did not go on DST at all or did so on a later date in the spring.

There were then 18 states that observed DST on a statewide basis, 18 other states where some communities observed it, and isolated communities across the country that observed "wildcat DST," a sort of voluntary compliance without formal legal sanction.

Today 47 states (excluding Michigan, Arizona and Hawaii) officially observe DST, although scattered communities within them do not.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

THIS EARLY PICTURE taken about 1930 in Chippewa County is typical of much of the land purchased to make up the Hiawatha National Forest. Reforestation and fire control has brought most of this "waste land" back into production. It is fast approaching the day when it will contribute its fair share to the support of local governments. The Federal Government through the Forest Service spends 7.6 cents per acre each year for fire control and to prevent reoccurance of scenes like that in the picture above. Fire control is another cost which the state and local governments do not have inside the National Forest.

By L. E. HAACK

Forester U. S. Forest Service

Much has been said about the impact they have on the economic and social life of the communities.

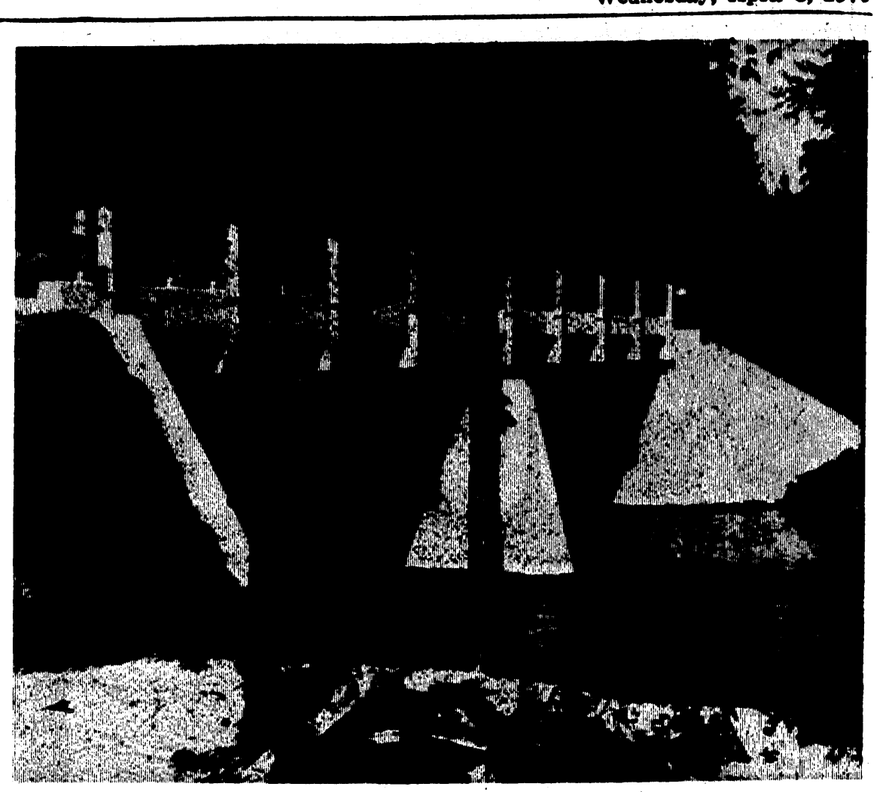
It is true that the cash returns to the counties for national Forest land is less than the ad valorem tax. However, this is only part of the picture.

Improvements and investments made by the Forest Service needed to return this land to productivity and to make it available to the people also contribute to the economy.

Returns on these investments are increasing each year. They include road construction and maintenance, recreation area construction and maintenance, reforestation and fire control. These contributions far exceed the ad valorem tax.

In 1969, on the Hiawatha National Forest, they equaled $1.35 per acre. This was in addition to the 25% of National Forest receipts paid to the counties as cash payments.

(The accompanying pictures illustrate the growth and development of the Hiawatha National Forest to its present productiveness and the promise of greater public contributions. The Hiawatha National Forest includes areas in Delta, Alger, Schoolcraft, Mackinac and Chippewa counties.)



THIS BRIDGE BUILT over the Sturgeon River is an example of road and bridge projects financed and built by the Forest Service. The construction and maintenance of roads on the National Forest are a saving to the local governments. Last year the Hiawatha built an additional 14.8 miles of road and maintained 663 miles. How much did these activities contribute to the betterment of the eastern U. P.? The total maineanance and construction cost amounted to 92.3 cents for each acre of Hiawatha National Forest land.

TREES PLANTED 30 or 35 years ago contributed to the 33 million board feet of timber sold last year. The timber is cut by local labor, hauled over roads built by the Forest Service and most of it finds its way to local mills to give added jobs to local communities. In 1969 the reforestation and timber stand improvement programs contributed a total of 12.6 cents per acre. An additional 1,389,000 trees were planted and the quality of high value hardwoods was improved for future harvest.

THE CONSTRUCTION and maintenance of the 28 recreation areas on the National Forest is accomplished with federal funds and by personnel who live in the area. The cost of this construction and maintenance equaled 23.3 cents for each acre of National Forest land in 1969. In this year there was over 1½ million visitor days of recreational use making a sizable contribution to the economy, if the conservative figure of $7.00 spent per day per person is used.

Detroit Council Asked To Reject Marchers' Permit

DETROIT (AP) — Patrick Murphy, commissioner of police in Detroit, asked the common council to deny anti-war marchers permission to hold a rally at Kennedy Square on April 15.

In a letter to the council Murphy said he wanted the group to disband at the foot of Woodward Ave. rather than at the square to avoid, "mass confusion" and "possible belligerent confrontations" between marchers and those that disagree with their views.

James Lafferty, co-chairman of the Detroit Coalition to End the War Now, said in a letter to the council that "I trust the common council will recognize, as we do, that we have the right to assemble at Kennedy Square and engage in a peaceful protest, which is our intention."

The council invited both sides to a meeting Tuesday night to discuss the situation.

Television Set Of Future Built

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Ten California Institute of Technology students have built, as they see it, the television set of the future.

By pushing buttons-like choosing a tune on a tavern jukebox-you'd get what you want in education, news and entertainment. Each category could be triggered with a hand-held control into almost limitless subdivisions.

Education would tutor everyone from preschool toddlers to college-graduate specialists. You could have a general news summary or the latest in any one field—stock market, religion, politics, etc.

Choices under entertainment, on the mock-up model, are "Low-Brow Drama," "High-Brow Drama," "Low-Brow Comedy," "High-Brow Comedy," "Travelogues," "Cartoons" and "Sports."

News would appear either printed or pictorial. At your command, a news sheet would roll out the front, electronically printed and including subjects of your choice.

"All the technology for this exists today," said Ira Moskatel, 19, physics major, editor of the campus weekly and one of the model builders.

Another, Jim Black, 20, electrical engineering major, explained a category labeled "Community Matrix." Through it viewers at home could hold a town meeting-and click their votes to a headquarters on their hand controls. Political candidates' latest pronouncements on issues could be instantly rerun. From home, housewives could see wares and prices at the supermarket.

Beck said more sophisticated models than their design could be in use by the year they have picked-1999. Screens probably would be flat, and portable like mirrors.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Toledo Worker Raps Questions On Census Form

ERIE (AP) — Because he thinks it is "an invasion of privacy and not very American," a 31-year-old factory worker has sent his long-form census questionnaire back without including what he considers "personal information."

James T. Manning, who lives in Erie and works in nearby Toledo, Ohio, said Tuesday he doesn't want "to become a martyr" and isn't in "financial condition to stand a fine." But he doesn't know yet what he'll do "if it comes to a final confrontation" with government agents.

He filled out the names, ages and relationships of everyone in his home, but he skipped the other questions, "because I felt they were getting out of hand."

"When the government starts piling up information like this on everyone," he added, "I don't think it's very American. I sure agree with two fellows in Delaware who called it (the long questionnaire) 'an invasion of privacy, probably unconstitutional and big-brotherism at its worst.'

"I wish I had the money to pay a fine and fight the questions to a finish.

"I called the Census Bureau in Toledo and asked what they would do. They told me they'd send a census taker to my home. I would have no objection to giving the information anonymously and I guess the answers could be of some statistical benefit to the government. Right now I'm just waiting."

Mrs. Hart Fears Her Conviction May Hurt Mate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Jane Hart, wife of Sen. Philip S. Hart, D-Mich., says she is concerned that her conviction for participating in a disturbance at the Pentagon last fall may affect her husband's chances for re-election in November.

"Some people will not vote for him but others will because of this," she said.

Mrs. Hart called Tuesday's verdict "a surprise and a disappointment," but said her husband agreed that an "appeal to a higher court is the right course to follow."

She told a news conference she didn't feel that the trial was unfair. "The judge conducted it as he should have done," she said.

Bark River High School Hosts Chilean Students

BARK RIVER — Two girls from Chile are being sponsored by Youths for Understanding International at the Bark River-Harris High School this term.

Ximema attended a catholic School, Monjas Francesas, a three story building, having an attendance of approximately 1,000 students, six days a week from 8:10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. or longer, for nine months from March through December. She began school when she was five years old.

Private School

Angelica (or Pelusa, her nickname, which means fluff) began school when she was four and attends the Charles de Gaulle Private School which is four stories and has 1,000 students. She goes to school five days a week from 8:10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. She has had 12 years of French.

Since Ximema came here her family has moved to Santiago, Chile's capital. She will be a high school senior this year and the plans to attend college there and major in math. Her father works for the government. She has two sisters, 18 and 15.

Pelusa will also attend college in Santiago and plans to major in languages. Her father has an electrical appliance store and her mother is an elementary teacher. She has a 10-year-old sister and a brother, 12.

School Subjects

In Chile, both girls took art appreciation, geometry, algebra, biology, French, English, chemistry, gym, music, government, psychology history and geography. Here, Ximema is taking algebra, English, government, history and home ec. Angelica is taking English, government, algebra, chemistry and journalism. The girls said at home, the teachers change rooms instead of the students.

Like Hamburgers

Both girls expressed a liking for hamburgers which they do not have at home and said teenagers dress the same as here. Their television and radio programs have many of our programs of music and movies. In Chile they have breakfast at 7 a.m., dinner at 12:30 p.m., tea time 5 to 5:30 p.m. and supper at 9 p.m.

Return In July

The girls met in the airport at Santiago when they left for the United States and were able to make the trip together. Their route of travel was from Santiago to Lima, Peru, to Miami, Chicago and Escanaba which took 20 hours. Both are returning home in July.

Ximema left April 4 for California to visit for two weeks with an uncle in Hollywood. She has been living with her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ahlin, and Angelica is living with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ritenburgh. Both girls thought they were very fortunate to be here and said they were very happy with their families here.

Delta County Faces Deficit Of $80,000

Delta County may wind up 1970 with an operating deficit of over $80,000 if expenditures continue at levels projected by County Clerk William E. Butler for the Board of Commissioners.

The board Tuesday night gave approval to a tentative 1971 county budget which includes a projected deficit from 1970 of $81,451.

Total budget for 1971, including the deficit, would be $995,766, an increase of over $233,000 from the budget adopted last October and up more than $129,000 from the anticipated county expenses this year.

The actual operating budget which the Board of Commissioners will submit later this month to the Delta County Tax Allocation Board totals $914,315, an increase of about $152,000 from the 1970 appropriation.

Had Balance

If current expense projections are accurate, the 1971 budget also would be about $47,600 over anticipated 1970 costs.

Budgeted in 1971 is a five percent cost of living increase for county employes on the present base salaries. The raise, however, will not apply to members of the Board of Commissioners.

According to the estimated financial statement for 1970 prepared by Butler, the county had a balance on hand Jan. 1 of $68,227. Added to that are revenues of $461,992 (5.2 mills assessed on the county tax base, less 1970 delinquent returns) and $255,000 in miscellaneous returns including delinquent taxes from previous years

The miscellaneous returns reflect about $127,900 in state income tax rebate to the county.

Total 1970 revenue will total $785,219, according to the statement, with expenses expected to run $866,671.

Departures Cited

The major departures from the year's budget adopted by the board include $30,000 to Probate Court for state institutions (child care), $33,500 to the County Department of Social Services (welfare, etc and $10,800 to District Court (including $7,000 appropriated after the budget was adopted for the court's new probation program which was partially funded by a grant from the Michigan Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement).

Added expenses have come both in the form of deficiency appropriations by the Board of Commissioners and in increased costs experienced by the various county departments, Butler reported.

More Millage

To balance the 1971 budget, the county would need to levy 6.88 mills on the 1970 equalized valuation of $113,557,500 Butler indicated. This would be an increase of 1.68 mills over the present allocation of 5.2 mills.

An increase in the county allocation would be a comparable decrease in millage allocated to school districts of the county.

The tentative budget for 1971 includes a $38,000 appropriation for remodeling at Pinecrest, up from $25,000 expected cost this year; $10,000 for the County Air Pollution Commission which was included as a provision of the air pollution control ordinance adopted Tuesday, plus increases to reflect the salary increase and additional expenses incurred this year.

There was a reduction of over $50,000 in the budgeted contingency fund.

October Action

The County Tax Allocation Board, which is scheduled to meet in an organizational session April 20, will consider the county budget along with tentative budgets submitted by townships and school districts in the county.

Final allocation order will be issued in May.

Tanker Freed From Sand Bar

The tanker SS Mercury of the Cleveland Tankers Corp. was released from a sand bar about 600 feet offshore at the Shell Marine Terminal at Wells this morning, after being stuck there since last evening. She was undamaged.

Paul Buchholtz, terminal manager, said the Coast Guard cutter Mesquite pulled the Mercury loose about 9:30 a. m. and the tanker returned to East Chicago.

The tanker ran aground after unloading at the Shell Terminal about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday when she was swinging around to head out into the channel.

The SS Mercury is 373 feet long, has a cargo capacity of 44,000 barrels, and her officer is Capt. M. J. Campbell. She was the first tanker to enter Little Bay de Noc this spring.

Other vessels are also having difficulty because of bad ice conditions here, at Sault Ste. Marie, Whitefish Bay, Marquette and the Duluth-Superior harbor.

Ore movement from Escanaba is delayed by the ice-choked harbor and cold weather that has frozen ore in the ears and in stockpile.

GRADUATION EXERCISES for the Delta Dog Obedience School were held Monday night at the Civic Center. There were 20 "graduates." the Judge was Major A. S. Sex Education Legal: Kelley

LANSING (AP) — Atty Gen. Frank Kelley issued an opinion today saying Michigan law and education policy clearly support sex education in the state's schools.

But birth control, Kelley said, may not be taught "under present law."

The opinion, requested by Dr. John W. Porter, acting superintendent of public instruction, and board member James F. O'Neil, also said that Michigan law saying students may be excused from such classes at the request of their parents does not conflict with U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

Kelley, while ruling out "specific" birth control instruction, said sex education classes may:

"Include other general family planning information such as the social, economic and psychological implications of various sized family units, the effects of population growth upon our natural environment and natural resources, population studies, and birth and death rates."

State Board of Education officials asked Kelley last fall for a review of Michigan laws on the subject. A continuing debate over sex instruction in the classroom kept the board from approving a set of statewide guidelines by the start of classes last fall.

O'Neil, the board's treasurer, mounted a continuing attack on then-Supt. Ira Polley and came up with his own set of guidelines which emphasized complete parental control.

Authority for sex education in Michigan classrooms is contained in a law passed by the Legislature and signed by former Gov. George Romney in May, 1968. It specifically directs the State Education Department to:

"Aid in the establishment of educational programs designed to provide pupils in elementary and secondary schools, institutions of higher education and adult education, wholesome and comprehensive education and instruction in sex education."

Romney, however, vetoed a related bill that would have authorized birth control instruction by removing an existing prohibition now on the lawbooks.

Such a repeal, Romney said, "would simply increase the tendency to sexual permissiveness which is already growing at an alarming rate."

Five term incumbent Mayor John W. Reindl was defeated by Jerry Nesbitt, 2,061 to 1,716. Nesbitt, 36, personnel manager of Vernco Corp. here, was making his first bid for the office.

Handicap Child Funds Approved For U.P. Schools

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education has approved distribution of more than $1 million in federal funds to 31 local or intermediate school districts for projects in special education for handicapped children.

The grants are to continue 19 approved last year and to begin 12 new projects.

"These grants will assist the local and intermediate districts involved to carry forward with programs that are already in progress to educate handicapped persons and will open new doors for this kind of education, which is so desperately needed," said board president Peter Oppewall.

Projects and amounts approved in 1969 and continued for 1970 include:

Marquette - Alger Intermediate District, $151,880; Menominee Intermediate District, $8,000; Sault Ste. Marie public schools, $22,351.

Projects and amounts approved for first funding in 1970 include: Marquette - Alger Intermediate District, $18,550.

North Central Reports Gains In Air Traffic

There were gains in all but one classification of air service in March at the Escanaba City Airport, North Central Airlines manager Pete Zimmer reports.

Here are comparative figures for the month:

Passenger total, 2,118 up from 1,689; first class mail 5,159 pounds up from 4,872; express 3,316 pounds up from 2,696; and freight 16,062 pounds up from 11,194.

The quantity of air mail declined from 5,800 to 3,517 pounds, and the drop may have been due in part to the recent strike of postal employes in several metropolitan centers.

Fishing Boat, Crew Held In Ice 18 Hours

GARDEN—Four men stranded in a fishing boat near Fairport for 18 hours Tuesday are safely back in port today.

Joe Peterson, Hector Peterson, Pete Jensen and Bill Stiener, all of Fairport, became stranded in the ice when returning from a day of fishing. Their boat became frozen in the ice and they were unable to move.

They left the Fairport dock at 6 a. m. without difficulty, and remained at their fishing site until 2 p. m. The men said they had tried to return to Fairport but the ice was freezing and piling up and by 7 p.m. they could go no further. The 45 foot long fishing boat was visible from the Fairport dock, however, no one was able to reach them.

In efforts to keep warm the men burned their buoys, life jackets, and fish boxes as well as their one-day coal supply.

The four men finally managed to get the boat to dock at 7 a. m. today. They were tired, cold and hungry, but un-hurt.

Railroad Suit To U.S. Court

The suit of a group of north Escanaba residents asking relief from activities of the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. at its iron ore terminal in Escanaba has been transferred to U. S. District Court in Marquette.

Transfer of the case from Circuit Court in Delta County under statutes which allow non-resident corporations involved in litigation in excess of $10,000 to have the case heard in a federal court.

Plaintiffs in the case, all residents of the area near the iron ore terminal, have asked damages totaling $615,000 from the railroad.

Petition to transfer the case to U. S. District Court, Western District of Michigan, Northern Division, was filed by C&NW legal counsel.

Hearing on the part of the case asking a temporary injunction against the railroad's iron ore terminal operations had been scheduled to begin Monday in Circuit Court in Escanaba.

No new date for hearing has been set by Judge W. Wallace Kent of the federal court in Marquette.

Efforts are underway and meetings have been scheduled by attorneys and representatives of the railroad and of the complaining parties to find solutions with the least delay.

Delta County Faces Deficit Of $80,000

Delta County may wind up 1970 with an operating deficit of over $80,000 if expenditures continue at levels projected by County Clerk William E. Butler for the Board of Commissioners.

The board Tuesday night gave approval to a tentative 1971 county budget which includes a projected deficit from 1970 of $81,451.

Total budget for 1971, including the deficit, would be $995,766, an increase of over $233,000 from the budget adopted last October and up more than $129,000 from the anticipated county expenses this year.

The actual operating budget which the Board of Commissioners will submit later this month to the Delta County Tax Allocation Board totals $914,315, an increase of about $152,000 from the 1970 appropriation.

Had Balance

If current expense projections are accurate, the 1971 budget also would be about $47,600 over anticipated 1970 costs.

Budgeted in 1971 is a five percent cost of living increase for county employes on the present base salaries. The raise, however, will not apply to members of the Board of Commissioners.

According to the estimated financial statement for 1970 prepared by Butler, the county had a balance on hand Jan. 1 of $68,227. Added to that are revenues of $461,992 (5.2 mills assessed on the county tax base, less 1970 delinquent returns) and $255,000 in miscellaneous returns including delinquent taxes from previous years.

The miscellaneous returns reflect about $127,900 in state income tax rebate to the county.

Total 1970 revenue will total $785,219, according to the statement, with expenses expected to run $866,671.

Departures Cited

The major departures from the year's budget adopted by the board include $30,000 to Probate Court for state institutions (child care), $33,500 to the County Department of Social Services (welfare, etc and $10,800 to District Court (including $7,000 appropriated after the budget was adopted for the court's new probation program which was partially funded by a grant from the Michigan Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement).

Added expenses have come both in the form of deficiency appropriations by the Board of Commissioners and in increased costs experienced by the various county departments, Butler reported.

More Millage

To balance the 1971 budget, the county would need to levy 6.88 mills on the 1970 equalized valuation of $113,557,500 Butler indicated. This would be an increase of 1.68 mills over the present allocation of 5.2 mills.

An increase in the county allocation would be a comparable decrease in millage allocated to school districts of the county.

The tentative budget for 1971 includes a $38,000 appropriation for remodeling at Pinecrest, up from $25,000 expected cost this year; $10,000 for the County Air Pollution Commission which was included as a provision of the air pollution cotrol ordinance adopted Tuesday, plus increases to reflect the salary increase and additional expenses incurred this year.

There was a reduction of over $50,000 in the budgeted contingency fund.

October Action

The County Tax Allocation Board, which is scheduled to meet in an organizational session April 20, will consider the county budget along with tentative budgets submitted by townships and school districts in the county.

Final allocation order will be issued in May.

Tanker Freed From Sand Bar

The tanker SS Mercury of the Cleveland Tankers Corp. was released from a sand bar about 600 feet offshore at the Shell Marine Terminal at Wells this morning, after being stuck there since last evening. She was undamaged.

Paul Buchholtz, terminal manager, said the Coast Guard cutter Mesquite pulled the Mercury loose about 9:30 a. m. and the tanker returned to East Chicago.

The tanker ran aground after unloading at the Shell Terminal about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday when she was swinging around to head out into the channel.

The SS Mercury is 373 feet long, has a cargo capacity of 44,000 barrels, and her officer is Capt. M. J. Campbell. She was the first tanker to enter Little Bay de Noc this spring.

Other vessels are also having difficulty because of bad ice conditions here, at Sault Ste. Marie, Whitefish Bay, Marquette and the Duluth-Superior harbor.

Ore movement from Escanaba is delayed by the ice-choked harbor and cold weather that has frozen ore in the cars and in stockpile.

Sex Education Legal: Kelley

LANSING (AP) — Atty Gen. Frank Kelley issued an opinion today saying Michigan law and education policy clearly support sex education in the state's schools.

But birth control, Kelley said, may not be taught "under present law."

The opinion, requested by Dr. John W. Porter, acting superintendent of public instruction, and board member James F. O'Neil, also said that Michigan law saying students may be excused from such classes at the request of their parents does not conflict with U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

"Include other general family planning information such as the social, economic and psychological implications of various sized family units, the effects of population growth upon our natural environment and natural resources, population studies, and birth and death rates."

State Board of Education officials asked Kelley last fall for a review of Michigan laws on the subject. A continuing debate over sex instruction in the classroom kept the board from approving a set of statewide guidelines by the start of classes last fall.

O'Neil, the board's treasurer, mounted a continuing attack on then-Supt. Ira Polley and came up with his own set of guidelines which emphasized complete parental control.

Authority for sex education in Michigan classrooms is contained in a law passed by the Legislature and signed by former Gov. George Romney in May, 1968. It specifically directs the State Education Department to:

"Aid in the establishment of educational programs designed to provide pupils in elementary and secondary schools, institutions of higher education and adult education, wholesome and comprehensive education and instruction in sex education."

Romney, however, vetoed a related bill that would have authorized birth control instruction by removing an existing prohibition now on the lawbooks.

Such a repeal, Romney said, "would simply increase the tendency to sexual permissiveness which is already growing at an alarming rate."

The grants are to continue 19 approved last year and to begin 12 new projects.

"These grants will assist the local and intermediate districts involved to carry forward with programs that are already in progress to educate handicapped persons and will open new doors for this kind of education, which is so desperately needed," said board president Peter Oppewall.

Projects and amounts approved in 1969 and continued for 1970 include:

North Central Reports Gains In Air Traffic

There were gains in all but one classification of air service in March at the Escanaba City Airport, North Central Airlines manager Pete Zimmer reports.

Here are comparative figures for the month:

Passenger total, 2,118 up from 1,689; first class mail 5,159 pounds up from 4,872; express 3,316 pounds up from 2,696; and freight 16,062 pounds up from 11,194.

The quantity of air mail declined from 5,800 to 3,517 pounds, and the drop may have been due in part to the recent strike of postal employes in several metropolitan centers.

Fishing Boat, Crew Held In Ice 18 Hours

GARDEN—Four men stranded in a fishing boat near Fairport for 18 hours Tuesday are safely back in port today.

Joe Peterson, Hector Peterson, Pete Jensen and Bill Stiener, all of Fairport, became stranded in the ice when returning from a day of fishing. Their boat became frozen in the ice and they were unable to move.

They left the Fairport dock at 6 a. m. without difficulty, and remained at their fishing site until 2 p. m. The men said they had tried to return to Fairport but the ice was freezing and piling up and by 7 p.m. they could go no further. The 45 foot long fishing boat was visible from the Fairport dock, however, no one was able to reach them.

In efforts to keep warm the men burned their buoys, life jackets, and fish boxes as well as their one-day coal supply.

The four men finally managed to get the boat to dock at 7 a. m. today. They were tired, cold and hungry, but un-hurt.

Railroad Suit To U.S. Court

The suit of a group of north Escanaba residents asking relief from activities of the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. at its iron ore terminal in Escanaba has been transferred to U. S. District Court in Marquette.

Transfer of the case from Circuit Court in Delta County under statutes which allow non-resident corporations involved in litigation in excess of $10,000 to have the case heard in a federal court.

Plaintiffs in the case, all residents of the area near the iron ore terminal, have asked damages totaling $615,000 from the railroad.

Petition to transfer the case to U. S. Disrict Court, Western District of Michigan, Northern Division, was filed by C&NW legal counsel.

Hearing on the part of the case asking a temporary injunction against the railroad's iron ore terminal operations had been scheduled to begin Monday in Circuit Court in Escanaba.

No new date for hearing has been set by Judge W. Wallace Kent of the federal court in Marquette.

Efforts are underway and meetings have been scheduled by attorneys and representatives of the railroad and of the complaining parties to find solutions with the least delay.

GM MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Impala '400' Sale.

You save when you buy it. You save when you drive it.

Then we add our big 400-cubic-inch V8 at 265 hp that runs on regular gas, along with dual exhausts—both at no charge. (The manufacturer's suggested retail price including Federal excise tax for the regular fuel 400 V8 and dual exhausts is $93.75.)

But that's only the beginning. Because your Chevrolet dealer is really anxious to deal these days.

And the Impala you're buying, of course, got to be America's No. 1 car, because of all the value features built right in. Features like flush-and-dry rocker panels that fight rust. Inner fenders to protect the outer fenders. Long lasting bias belted ply tires, steel guard beams in every door for added protection, an acrylic lacquer finish over its solid Body by Fisher.

All of which contributes to Impala's traditionally high resale value, too.

Shopping Good Test Of Survival For Man

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals for a mere man is supermarket shopping.

It is for him more a test of endurance and survival than of character.

For if there is one place in the modern world where woman doesn't have to struggle to obtain equal rights, it is in the average supermarket. There, in the unending war between the sexes, she has every advantage; man is at very disadvantage.

A grown man is as out of place alone in a supermarket as a 3-year-old child at a picnic of banshees and harpies. There is something about his presence there that arouses the killer instincts in veteran women shoppers.

They take out on him all the pent-up wrath they have felt in centuries of submission to male domination.

All a guy making his first trip through a supermarket has to do is to innocently ask a lady where the cans of dog food are. A look of unholy glee crosses her face as she deliberately misdirects him to the frozen vegetables department.

Then by whispered word and eyebrow gestures the ladies pass the news about him along: "This guy's a greenhorn. Let's give him the works."

If he tries to buy a steak, four ladies surround the fresh meat counter shoulder to shoulder and keep him away for 15 minutes while they chat about household problems.

If he starts to ask a 60-year-old biddy old enough to be his mother just where the store hides the tomato juice, she is likely to reply in stentorian tones:

"Are you trying to get fresh with me, young man? I've a good mind to slap your face. It's getting so a girl isn't safe anywhere anymore."

If he heads for the nearest checkout counter, half a dozen women elbow him out of the way. They show him no mercy, they yield him no quarter.

But their chief educational weapon in reducing him to a quivering jelly is the wire pushcart. After he has gone less than 50 feet into the store he feels like a squirrel on a thruway during the rush hour.

They hold to the exact center of the roadway and crash into him head on, sending half of his own groceries flying. They lie in wait and ambush him on the turns. They smash into him from behind every time he pauses to select an item.

"I spent two years in the infantry, but I never saw a battlefield quite like that," said one man, recalling his first visit to a supermarket. "I kept looking for a foxhole to dive into, but there wasn't any. I would have surrendered, but the women shoppers in that store didn't seem to want to take any male prisoners alive."

A man is fairly safe if he accompanies his wife to the supermarket—the other ladies recognize he has been captured—but any fellow who has to go it alone ought to get a combat medal for each trip he makes. And a government disability pension if he lasts a full year.

Warren, King To Get UAW Awards

DETROIT (AP) — Earl Warren, retired U. S. chief justice, and Martin Luther King Jr., slain Civil Rights leader, have been chosen to receive the Social Justice Awards of the United Auto Workers Union this year for "outstanding contributions to humanitarian causes."

Warren, also a former California governor, will accept his award and address delegates on the afternoon of April 22 at the UAW's convention in Atlantic City.

Mrs. King will accept the posthumous award to her late husband on the same program.

Other convention speakers will include Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.. and Secretary of Labor George P. Schultz, only member of the Nixon administration appearing on the April 20-25 convention program.

Nelson speaks April 21 and Schultz on the morning of April 22. UAW President Walter P. Reuther will address the opening session April 20.

Hollywood Director Proud Of War Effort

"It's a shame that only war and common danger bring out the best in men," he said.

But at 67 Wyler, a landmark Hollywood director and producer whose films have accounted for 40 Oscars and 140 Academy Award nominations, is still trying himself to bring out the best in men.

"It s my philosophy that a man should stand up for something," he said. "I like to make entertaining pictures, but I also get great satisfaction out of making a film that hopefully can contribute something to the improvement of our society."

Right now he is hopeful that his latest film, "The Liberation of L.B. Jones," a drama of lust and revenge, will help the plight of the Negro in the South.

A careful craftsman who takes two years or more to complete a picture, Wyler has been remarkably successful in turning out films that ring the cash register whether they are pure entertainments or also carry a message.

The director came to this country at the age of 18 from his native Alsace and started as a film company clerk at $20 a week. By 1925 he was earning $60 a week turning out two-reel westerns budgeted at $2,000 each.

His work since then has won him 13 personal Academy Award nominations and three Oscars. They were for directing "Mrs. Miniver," "The Best Years of Our lives," and "Ben-Hur." He has also won critical acclaim for such other films as "Wuthering Heights," "The Little Foxes," "Roman Holiday," "Detective Story," and "Funny Girl."

What are the chief requirements of directing?

"I'd say they are a knowledge of your craft and a passion for your subject," replied Wyler. "You have to have both. One alone is not enough.

"And that's a big problem. It isn't always easy to find a story or a subject that stirs a passion in you."

And what are the rewards of directing?

"Well, it is fascinating because there are no two days alike," he said. "And when you do something good, the rewards are tremendous.

"People remember what you've done for 20 years or more. That's very gratifying, when you consider that so many millions of people who do good work every day in other fields get only a slap in the back."

Castro's Sugar Harvest Plans Hit Sour Note

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba's sugar harvest is running so far behind schedule that they're betting on this side of the sugarcane curtain that Fidel Castro won't reach the 10 million tons on which he says rides the honor of his revolution.

The five millionth ton of Castro's dollar crop, scheduled for harvest March 17, was reached nine days late, Havana radio reported. Castro blamed rains and other factors. The tropical rain season still lies ahead.

The sixth million was scheduled for harvest Friday. Economists noted that more than 50,000 tons daily would have been needed to make the goal even if the halfway mark had been on target. Daily production, announced in Cuban broadcasts monitored here, have been below 45,000. Wednesday's, one of the higher ones, was announced at 44,887 tons. placing the total harvest at 5,296,882 tons.

"The best month-March-is gone," said the Economic research Bureau, operated by exile economists.

And what are the rewards of directing?

"Well, it is fascinating because there are no two days alike," he said. "And when you do something good, the rewards are tremendous.

"People remember what you've done for 20 years or more. That's very gratifying, when you consider that so many millions of people who do good work every day in other fields get only a slap in the back."

Castro's Sugar Harvest Plans Hit Sour Note

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba's sugar harvest is running so far behind schedule that they're betting on this side of the sugarcane curtain that Fidel Castro won't reach the 10 million tons on which he says rides the honor of his revolution.

The five millionth ton of Castro's dollar crop, scheduled for harvest March 17, was reached nine days late, Havana radio reported. Castro blamed rains and other factors. The tropical rain season still lies ahead.

The sixth million was scheduled for harvest Friday. Economists noted that more than 50,000 tons daily would have been needed to make the goal even if the halfway mark had been on target. Daily production, announced in Cuban broadcasts monitored here, have been below 45,000. Wednesday's, one of the higher ones, was announced at 44,887 tons, placing the total harvest at 5,296,882 tons.

"The best month-March-is gone," said the Economic research Bureau, operated by exile economists.

Brewers' Debut Spoiled Before 37,237 Fans

A huge crowd of 37,237 who watched the California Angels crush the Milwaukee Brewers 12-0 was nearly the largest Tuesday audience in the majors.

"It's exactly what I expected," said baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who watched the return of baseball here. "It's just another in a series of miracles to be wrought in Milwaukee again."

"I was confident that the enthusiasm would be here," the commissioner said. "It's just tremendous."

"Baseball is good for Milwaukee," Kuhn said, "and Milwaukee is good for baseball. No doubt about it."

More than 1,800,000 fans turned out in 1953 after the Braves moved here from Boston. In the team's 13-year stay in Milwaukee, the Braves drew nearly 20 million fans, leading the National League in attendance for several seasons.

While the game marked Milwaukee's return to the majors following the Braves' departure to Atlanta following the 1965 season, the Brewers' debut was not as successful on the field.

"Every one of us wanted to do well and be impressive," said Brewers Manager Dave Bristol. "Maybe we tried too hard. But then they had a pretty good guy going for them."

Andy Messersmith limited the Brewers to just four hits—three by outfielder Steve Hovley—while the Angeles' bats pounded out 14 hits, including three triples.

California opened its scoring parade in the second inning on Alex Johnson's triple and Jim Spencer's sacrifice fly. Bill Voss tripled home two more runs in the third, then scored himself on the first of two Brewer wild pitches.

The Angels added four runs in the fourth, three in the seventh and one in the eighth, battering five Milwaukee pitchers.

Messersmith struck out 11 and walked four, tying his own record set ironically against the Seattle Pilots Sept. 14, and equalled against the Pilots Sept. 22.

Alyea's Big Bat Leads Twins Over White Sox

By The Associated Press

Brant Alyea's famous yo yo imitation may be over at last.

Alyea has been up and down and all around the Washington organization so often over the last few years that there were times when he looked to see where the string was attached. But now he seems to have found a home in, of all places, Minnesota's outfield.

He blasted two homers and two singles, driving in seven runs in the Twins' 12-0 Opening Day romp over Chicago and those are impressive credentials, even for a yo yo.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday, California welcomed Milwaukee back to the majors with a 12-0 shellacking of the Brewers, Baltimore slugged Cleveland 8-2, Boston tripped New York 4-3, Oakland defeated Kansas City 6-4 and Washington pounded Detroit 14-4.

Until Tuesday, Alyea's claim to fame had been a home run in his first major league swing with the Senators back in 1965 and stickers on his luggage since then that read Hawaii, York, Montgomery and Buffalo —all ports of call for Washington hopefuls.

Alyea got into 104 games with the Senators last year and was one of the few hitters who lost ground instead of gaining it under Manager Ted Williams.

"I wasn't one of his proteges," said Alyea. "I batted .270 the year before he took over and .250 under him."

The Senators, shopping for pitching help this spring, dealt Alyea and his active luggage to Minnesota for Joe Grzenda three weeks ago. He was installed in left field and now it looks like he can unpack for keeps.

He had the biggest day of his career in the opener against Chicago, singling in his first two swings and then jolting consecutive three-run homers as the Twins romped.

Alyea's heavy hitting made things easy for Jim Perry who coasted on a six-hitter for the shutout.

Baltimore opened defense of its AL crown with an impressive victory over the Indians as Dave McNally spun a four-hitter and struck out 13.

Paul Blair and Dave Johnson each drove in two runs with eighth inning doubles as the Orioles broke the game open. Frank Robinson homered for Baltimore and rookie Ray Foster connected for Cleveland.

A pair of run-scoring doubles by Rico Petrocelli had helped the Red Sox to a 4-0 edge before the Yankees knocked out Peters in a three-run sixth. But Lee shut the door after that, making Eddie Kasko's major league managerial debut a success.

Oakland used home runs by Sal Bando and Don Mincher and some tight relief by Rollie Fingers to beat Kansas City.

Bando's two-run shot and a double and triple by Rick Monday as well as Mincher's homer, helped the A's to an early lead and then Fingers shut off a KC comeback in the late innings.

Senators Clobber Tigers; Six Pitchers Worked Over

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit Tigers' manager Mayo Smith was philosophical after the Washington Senators blasted his team out of its brief stay in first place 14-4 Tuesday night.

"We had a bad night tonight but I guess I can't complain too much because we have been going real good." The Tigers won their last five exhibition games and beat the Senators 5-0 in Monday's season opener.

Losing pitcher Earl Wilson was the victim of some cheap hits in his 2 1-3 innings but he said, "That's part of the game. On another night, they might have been caught."

Joe Grzenda of the Senators picked up a save by pitching the last four innings, the longest he ever has pitched in the majors.

In Detroit's only glittering moment, left fielder Willie Horton made a sensational lunge into the Tigers' bullpen to snare a cinch fly homer and rob Ken McMullen of a three-run homer.

"The ball was out of the park," Horton said after the game. "I leaped about two feet over the fence, holding the fence with the other hand. The bullpen helped. Sometimes they scare you off but they helped by not saying anything."

Detroit went through six pitchers and collected only four runs off 11 hits while Washington got 14 runs on 17 hits. Washington used only two pitchers.

The Tigers scored first in the first inning when Dick McAuliffe singled and Cesar Gutierrez hit a slow dribbler to the left of the mound past pitcher Casey Cox that allowed McAuliffe to score and Gutierrez to take third. Gutierrez scored when Norm Cash hit into a double play.

The Tigers added another run in the third when Al Kaline led off with a long double, took third on Cash's infield out and scored on Horton's ground ball to short.

Cash then put a Cox pitch over the rightfield screen in the fifth to narrow the spread to 6-4.

The Senators scored runs in all but two innings, the 1st and 8th. They got four runs in the 2nd and again in the 5th inning.

McMullen, Lee Maye and Dave Nelson singled to load the bases with Senators in the second inning and then Wilson walked veteran catcher John Roseboro to force home a run. Del Unser singled in two more with a ground ball and Ed Brinkman singled home Roseboro with a bouncer.

Phoenix Loses; Playoffs Knotted

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, "acting more like a close-knit unit," and sporting a hard-nosed defense, have forced a turnabout in the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs.

Down 3-1 in the best-of-seven series with the Phoenix Suns, the Lakers have roared back to knot the matches, 3-games-all, with two straight victories, including a 104-93 decision Tuesday night.

Final game is Thursday night in the Los Angeles Forum.

Milwaukee and New York begin a best-of-seven series Saturday in New York to decide the Eastern Division championship.

The Dipper may have sacrificed himself offensively, with 12 points, but he made up on defense, with 26 rebounds.

"It was kind of physical out there," Wilt said. "But, when I'm doing what I can to help the team, I'm completely satisfied."

Jerry West led all scorers with 35 points, and was credited with an unofficial 12 steals defensively.

About as damaging to the Suns, however, was the play of guard Keith Erickson.

Erickson, who sat out most of the first half and didn't score a point, came off the bench in the last half to score 15 points and harry the Suns on defense.

His two buckets broke open a 73-3 deadlock going into the fourth period, and a key steal from Dick Van Arsdale with Los Angeles leading 95-91 with 2:30 remaining helped ice the win.

"I can't be anything but ecstatic," Erickson said. "We're playing our kind of ball now... we're better on defense and that means we're doing better on offense, too."

Phoenix committed 23 turnovers, including two in a row after narrowing LA's lead to 93-91 with only three minutes to play.

Connie Hawkins led Phoenix scorers with 24 points, while Van Arsdale came in at 21. West's efforts were followed by Elgin Baylor and Dick Garrett, whose scored 19 each for the Lakers.

Stanley Cup Playoffs In Full Swing Tonight

By The Associated Press

At least the Stanley Cup playoffs still have Gordie Howe even if they don't have the Montreal Canadiens.

The National Hockey League post-season fight for the Stanley, symbol of world supremacy, starts tonight with the Canadiens on he sidelines for the first time in 22 years.

Winners of a record 12 Stanley Cups including the 1969 championship, Montreal was shoved out of the playoffs on 1970 the final day of regular season play by New York.

The venerable Howe hasn't been in quite as many playoffs as the Canadiens but this marks the 19th year for the durable Detroit star, who recently celebraed his 42nd birthday.

Two games in each division tonight start the best-of-seven quarter-final series in the NHL and with Toronto also on the sidelines the United States is assured of its first Stanley Cup since 1961, when Chicago won.

In he East, New York is at Boston and Detroit at Chicago. The West matches send Minnesota to St. Louis and Oakland to Pittsburgh.

Howe's 19 years in the playoffs equals the NHL record held by Red kelly, who is also a Stanely Cup playoff participant this year—but as coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Gordie needs a total of 14 playoff games to equal the record of 164 by Kelly, who was in the playoffs every year from 1948-67 except 1959 while playing for the Red Wings and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

In his 150 previous playoff games, Howe has scored 156 points, including 91 assists—both postseason marks.

This is the first time in modern NHL history there is an all-American cast for the Stanley.

The East combatants are fresh from the wildest race in NHL history. The Black Hawks wound up in first place, becoming the first club to move from last place to a regular season title in one year. Boston was second, Detroit third and New York fourth.

Chicago will pit the firepower of Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita plus rookie goalie Tony Esposito, whose 15 shutouts were a modern NHL record, against Detroit's veterans, headed by Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich.

The Red Wings have won more Stanley Cups than any other American team. They last captured it in 1955 and won six earlier times. The Black Hawks are three-time winners.

For Boston, 1941 was the last Stanley Cup year and it's been a year longer since the Rangers achieved supremacy on the ice. Each team has won a total of three Stanley Cups.

The Bruins' savage defense must be penetrated by New York and the Rangers also have to worry about the high-poiwered offense of Boston's sensato nal ldefenseman Bobby Orr, the NHL scoring leader, and forward Phil Esposito, who finished second in scoring. New York will counter with goalie Ed Giacomin and the offensive play of Jean Ratelle and Walt Tkaczuk.

The scoring of Red Berenson and Phil Goyette sparks St. Louis, which easily won first place in the West. The Blues were finalists fofr the Stanley Cup the previous two seasons. Goalie Gump Worsley gave Minnesota a big boost in the stretch drive after being acquired from Montreal and the Stars get offensive boosts from Billy Collins, Danny Grant and Claude Larose.

Pittsburgh, in the playoffs for the first time after a second-place finish under first-year Coach Kelly, have rookie goalie Al Smith and forwards Dean Prentice and Ken Schinkel as their big guns.

Oakland will try to halt the Penguins with the performances of veteran forwards Earl Ingarfield and Billy Hicke and converted defenseman Carol Vadnais.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson started as a shortstop with Santa Barbara in the California League in 1953. He played second base for the 1959 Phillies but hit only .218.

Phillies Blank Cubs 2-0; Cincinnati, Mets Triumph

By The Associated Press

It took one Short cut to get Lucchesi in high gear, two arms to get Anderson off the ground . . . and eight years and 11 innings to get the Mets safely out of the starting gate.

Right-hander Gary Nolan kept Anderson, Cincinnati's new skipper, in orbit by following southpaw Jim Merritt's three-hit opening day triumph over Montreal with a two-hit 4-0 conquest of Los Angeles.

The world champion Mets, winless in all eight of their previous season openers, tripped Pittsburgh 5-3 on Donn Clendenon's two-run pinch single in the 11th inning.

In other National League opening games, Norm Miller's three-run pinch homer carried Houston past San Francisco 8-5 and a three-run blast by Nate Colbert helped San Diego stun Atlanta 8-3.

St. Louis played its first game today at Montreal.

Short, who pitched just 10 innings last April before undergoing surgery for the removal of a herniated disc, launched his comeback with a five-hit performance against the powerful Cubs. It was his first victory since Sept. 29, 1968, and his third opening day shutout in 11 years with the Phils.

"It's a lot to miss a year out of your career," he said. "There are only so many years you can play. I knew I was back from the way I pitched in the spring, but you still have to prove it to the hitters."

Leo Durocher, the Cubs' pilot, needed no further proof after watching his hitters mowed down by the 32-year-old veteran. "He shut us out, didn't he?" Leo snapped. "You can't win without runs. He looked the same to me—tough!"

Nolan, 21, checked the Dodgers on two singles—both by Willie Crawford—and permitted just four other runners to reach base, three on walks and the other on an error. Crawford's scratch single off shortstop Dave Conception's glove in the fourth inning was the lone Los Angeles hit until he singled to right in the ninth.

Ex-Pirate Clendenon drilled a single off reliever Joe Gibbon's first pitch with the bases filled in the 11th, giving the Mets their opening day breakthrough. Pittsburgh had tied the game against Met ace Tom Seaver in the sixth on a triple by Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente's single.

Miller drove Gaylord Perry's two-strike delivery over the left field fence in the seventh inning at San Francisco, knocking in three runs to snap a 3-3 tie. The Giants rallied for two runs in the bottom of the inning but Houston relievers Jack DiLauro, Jim Bouton and Fred Gladding stopped them the rest of the way.

Colbert's homer off Atlanta ace Phil Niekro climaxed a five-run third inning explosion and the Padres breezed home behind Pat Dobson and reliever Ron Herbel.

Brewers' Debut Spoiled Before 37,237 Fans

A huge crowd of 37,237 who watched the California Angels crush the Milwaukee Brewers 12-0 was nearly the largest Tuesday audience in the majors.

"It's exactly what I expected," said baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who watched the return of baseball here. "It's just another in a series of miracles to be wrought in Milwaukee again."

"I was confident that the enthusiasm would be here," the commissioner said. "It's just tremendous."

"Baseball is good for Milwaukee," Kuhn said, "and Milwaukee is good for baseball. No doubt about it."

More than 1,800,000 fans turned out in 1953 after the Braves moved here from Boston. In the team's 13-year stay in Milwaukee, the Braves drew nearly 20 million fans, leading the National League in attendance for several seasons.

While the game marked Milwaukee's return to the majors following the Braves' departure to Atlanta following the 1965 season, the Brewers' debut was not as successful on the field.

"Every one of us wanted to do well and be impressive," said Brewers Manager Dave Bristol. "Maybe we tried too hard. But then they had a pretty good guy going for them."

Andy Messersmith limited the Brewers to just four hits—three by outfielder Steve Hovley—while the Angeles' bats pounded out 14 hits, including three triples.

California opened its scoring parade in the second inning on Alex Johnson's triple and Jim Spencer's sacrifice fly. Bill Voss tripled home two more runs in the third, then scored himself on the first of two Brewer wild pitches.

The Angels added four runs in the fourth, three in the seventh and one in the eighth, battering five Milwaukee pitchers.

Messersmith struck out 11 and walked four, tying his own record set ironically against the Seattle Pilots Sept. 14, and equalled against the Pilots Sept. 22.

The Pilots became the Brewers just last week when the Seattle franchise ran into financial difficulties.

Senators Clobber Tigers; Six Pitchers Worked Over

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit Tigers' manager Mayo Smith was philosophical after the Washington Senators blasted his team out of its brief stay in first place 14-4 Tuesday night.

"We had a bad night tonight but I guess I can't complain too much because we have been going real good." The Tigers won their last five exhibition games and beat the Senators 5-0 in Monday's season opener.

Losing pitcher Earl Wilson was the victim of some cheap hits in his 2 1-3 innings but he said, "That's part of the game. On another night, they might have been caught."

Joe Grzenda of the Senators picked up a save by pitching the last four innings, the longest he ever has pitched in the majors.

In Detroit's only glittering moment, left fielder Willie Horton made a sensational lunge into the Tigers' bullpen to snare a cinch fly homer and rob Ken McMullen of a three-run homer.

"The ball was out of the park," Horton said after the game. "I leaped about two feet over the fence, holding the fence with the other hand. The bullpen helped. Sometimes they scare you off but they helped by not saying anything."

Detroit went through six pitchers and collected only four runs off 11 hits while Washington got 14 runs on 17 hits. Washington used only two pitchers.

The Tigers scored first in the first inning when Dick McAuliffe singled and Cesar Gutierrez hit a slow dribbler to the left of the mound past pitcher Casey Cox that allowed McAuliffe to score and Gutierrez to take third. Gutierrez scored when Norm Cash hit into a double play.

The Tigers added another run in the third when Al Kaline led off with a long double, took third on Cash's infield out and scored on Horton's ground ball to short.

Cash then put a Cox pitch over the rightfield screen in the fifth to narrow the spread to 6-4.

The Senators scored runs in all but two innings, the 1st and 8th. They got four runs in the 2nd and again in the 5th inning.

McMullen, Lee Maye and Dave Nelson singled to load the bases with Senators in the second inning and then Wilson walked veteran catcher John Roseboro to force home a run. Del Unser singled in two more with a ground ball and Ed Brinkman singled home Roseboro with a bouncer.

Alyea's Big Bat Leads Twins Over White Sox

By The Associated Press

Brant Alyea's famous yo yo imitation may be over at last.

Alyea has been up and down and all around the Washington organization so often over the last few years that there were times when he looked to see where the string was attached. But now he seems to have found a home in, of all places, Minnesota's outfield.

He blasted two homers and two singles, driving in seven runs in the Twins' 12-0 Opening Day romp over Chicago and those are impressive credentials, even for a yo yo.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday, California welcomed Milwaukee back to the majors with a 12-0 shellacking of the Brewers, Baltimore slugged Cleveland 8-2, Boston tripped New York 4-3, Oakland defeated Kansas City 6-4 and Washington pounded Detroit 14-4.

Until Tuesday, Alyea's claim to fame had been a home run in his first major league swing with the Senators back in 1965 and stickers on his luggage since then that read Hawaii, York, Montgomery and Buffalo —all ports of call for Washington hopefuls.

Alyea got into 104 games with the Senators last year and was one of the few hitters who lost ground instead of gaining it under Manager Ted Williams.

"I wasn't one of his proteges," said Alyea. "I batted .270 the year before he took over and .250 under him."

The Senators, shopping for pitching help this spring, dealt Alyea and his active luggage to Minnesota for Joe Grzenda three weeks ago. He was installed in left field and now it looks like he can unpack for keeps.

He had the biggest day of his career in the opener against Chicago, singling in his first two swings and then jolting consecutive three-run homers as the Twins romped.

Alyea's heavy hitting made things easy for Jim Perry who coasted on a six-hitter for the shutout.

Baltimore opened defense of its AL crown with an impressive victory over the Indians as Dave McNally spun a four-hitter and struck out 13.

Paul Blair and Dave Johnson each drove in two runs with eighth inning doubles as the Orioles broke the game open. Frank Robinson homered for Baltimore and rookie Ray Foster connected for Cleveland.

A pair of run-scoring doubles by Rico Petrocelli had helped the Red Sox to a 4-0 edge before the Yankees knocked out Peters in a three-run sixth. But Lee shut the door after that, making Eddie Kasko's major league managerial debut a success.

Oakland used home runs by Sal Bando and Don Mincher and some tight relief by Rollie Fingers to beat Kansas City.

Bando's two-run shot and a double and triple by Rick Monday as well as Mincher's homer, helped the A's to an early lead and then Fingers shut off a KC comeback in the late innings.

Phoenix Loses; Playoffs Knotted

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, "acting more like a close-knit unit," and sporting a hard-nosed defense, have forced a turnabout in the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs.

Down 3-1 in the best-of-seven series with the Phoenix Suns, the Lakers have roared back to knot the matches, 3-games-all, with two straight victories, including a 104-93 decision Tuesday night.

Final game is Thursday night in the Los Angeles Forum.

Milwaukee and New York begin a best-of-seven series Saturday in New York to decide the Eastern Division championship.

The Dipper may have sacrificed himself offensively, with 12 points, but he made up on defense, with 26 rebounds.

"It was kind of physical out there," Wilt said. "But, when I'm doing what I can to help the team, I'm completely satisfied."

Jerry West led all scorers with 35 points, and was credited with an unofficial 12 steals defensively.

About as damaging to the Suns, however, was the play of guard Keith Erickson.

Erickson, who sat out most of the first half and didn't score a point, came off the bench in the last half to score 15 points and harry the Suns on defense.

His two buckets broke open a 73-3 deadlock going into the fourth period, and a key steal from Dick Van Arsdale with Los Angeles leading 95-91 with 2:30 remaining helped ice the win.

"I can't be anything but ecstatic," Erickson said. "We're playing our kind of ball now... we're better on defense and that means we're doing better on offense, too."

Phoenix committed 23 turnovers, including two in a row after narrowing LA's lead to 93-91 with only three minutes to play.

Connie Hawkins led Phoenix scorers with 24 points, while Van Arsdale came in at 21. West's efforts were followed by Elgin Baylor and Dick Garrett, whose scored 19 each for the Lakers.

Stanley Cup Playoffs In Full Swing Tonight

By The Associated Press

At least the Stanley Cup playoffs still have Gordie Howe even if they don't have the Montreal Canadiens.

The National Hockey League post-season fight for the Stanley, symbol of world supremacy, starts tonight with the Canadiens on he sidelines for the first time in 22 years.

Winners of a record 12 Stanley Cups including the 1969 championship, Montreal was shoved out of the playoffs on 1970 the final day of regular season play by New York.

The venerable Howe hasn't been in quite as many playoffs as the Canadiens but this marks the 19th year for the durable Detroit star, who recently celebraed his 42nd birthday.

Two games in each division tonight start the best-of-seven quarter-final series in the NHL and with Toronto also on the sidelines the United States is assured of its first Stanley Cup since 1961, when Chicago won.

In he East, New York is at Boston and Detroit at Chicago. The West matches send Minnesota to St. Louis and Oakland to Pittsburgh.

Howe's 19 years in the playoffs equals the NHL record held by Red kelly, who is also a Stanely Cup playoff participant this year—but as coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Gordie needs a total of 14 playoff games to equal the record of 164 by Kelly, who was in the playoffs every year from 1948-67 except 1959 while playing for the Red Wings and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

In his 150 previous playoff games, Howe has scored 156 points, including 91 assists—both postseason marks.

This is the first time in modern NHL history there is an all-American cast for the Stanley.

The East combatants are fresh from the wildest race in NHL history. The Black Hawks wound up in first place, becoming the first club to move from last place to a regular season title in one year. Boston was second, Detroit third and New York fourth.

Chicago will pit the firepower of Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita plus rookie goalie Tony Esposito, whose 15 shutouts were a modern NHL record, against Detroit's veterans, headed by Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich.

The Red Wings have won more Stanley Cups than any other American team. They last captured it in 1955 and won six earlier times. The Black Hawks are three-time winners.

For Boston, 1941 was the last Stanley Cup year and it's been a year longer since the Rangers achieved supremacy on the ice. Each team has won a total of three Stanley Cups.

The Bruins' savage defense must be penetrated by New York and the Rangers also have to worry about the high-poiwered offense of Boston's sensato nal ldefenseman Bobby Orr, the NHL scoring leader, and forward Phil Esposito, who finished second in scoring. New York will counter with goalie Ed Giacomin and the offensive play of Jean Ratelle and Walt Tkaczuk.

The scoring of Red Berenson and Phil Goyette sparks St. Louis, which easily won first place in the West. The Blues were finalists fofr the Stanley Cup the previous two seasons. Goalie Gump Worsley gave Minnesota a big boost in the stretch drive after being acquired from Montreal and the Stars get offensive boosts from Billy Collins, Danny Grant and Claude Larose.

Pittsburgh, in the playoffs for the first time after a second-place finish under first-year Coach Kelly, have rookie goalie Al Smith and forwards Dean Prentice and Ken Schinkel as their big guns.

Oakland will try to halt the Penguins with the performances of veteran forwards Earl Ingarfield and Billy Hicke and converted defenseman Carol Vadnais.

Phillies Blank Cubs 2-0; Cincinnati, Mets Triumph

By The Associated Press

It took one Short cut to get Lucchesi in high gear, two arms to get Anderson off the ground . . . and eight years and 11 innings to get the Mets safely out of the starting gate.

Right-hander Gary Nolan kept Anderson, Cincinnati's new skipper, in orbit by following southpaw Jim Merritt's three-hit opening day triumph over Montreal with a two-hit 4-0 conquest of Los Angeles.

The world champion Mets, winless in all eight of their previous season openers, tripped Pittsburgh 5-3 on Donn Clendenon's two-run pinch single in the 11th inning.

In other National League opening games, Norm Miller's three-run pinch homer carried Houston past San Francisco 8-5 and a three-run blast by Nate Colbert helped San Diego stun Atlanta 8-3.

St. Louis played its first game today at Montreal.

Short, who pitched just 10 innings last April before undergoing surgery for the removal of a herniated disc, launched his comeback with a five-hit performance against the powerful Cubs. It was his first victory since Sept. 29, 1968, and his third opening day shutout in 11 years with the Phils.

"It's a lot to miss a year out of your career," he said. "There are only so many years you can play. I knew I was back from the way I pitched in the spring, but you still have to prove it to the hitters."

Leo Durocher, the Cubs' pilot, needed no further proof after watching his hitters mowed down by the 32-year-old veteran. "He shut us out, didn't he?" Leo snapped. "You can't win without runs. He looked the same to me—tough!"

Nolan, 21, checked the Dodgers on two singles—both by Willie Crawford—and permitted just four other runners to reach base, three on walks and the other on an error. Crawford's scratch single off shortstop Dave Conception's glove in the fourth inning was the lone Los Angeles hit until he singled to right in the ninth.

Ex-Pirate Clendenon drilled a single off reliever Joe Gibbon's first pitch with the bases filled in the 11th, giving the Mets their opening day breakthrough. Pittsburgh had tied the game against Met ace Tom Seaver in the sixth on a triple by Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente's single.

Miller drove Gaylord Perry's two-strike delivery over the left field fence in the seventh inning at San Francisco, knocking in three runs to snap a 3-3 tie. The Giants rallied for two runs in the bottom of the inning but Houston relievers Jack DiLauro, Jim Bouton and Fred Gladding stopped them the rest of the way.

Colbert's homer off Atlanta ace Phil Niekro climaxed a five-run third inning explosion and the Padres breezed home behind Pat Dobson and reliever Ron Herbel.

Navy Develops Undersea Gun

WASHINGTON (AP) — In strict secrecy, the Navy has developed a new underwater gun to arm its combat swimmers against enemy frogmen and sea creatures.

Brief mention of "a hand gun for self-defense against hostile swimmers and marine life" appears in Navy testimony asking Congress for authority to buy a variety of weapons.

When asked for details on the underwater handgun, the Navy refused on grounds "all additional information is classified."

Navy sources seemed surprised that reference to the new weapon had appeared in the testimony, indicating it may have skipped past the censor.

The new gun is intended for the Navy's commando-like Seal —for sea, air and land—teams and its underwater demolition units.

The Seals are known to have operated in Vietnam, setting ambushes in Mekong Delta streams among other things, sources said. But whether the Seals ever engaged in fights with Viet Cong swimmers is not known.

However, nearly four years ago U.S. Navy leaders in Vietnam expressed concern over evidence that several hundred Viet Cong frogmen had been trained to mine ships and bridges in Vietnamese rivers and harbors.

The Seal teams were established by the Navy in January 1962, when the idea of special warfare units like the Army's Green Berets caught the fancy of the late President John F. Kennedy.

The Seals are trained to conduct unconventional and paramilitary operations with little outside support after leaving surface vessels or submarines, or parachuting into a target area.

Fish-Eating Ban Asked By Michigan Governor

LANSING (AP)—In the wake of a Canadian ban on sport fishing in Detroit waters, Gov. William Milliken Tuesday recommended Michigan residents not eat any fish from the St. Clair river, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River.

Milliken termed his suggestion "a temporary precautionary measure" in light of the Ontario ban levied because of concern over possible mercury contamination in the fish.

Milliken pointed to a recently issued state agency report that found "no evidence of damage to health" from the fish and said "in view of this, I see no reason for Michigan to prohibit sports fishing in these waters at this time."

But, the governor added, he has requested state agencies meet immediately with Canadian government agencies and U.S. federal agencies.

"I have further directed state agencies to accelerate efforts to completely eliminate mercury contamination of all Michigan waters" the governor said.

Milliken noted that the state report, prepared by the Departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Public Health and released last Friday, did not indicate any mercury poisoning danager in fish from Michigan waters.

"There is no risk of toxicity or illness in sport fishermen or others who occasionally eat fish from these waters," the report said. It did not define the term "occasionally."

"Based upon all available information, there is no evidence of any acute or chronic health problem due to mercury contamination of the water or fish," the report added.

Milliken said Tuesday the state was "attempting to learn what additional information Ontario authorities may have relating to health implications of mercury in these fish.

"Meanwhile," he added, "Michigan departments have uncovered no new information of their own which would alter the appraisal made last Friday..

"However, in view of the actions Ontario has taken, I would suggest that as a temporary precautionary measure, Michigan residents not eat any fish from the St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair or the Detroit River until this matter can be further clarified."

A spokesman for the State Natural Resources Department said that the agency has no authority under Michigan law to close sports fishing, except in cases where a species is in danger of extinction by over fishing.

He said that under the present circumstances, sports fishing could be halted only by the governor, under an emergency proclamation, or the Legislature, by passing a special bill.

Canada To Compensate Lake St. Clair Fishermen

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadian Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday the federal government will make compensation payments to fishermen whose incomes have been cut off because of mercury pollution in Lake St. Clair.

He said the amount of the initial compensation will not be made public "since it might prejudice the efforts of the fishermen to get further compensation from the companies responsible for the pollution."

Energy Minister J.J. Greene, who also attended the meeting, said in a later interview the Canadian government last week wrote "a strong letter" to the U.S. State Department protesting pollution of the St. Clair River by chemical plants in the Detroit area. There had been no reply, he said.

Davis said a maximum of 100 commercial fishermen will be affected by the Ontario government's ban, announced Monday, on fishing in Lake St. Clair and some adjacent waters.

Kerr said he and Brunelle will meet officials of Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd., Wednesday to discuss compensation by the company to the fishermen.

If Dow fails to cooperate, fishermen could take their cases to the courts, Kerr said.

Dow is believed to be one of the companies largely responsible for the mercury pollution, Kerr said.

He said 11 companies have been found to have mercury losses into lakes and rivers in Ontario and have been given provincial government orders to clean up their operations.

Brunelle said no plans are being made to compensate sports fishermen for their losses as a result of the ban.

Ironwood Man Finds Driving Tricky Affair

IRONWOOD (AP) — "I'm a very unlucky man," said 29-year-old Ossi U. Kuula of Ironwood as he dusted himself off after two automobile smashups in virtually the same spot within a span of less than 11 hours.

On the other hand, sheriff's deputies considered him "a lucky man" because he escaped with only a few minor bruises.

Ossi, driving east toward this Upper Peninsula community lost control, and his car went off a country road and crumpled a fender against a wheel about 11:40 p.m. Sunday. Deputies took him home and towed his car to a garage.

Ossi appeared bright and early today, straightened the crumpled fender sufficiently to permit driving and started west on the same road to look for a hubcap lost in his first accident.

At 9:55 a.m., in virtually the same spot, Ossi lost control again, went off the road and hit another tree, this time smashing in the front of his car.

Deputies said an overnight drizzle mixed with snow was an extenuating circumstance today. But they also said Ossi was driving on a temporary permit and told him to come in for re-examination when his car's fixed.

Detroit Soldier Dies Following Shell Explosion

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — The Army said Tuesday Pfc. Victor Worthy, Detroit, Mich., died from wounds received when he apparently disturbed an artillery projectile on a firing range and the shell exploded.

Worthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Worthy, was inspecting the range with an officer for communications wire when the blast occurred. The officer was unhurt.

The soldier was airlifted by helicopter to Ft. Knox' Ireland Army Hospital, where he died about seven hours after the incident. Army doctors tried to save him with surgery for multiple fragment injuries.

An investigation was under way.

Abortion Law Reform Action Under Scrutiny

LANSING (AP) — Abortion law reform, labeled a "must item" for this legislative session by Gov. William Milliken, is expected to undergo close committee scrutiny by next week.

Sen. N. Lorraine Beebe, chairman of the Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement, said Tuesday that she expects a bill to be reported out at least by month's end.

The committee already has proposed amendments to consider, said Mrs. Beebe, a Dearborn Republican.

Those amendments may bring one of some eight pending bills into conformity with provisions put forth by Milliken.

The governor endorsed a sweeping proposal that would allow a woman less than three months pregnant to decide on an abortion with the approval of her doctor.

Mrs. Beebe expressed hopes that the measure would pass, saying "the people have spoken —now it's time for the Legislature to act." She pointed to public opinion polls and lawmakers' constituent surveys as indications of the people's sentiments.

"There are very few people who won't say the word 'abortion' out loud today," Mrs. Beebe added. "A year ago you didn't find this."

Pollution Trip

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken will make another try April 15 to visit areas with pollution problems.

The air tour had been planned April 2, but was scrubbed because of bad weather. The trip will involve the Midland-Bay City-Saginaw area, the Detroit area, Benton Harbor, Muskegon and Grand Rapids.

Anaconda Hikes Price Of Copper

NEW YORK (AP) — Anaconda Sales Co. said Tuesday it was following other producers in the four-cents a pound price increase for copper initiated last week by Phelps Dodge Corp.

Anaconda Sales, a subsidiary of Anaconda Co., said its new price of 60 cents a pound for refined copper produced from domestic ores was effective immediately. It said the price holds only for domestic shipments.

Approval Of Sports Fishing Puts DNR In Middle Of Rift

By The Associated Press

Government officials on both sides of the international boundary running through Lake St. Clair and the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers have reacted differently to evidence of mercury contamination of fish taken from those waters, but their message is the same: don't eat the fish.

Sport Fishing OK'd

But the State of Michigan declined to follow Canada's lead in banning sport fishing in the affected areas. A spokesman for the State Natural Resources Department said that the agency has no authority under Michigan law to close sports fishing under the circumstances.

Commercial fishing has been closed to Michigan residents in Michigan waters for some time, but Ontario authorities acted a week ago to ban commercial activity on the Canadian side when sample fish were found to contain mercury.

Precautionary Measure

Milliken termed his warning a "temporary precautionary measure" and said that a recently issued state agency report indicated there is "no evidence of damage to health" from the fish.

Authorities Rapped

Michigan's decision to continue to permit sport fishing in the affected areas brought a critical response from Ted Pankowski, assistant director of United Auto Workers conservation department.

Pankowski charged that Michigan authorities are more concerned with tourist trade than health.

Card of Thanks

VanAcker

I wish to thank all of my friends and relatives for the cards, gifts, flowers and visits I received while a patient at St. Francis Hospital. A special thanks to the nurses on third floor North for their wonderful care, to all the hospital staff, to Dr. Wm. LeMire III and Dr. Hockstad. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered. Also I would like to thank all those who have made my convalescence at home a pleasant one.

Farmer Giving His 71 Acres Back To Indians

SHELBY (AP) — A 79-year-old Oceana County resident has literally gven his land back to the Indians.

Leon Shatenberger, who lives with relatives in Hart, said he gave the deed to 71 acres he owns near Walkerville to the Indians Sunday. "I donated my treasured land to the Indians because they have a plan to improve the entire Walkerville community," he said.

Douglas Pierson, head of the housing authority for the Grand River Bands of the Ottawa Indian Nation, said the land is ideally suited for an Indian housing project but 12 acres will be preserved as a recreation area for county residents.

Shatenberger's donation was the second received by Indians in Oceana county this year. Earlier, the village of Walkerville donated 13½ acres for low cost Indian housing.

Rugged John Wayne Rated Top Actor

Britain's Maggie Smith, in an upset over such glamorous domestic types as Jane Fonda and Liza Minelli, was named best actress. She played the opinionated school teacher in "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

Scores of stars, dazzling in their finery, turned out for the ceremonies at the Los Angeles Music Center. The show, televised internationally by satellite, ran nearly half an hour over its scheduled two hours.

Goldie Hawn, the blonde giggler of television's "Laugh In," was chosen best supporting actress. She played Walter Matthau's girl friend in "Cactus Flower."

Gig Young bounded onstage as if on springs to accept the supporting actor award for his performance as the breezy master of ceremonies at a dance marathon in "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

It was also a night for memorable moments:

—Fred Astaire doing a twisting, capering, whirling dance at 70 as nimbly as in his films of yore.

—A salvo of applause and a 20-second standing ovation for graying Cary Grant, voted a special Oscar by the academy's governors for many memorable performances.

—Wayne telling the audience: "I'm John Wayne. I work with my clothes on. I have to. Horses are rough on your legs—and your elsewhere."

Wayne received his Oscar for his role as hard-bitten, whisky-drinking U.S. Marshal Rooster Cogburn in "True Grit." Striding solid and massive across the stage, Wayne, 62, said: "I shudda put that patch on 35 years earlier."

Wayne noted he had picked up Oscars before for other winners, and that one night he picked up two—for director John Ford and the late actor Gary Cooper.

"I was clever and witty then," Wayne said, his voice roughening with emotion. "Tonight I don't feel very clever and witty. I feel grateful and humble. I owe thanks to many people."

Barbra Streisand presented Wayne's Oscar.

Gas Explosions Kill 98 People Near Expo Site

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — A series of gas explosions tore through a subway construction site in this Expo '70 city today killing at least 98 persons and injuring 155, police said.

The disaster occurred in a business district 10 miles from the fair grounds and did not damage the explosition.

Many of the injured were in serious conditions.

Three explosions in quick succession occurred about 5:30 p.m., just after offices had closed for the day and most subway trains were jammed with commuters on the way home. Police said many of the victims were commuters.

The explosions leveled several buildings, and the fires that followed destroyed about 30 houses, police said.

Investigators attributed the explosions to leakage in the municipal gas system.

The disaster occurred about 33 feet underground, in an area where workers were constructing a new subway line.

Police ordered an immediate investigation to determine the cause of the explosions, which came over a 330-foot-area.

One witness said he spotted flames licking at pipes in the subterranean work area seconds before the explosions rocked the area.

"I ducked and became almost deaf from the explosions," said Jun Ji Matsushita, 34. "Then I saw columns of fire shooting about 10 meters (33 feet) into the air from below the ground."

A COLUMN OF FIRE boils up from an acetylene-making facility at Welders Supply Inc. in Cleveland following a series of explosions. Company officials set damage at $300,000. Safety doors in the acetyline building protected employes there and only a few minor injuries were reported (AP Wirephoto)

Airport Aides In Contempt, Judge Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that whatever Air Traffic Controllers have been doing for the past two weeks—sick-in, slowdown, sick-out—is, in fact, a strike.

Judge George L. Hart Jr., found the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—PATCO—guilty of contempt Tuesday, but put off announcing any penalties until Saturday.

Meanwhile, 90-minute delays remained at several major airports and flight volume has been cut 40 per cent along some routes. Controllers continued to return to their control towers and air traffic radar scopes, but not in sufficient numbers to totally cure air travel woes.

Hart showed sympathy for the men who claimed to be ill, saying they had acted "under extreme provocation," adding "you just can't strike against the government for any reason." For the moment, at least, Hart turned aside a government request to fine the union.

PATCO and its executive director, F. Lee Bailey, are protesting what they say is government inattention to having more controllers on the job working with improved equipment.

A PATCO spokesman had no comment on the decision.

Hart's decision does open the way, however, for the government to seek legal penalties against controllers who still refuse to return to work.

Belize Turning To America For Independence Aid

LANSING (AP)—The premier of the tiny British crown colony of Belize in Central America told the Michigan Legislature Tuesday that his people look to the United States for help in gaining their independence.

George Price, premier and leader of the governing People's United Party, told a joint legislative session that membership in the United Nations and the organization of American States, plus receipt of U. S. foreign trade and development funds will determine the success of his people's bid for self government.

Belize, with a population of some 120,000 and a territory of less than 10,000 square miles, formerly was known as British Honduras until issued a separate Constitution in 1964.

A new capital, to be known as Bel Mopan, is being built some 35 miles inland with the aid of Great Britain.

Price, 51, told legislators that "we in Belize aspire to be a united, free and sovereign nation. We are fellow Americans, we share the same history and traditions."

Rail Strike Bill Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House members saw no obstacle today for quick passage of President Nixon's proposal to avert a nationwide rail strike.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, noting the Senate Labor Committee approved the bill unanimously Monday, said it appeared it would pass with little delay.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee which approved the measure 15-12 Tuesday, said he hoped the House also could clear it this afternoon.

There are minor differences between the two versions. But sponsors said these undoubtedly would be ironed out in time to get the bill to Nixon for signing before the Saturday strike deadline.

The legislation would impose on the four shopcraft unions involved in the dispute and the rail lines a settlement which their negotiators worked out in December.

It was ratified by members of three unions—the machinists, electrical workers and boiler makes. But the members of one—the sheet metal workers—rejected it and mediators have been unable to work out an agreement since that time.

The December settlement provided pay increases of 68 cents an hour retroactively and prospectively for the 47,000 employes involved in the dispute.

The current hourly wage is $3.60.

Temperature Fall Over 40 Degrees In Quick-Change

By The Associated Press

Cold air spilling out of the northern Rockies swept into the Great Plains today, dropped temperatures as much as 40 degrees and ended a brief spell of spring mildness.

The mercury soared to 85 at Bismarck, N.D., Tuesday—the highest ever for so early in the season there—then dived into the lower 40s by early today.

Strong, gusty winds accompanied the falling temperatures. Gusts in excess of 60 miles an hour were clocked at Havre, Glasgow, and Great Falls, in Montana, and at Norfolk, Hastings and McCook, Neb.

Temperatures skidded into the 20s and 30s, and occasionally into the teens, from the northern Rockies into the Dakotas.

Unseasonable warm maintained overnight lows in the 40s, 50s and 60s from the southern Plains through the Midwest. Midday highs from the 60s into the 80s were common over the region Tuesday.

Teamsters Set Pentagon Talks

By The Associated Press

Top officials of the Teamsters Union scheduled a meeting today in Washington to discuss spreading strikes by truck drivers dissatisfied with terms of a tentative national contract.

Frank E. Fitzsimmons, acting president of the union, summoned the leaders one week earlier than a planned general executive board meeting.

The walkouts gained momentum in the Midwest Tuesday and began spreading into the East. There were reports of violence against some Midwestern truckers who stayed on the job.

Trucking industry leaders in Chicago said they are prepared to retaliate against piecemeal strikes there with a general lockout of all drivers in the area.

In the Chicago area, where the Teamsters and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union negotiate separately from the national unions, talks have been deadlocked for more than a week. The two unions have been conducting strikes against selected firms.

Wildcat walkouts reached the East Tuesday when some 70 Teamsters struck a Carlstadt, N.J., firm.

In West Virginia, drivers walked off their jobs in Charleston and Clarksburg. There were reports of strikers throwing rocks at trucks crossing their picket lines in Charleston.

Rash Of Measles Haunts Spacemen

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Doctors reported today that latest blood sample tests show Apollo 13 astronaut Thomas K. Mattingly II is not immune to German measles, increasing the chances that Saturday's scheduled launch to the moon will have to be postponed.

A space agency announcement said, "This finding creates the possibility that unless there is a change in Mattingly's condition between now and launch, he could develop German measles in space."

Analysis of the blood samples, taken Monday night, showed that the other two crewmen, James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr., are immune to the disease.

All three astronauts were exposed through contact with backup astronaut Charles Duke, who came down with the measles Sunday. The incubation period for the disease is 14 to 21 days. The flight is to last 10 days.

The space agency said doctors will continue to check Mattingly's condition and that additional blood samples will be taken "to see if he develops symptoms of the disease or antibodies."

By studying a series of blood samples taken at intervals after an individual is exposed, doctors can determine if antibodies are building up in to combat the disease.

Saturday's planned blastoff time is 2:13 p.m. EST.

While waiting results of the blood tests, the astroanuts climbed aboard spacecraft simulators to rehearse lunar orbit and lunar surface activities.

Medics are especially concerned about Mattingly. They reported Tuesday night he apparently had no immunity to German measles and that he might be coming down with the disease.

Earlier Tuesday they said that both Mattingly and Haise had a possibility of being infected. Dr. Charles A. Berry, chief astronaut physician, said that if symptoms develop, they could be expected within 24 to 48 hours.

He said both may have early stages of the disease, but that it was too early to tell for certain.

After Duke became infected, blood samples from Lovell, Haise and Mattingly were taken Monday and flown to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston. Analysis of these samples showed that all three men had satisfactory immunity to German measles at the time the blood was taken. But Berry said in the case of Haise and Mattingly, the information could be misleading.

6 Guides Killed On Mt. Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Six Nepalese Sherpas have been killed by a huge block of ice that fell on them while guiding a Japanese expedition up Mt. Everest, according to a message reaching here today.

It was the worst disaster ever reported on the world's highest mountain.

The message said the accident occurred last Sunday and that two other Sherpas were rescued.

The ice block roared down the slopes of the mountain as the Sherpas were at an altitude of 18,860 feet—10,168 feet below the summit, carrying equipment to the first main camp site.

Carswell Rejected For High Court Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected today the Supreme Court nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell, handing President Nixon a second defeat in his efforts to name a Southern judge to the nation's highest court. The vote was 51-45.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two more senators lined up with the opposition to the Supreme Court nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell today amid increasing signs that supporters have their backs to the wall.

Sens. Quentin N. Burdick, D-N. D., and Charles Mc Mathias, R-Md., disclosed they will vote against confirmation of the 50-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., judge as the long fight over his nomination nears a tense showdown.

In the final debate between the Senate vote, Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., a Carswell supporter, said that if the nomination is rejected, he hopes President Nixon will wait until after the next election to submit another appointment.

Although both sides predicted victory, some senators said before the crucial roll call the lineup was so evenly balanced a tie-breaking vote by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the Senate's presiding officer, was a distinct possibility.

Nixon nominated the 50-year-old Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals judge Jan. 19, following the Senate's 55-45 rejection last November of his first choice for the seat, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth.

As in the Haynsworth situation, a handful of uncommitted senators held the key to confirmation and the result was a large question mark before the vote opened.

Maneuvering by both sides continued through the night Tuesday and into today's early hours. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., released a statement shortly before 2 a.m., taking his name off the uncommitted list and placing it in line against the nomination.

Carswell meets none of the standards necessary for the nation's highest tribunal, Percy said in becoming the ninth Republican senator to announce against the selection.

An Associated Press survey made prior to the vote and disregarding the four expected absentees showed 44 for confirmation, 41 against and 11 uncommitted.

Sens. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., both were ill and their aides said Tuesday night neither would be on hand for the vote.

Away attending a meeting in Southeast Asia were Sens. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

Nixon, who pledged in his election campaign to place strict constitutional constructionists on the Supreme Court, affirmed his total support of Carswell last week as controversy continued swirling around the nominee's racial views and judicial record.

Kopechne Testimony May Be Made Public

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — The secret testimony at the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car last summer may be made public within a week.

Now that the Dukes County Grand Jury has adjourned a special session called to delve into the accident, and reported Tuesday it had no findings, the way is open for releasing quickly the inquest transcript and the report of District Court Judge James A. Boyle, who presided over the January inquiry.

Kennedy Elated

In Washington, Kennedy said: "I'm happy this case seems to be coming to a close. I'm relieved as well for everyone who's involved and I hope the transcript of the inquest will be made public as soon as possible."

Kennedy drove his car off the side of a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island into a deep tidal pool last July 18. Miss Kopechne, 28, and a former secretary for the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was trapped in the car and drowned.

Kennedy escaped and, after he delayed for some 10 hours in reporting the accident to police, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Pleads Guilty

He pleaded guilty a week after the crash and was sentenced to two months in jail on the charge. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for a year.

The night of the court arraignment, Kennedy went on national television to give his recollection of the accident and express regret for his subsequent actions.

He later testified for two hours at the inquest and upon leaving the court room told newsmen he was "satisfied that I responded completely to all the questions asked of me, both by the district attorney and the court."

2-Day Session Ends

The Dukes County Grand Jury wound up its two-day session when presiding Judge Wilfred J. Paquet refused to have the inquest transcript and the judge's report brought to the island for inspection of the 10 men and 10 women jurors.

The state Supreme Judicial Court, in a decision last fall on a petition by Kennedy and others who then were prospective witnesses at the inquest, ruled that it must be held in secret, that the transcript and report should be impounded until all prospect of any further criminal prosecutions was ended.

Certificate Needed

One of the conditions laid down by the court as a prerequisite for release of the papers said that a Superior Court justice could order them made public if the district attorney filed a certificate saying that there was no proposed prosecution in the case.

Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis announced Tuesday when the grand jury adjourned that he would prepare such a certificate immediately and send it to the Suffolk County Court in Boston, where the transcript and report, along with other documents and exhibits from the inquest, are being held.

Judge Paquet has the final say on release of the documents since he is assigned currently as justice of the Suffolk County Court.

All Federal Employes Get Pay Raise OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 6 per cent general pay raise for postal workers and nearly all other federal employes has been cleared for final Senate action, but Democrats say they'll fight any subsequent move to finance it through higher postal rates.

The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee tacked the measure to a minor House-passed postal bill Tuesday. But the panel made it clear a second 8 per cent pay hike for postal workers will be considered separately.

Government and union negotiators worked out the two-stage pay plan to settle a simmering postal pay dispute, which resulted in the nation's first mail strike.

The President has asked for an increase from six to 10 cents an ounce in first class postage and smaller boosts for other mail and parcel post. He said the $2.6 billion from the higher rates is needed to finance the two proposed postal pay raises, to wipe out the postal deficit and to increase the system's efficiency.

Nixon tied the 8 per cent raise for postal workers to his proposal for a postal corporation.

Addressing itself to the 10-cent stamp proposal, the committee unanimously approved a resolution saying "there should be no increase until such time as mailers using other than first-class privileges pay their fair share of postal costs."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, told newsmen if the 6 per cent boost had not gone through committee Tuesday, the nation would be faced with another postal strike.

He said the next task is to work out a postal reorganization plan, adding, "Frankly, if it is not worked out the system will fall flat on its face."

2 Fishermen Lost, Thought Drowned

ELBERTA (AP) — Two Elberta young men were missing and presumed drowned today in Frankfort harbor, where their fishing boat was found overturned shortly after last midnight.

The two are Wendell Vinson, 21, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vinson, and Jake Noffsinger, 21, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Noffsinger.

The two left about 10 p.m. Tuesday to go steelhead fishing in the harbor. Earl Snow, Elbert village marshal, spotted their overturned 12 - foot wooden boat from shore about 12:30 a.m. and quickly notified the Benzie County sheriff's office and Coast Guard.

While the harbor is largely landlocked a strong wind prevailed Tuesday night and the water was choppy.

County's Tax Base Jumps $17 Million

Delta County's tax valuation for 1970 was equalized at $113,-557,500 Tuesday night by the County Board of Commissioners at the Delta County Building.

The county total in 1969 was $96,473,325 and the new figure represents a gain of $17,084,175, making this the third straight year that an impressive gain has been made in the county's tax base.

Last year the county jumped approximately $9 million in valuation and about $6.2 million the year before.

The largest single factor in the county's increased valuation was the Mead expansion, which produced a gain of $12,715,000. This is in addition to a gain in excess of $1,250,000 which was reflected in the 1969 tax roll and a portion under construction as of Dec. 31, 1969, which will be an additional gain in the 1971 roll.

The gain was distributed as follows: Wells Township, $13,-567,650; City of Escanaba, $1,-537,050; Masonville Township, $443,950; City of Gladstone, $290,150 and the 11 other townships, $1,245,375.

20 Per Cent Of County

Mead's valuation of $21,475,-800 in Wells Township represents almost 72 per cent of the total township valuation. In addition, Mead's tax valuation in the townships of Escanaba, Cornell and Baldwin amounts to $1,423,150. These figures do not include some timberland parcels in other townships of Delta County on which Mead pays taxes, said John Olson, county equalization director.

The total tax valuation of Mead represents roughly 20 per cent of the entire county valuation.

In addition to the increased valuations of Mead, Wells Township also showed an increase of $371,000 in other industrial and commercial properties and a gain of almost $500,000 in valuation of residential properties.

Facilities Completed

The gain in Masonville Township was in large part due to the further completion of the compressor station and district office of the Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co. north of Rapid River, Olson said. This produced an increase of roughly $200,000. The construction of a TV translator station in Masonville Township also resulted in a gain of about $135,000 in valuation.

In addition to the increased valuation in Masonville Township, the Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co. accounted for over $500,000 in valuation in Baldwin, Ensign, Garden, Maple Ridge and Nahma townships because of an adjustment in pipe line cost figures.

Cities — Escanaba, $40,520,-800; Gladstone, $10,411,050.

Townships — Baldwin, $2,654-300; Bark River, $2,204,350; Bay de Noc, $1,335,650; Brampton, $2,103,075; Cornell, $1,686,300; Ensign, $1,597,125; Escanaba, $3,353,550; Fairbanks, $901,750; Ford River, $3,758,200; Garden, $2,633,300; Maple Ridge, $2,221,-950; Masonvill, $5,345,700; Nahma, $2,934,800; Wells, $29,-895,600.

Public Works Dept. Approved By Board

A resolution establishing a County Department of Public Works was unanimously approved Tuesday evening by the Delta County Board of Supervisors at their meeting in the Delta County Building .

This resolution will enable funds to be saved on essential public works under Act No. 185, which dates back to 1957.

Act No. 185 provides for the adoption by any County Commission in Michigan of its provisions for financing essential public works sponsored by townships, cities and villages within the county.

Cities and townships will now be able to sponsor public works programs for public water supplies, water treatment and sewage treatment at less cost, the board indicated. There is no cost to the county as a unit of government.

A seven member board, including the drain commissioner, will be named by the Board of Commissioners at a future date.

Students Plan 'Mother Earth' Program Here

The Student Council of the Escanaba Area Public High School has approved plans to sponsor a series of student activities to draw public attention to problems of environment pollution. The 'Mother Earth' program will begin on April 10 and end in early May.

According to Student Council President Fredric Jurmu, the activities will have two purposes: to organize constructive efforts to clean up the environment, and to focus public attention on environmental quality legislation being sponsored in the state legislature by Representative Serotkin (R-Mt. Clemens) and Gov. William Milliken.

The "Mother Earth" program will begin Friday with a poster contest open to all public high school students, and a photo contest open to all Delta County residents. Prizes will be awarded for the winning posters by the Student Council.

Awards in the photo contest are being given by local merchants. Entries, to be collected at the Photoart, must deal with some aspect of the improvement or deterioration of environmental quality.

Student activities will begin April 17 when Congressman Philip Ruppe will address students of the high school on the subject of pollution. The following students Tuesday will participate in class competition to clean up the high school grounds.

On April 25, Escanaba and Holy Name service clubs, stucouncils and volunteers plan to join in cleaning up Ludington Park. The next week a committee of Escanaba High School Student Council members will request to meet with representatives of local industry to discuss pollution control.

Contests will close on May 4, with judging to be done by five area photographers. The Student Council plans to officially end its 'Mother Earth' activities in conjunction with the statewide 'Day in May' pollution programs on May 9.

County Board Adopts Pollution Ordinance

In a surprise move Tuesday night, the County Board of Commissioners unanimously approved the Delta County Air Pollution Ordinance and appropriated $10,000 in the 1971 budget for carrying out the provisions of the ordinance.

The ordinance will now be submitted to the governor's office for approval and will not go into effect for 60 days, during which time time the ordinance can not be enforced.

Accordingto Prosecuting Attorney John Beauchamp, the statute under which the board passed the ordinance does not require any public hearing. The board, however, has held open discussions on the ordinance at several meetings.

Send To Governor

A copy of the ordinance, signed by the board chairman and the county clerk, will be sent to the governor and he must either approve or disapprove it within 10 days.

If the ordinance is approved, it will be filed with the Secretary of State. If it is disapproved, the ordinance will be sent back to the board and the governor's recommendations will be studied before further action.

Adoption of the ordinance came after nearly a year's study on the part of the board. The Save Our Air Committee submitted a suggested ordinance to the board in June of last year. The board later decided to develop an ordinance of its own. The board's ordinance has been under discussion since last fall.

Create Commission

The ordinance will create a nine-member air pollution control commission, which will include one licensed doctor of medicine, one member of industrial management, one member of industrial labor, one member from the township boards of Delta County, one member from the city council of Escanaba, one member from the city commission of Gladstone, one member of the tourist industry, and two citizens at large.

The ordinance also provides for the Air Pollution Control Commission to receive, review and approve or disapprove all applications, plans, specifications or any port thereof required for a construction permit.

Before construction, improvement, operation or implementation of any plant, equipment, stack, device, method or process in Delta County by any person for commercial, municipal or industrial purposes that may directly or indirectly cause or, by the current state of information, tend to cause air pollution, such a person shall obtain a permit from the Commission.

"All future state standards . . . promulgated by the Michigan Air pollution Control Commission" are incorporated into the ordinance.

The section on variances provides that variances from standards can be granted for up to one year and be continued from year-to-year, but "the total period of time for which a variance can be continued, including the initial period of time and continued periods of time, shall not exceed five years."

Regarding permits, the ordinance specifies that "where the standards adopted by the State of Michigan and the standards adopted by Delta County are the same, approval, conditional approval or denial of a permit by the State of Michigan shall constitute approval, conditional approval or denial of a permit by the county."

A PUZZLE

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Rep. Ed Holloway still is puzzling over an unsigned letter from a constituent at Louisville which says in entirety: "I have not made up my mind on this issue as yet."

Situation May Temper 'News' In Small City

A small community newspaper may not be able to print "all the news" that's fit to print because of its unique relationship with its community, the editor of the Escanaba Daily Press told the Escanaba Rotary Club Tuesday.

David L. Andrews, who was named editor of the newspaper last May, pointed out that even though the newspaper staff is aware of a "story" in the community and that people may be talking about it, other factors may determine when or whether a report is published.

He pointed out, for example, that last fall when a young man on what police described as a "bad trip" on LSD crashed through the front door of a store building in the next block from the newspaper office early in the morning the Daily Press delayed publication of the story for more than 24 hours in cooperation with the Escanaba Police Dept. and the prosecuting attorney.

Aware of Incident

Although the newspaper was aware of the incident, he said, no report was printed in response to a police suggestion that publicity in the case might hamper further investigation.

The Daily Press and its staff must live with the people of the community who are its news sources, Andrews pointed out, and unless it cooperates with those people the newspaper could be faced with the loss of information and cooperation from its sources.

The people of the city may be talking about a new industry or business development, he said, but the corporation or owners may not have final plans completed and be reluctant to make statements for publication which might jeopardize those plans until all of the details are finalized.

What About Meetings?

In some instances, he added, although local officials are aware of company or corporate plans, they are not authorized to speak for the company. Information must come from headquarters in another city, thus delaying a public report.

"Do we try to jam our way into executive sessions of city councils or local boards, or does this only serve to drive the council or board to someone's home, the next time not even revealing that a meeting is scheduled?" he asked.

"Should a newspaper publish a police report at the time of an arrest at the risk of embarrassing an individual, or wait days, weeks or months until a court disposition while the community talks anyway?"

Should the newspaper print one side of a labor dispute while the other says "no comment" and be accused of publishing a one-sided story, or withhold the side available and be accused of favoring the silent party?

Sports Problems

Andrews said problems even can develop in sports reporting, asking if the newspaper should level criticism at a high school team or coach after a poor performance or recognize that high school athletes are not professionals and are trying to do their best?

It is in these relationships that decisions and stories in small community newspapers differ from those of the metropolitan press. Escanaba doesn't have professional politicians like Detroit, Andrews said. In most instances, local politicians are just citizens trying to serve the community like the newspaper.

A question and answer session followed.

Andrews was introduced by Clint Dunthan, managing editor of the Daily Press and program chairman. Rotary President Thomas Straebel presided over the meeting at the House of Ludington.

Religious Teachers Given Instruction

Use of audio visual aids as a teaching tool was explained Tuesday night by Sister Ann Stadelhofer of Spalding at the fourth of six sessions in a Catechetical Workshop program for teachers of area Catholic parishes at St. Anne school.

Sister Ann explained discussion techniques used in connection with the viewing of a film. As a practical application of the theory given, the group viewed the film, "The Parable" and carried on a discussion similar to that which would be held with a class of students.

The workshop was organized by Sister Arlene and Mrs. William Suriano of St. Anne's Parish. They coordinate St. Anne's religious education program for children of the parish in grades one through eight who are not attending the parish school.

Sister Ann, workshop instructor, is working full-time this year in the field of religious education. She is coordinator of the religious education center at St. Francis parish in Spalding and instructor of the catechetical teachers there and in other areas of the Upper Peninsula.

The six weekly sessions are an inservice workshop for Catholic teachers who give religious instruction below the high school level. Purpose of the evening classes is to acquaint teachers new in the field as well as those more experienced with developments in the modern approach to catechetics.

Teachers participating are from parishes in Flat Rock (Holy Family). Schaffer (Sacred Heart), Wells (St. Anthony), and Escanaba St. Patrick, St. Joseph, and St. Anne.)

Topics already covered in addition to this week's are: The Catechist and Classroom Psychology; Need for Right Atmosphere and Attitudes; Lesson Planning: Creativeness in Planning Lessons; Demonstration of a Lesson Plan; Religion: a Way of Life for Teacher and Student.

The last two sessions will cover "Group Dynamics" and "Modern Catechtics."

Group Appointed To Select New UMTA Director

President Robert Sayles of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association today named a committee of selection to recommend a new executive director of the association to succeed Kenneth Dorman of Houghton.

Sayles, of Newberry, named William Veeser, Vice President - Administration, U. P. Power Co., Houghton; Jack Miller, Rapid River restauranteur, who will act as chairman of the committee; Harold Dettman, St. Ignace motel owner and chairman of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress; Louis Gheller, manager of Big Powderhorn Ski Resort in Gogebic County, and Ted Bogdan, owner of the Holiday Inn at Marquette, and Harold Dunklee, Munising motel owner.

Sayles said that the association had received several applications for the director's job, but that no commitments had been made and that the Committee would have free rein in its work of finding the best person to head the Upper Peninsula's new effort in recreational development. The UMTA director represents the Upper Peninsula on the State Tourist Council, which funds 80 per cent of UMTA's expenditures for advertising the Upper Peninsula's recreational resources.

UMTA's Executive Committee has named Sayles to represent it on the Michigan Tourist Council until an executive is chosen.

Dan Bushey, Rte. 2 Bark River, was found guilty of selling dirty eggs and was ordered to pay $25 fine, $15 costs and $3 judgment fees within seven days.

Delta Causes Given Support

MARQUETTE—Three resolutions from Delta County were endorsed by representatives of Upper Peninsula county governments at the organizational meeting of the U. P. Association of County Commissioners.

Nine of 15 counties in the Upper Peninsula were represented.

The group supported the appeal from Delta County that County Rd. 483 leading to Fayette State Park on the Garden peninsula become a part of the state trunkline system; that the federal government establish a staffed Weather Bureau office in Escanaba similar to the one which was closed after 92 years of service to the Upper Peninsula, and that when federal and state programs call for funds, the programs be financed by the respective levels of government rather than charging portions of these funds to county expenses by the statute.

Nelson Cook of Chippewa County, who was elected president of the organization, appealed to the six counties not represented to join the association to allow the U. P. to present a united front in its approach to development and new legislation.

White Pine Co. Tells Of Huge Expansion Plan

WHITE PINE (AP) — An expansion program to lift copper production from 159 million pounds a year to 234 million pounds in 1972 has been announced for its White Pine mine by the Copper Range Co.

A fifth grinding mill to raise the crushing and concentrating capacity from 25,000 tons to 32,000 tons of ore a day will be added, according to James Boyd, Copper Range president.

Boyd said capital expenditures could be met from internal sources, and reported that working capital was increased from $18 million in 1968 to $25 million at the end of 1969, despite capital expenditures of $12.1 million.

Boyd also reported a net profit of $15.8 million, equal to $7 a share in 1969, on sales of $102.2 million, compared with $9.7 million, or $4.37 a share, on sales of $82.1 million in 1968.

Food Industry Target Of Nader's Raiders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has permitted itself to be shackled to a chemical and genetic time bomb by the food industry, a report by investigators working under consumer advocate Ralph Nader said today.

"Nader's Raiders" charged the agency with wasting time on senseless campaigns of harassment while the food industry develops techniques "for manipulating the content of food products as dictated by corporate greed and irresponsibility."

"Until the FDA recognizes the food business for the profit-making giant that it is, this public agency will continue to be the vessel of an industry which through callousness, ignorance, or greed routinely mauls the public interest," the report said.

The investigators, the so-called Nader's Raiders, are young lawyers and law students recruited by Nader to look into areas of alleged consumer abuse.

The report, devoted almost entirely to what it termed the "total collapse" of the FDA's food regulation activities, said the agency had in effect reversed procedures for insuring the safety of food additives.

Instead of following the law requiring additives be safe, the report said the FDA accepts often insubstantial industry evidence, allows the chemicals' use and then challenges critical researchers to prove the ingredients unsafe.

In addition, the report said, the agency allows the industry to mask the additives' presence by freeing producers from the responsibility of listing ingedients on labels.

Further, the Nader investigators alleged, the FDA ranks sanitation inspection among its lowest priority jobs, taking the position food processors will maintain clean conditions voluntarily.

Yet the agency's own figures show in fiscal 1969 only 39 per cent of the establishments inspected were in compliance with sanitary regulations, the report went on.

League Sponsors Continued Study On Local Topics

The League of Women Voters of Escanaba elected Mrs. Harold Anderson president at its annual meeting on Monday of this week, succeeding Mrs. William Taylor who was recognized for her many contributions to the League during the past two years.

A budget was adopted by the membership to carry on its work in voters service, legislation, candidates, meetings, publications, and local operation. A finance drive in the fall is expected to raise part of the budget. The remainder of the needed funds will come from the League's annual used book sale in July, dues, and member contributions.

A study of library needs and services in Delta County was adopted as a new local study item. This topic was chosen to determine future library use and support.

Study Goals

The membership also voted to reexamine the local study items it has been carrying for several years for new or additional study and action. These items include:

1—Air pollution: Work for effective enforcement of strong local legislation.

3—Support of improvements in services to children through measures to strengthen the family unit by family counseling services, by protective services under "Children's Charter," and by increased support of existing agencies.

5—Support of adequate financing to meet the Escanaba Area Public School needs.

6—Support of Home Rule for Delta County if the legislature amends the present bill to provide more flexibility in the structure of county government, and if the legislature provides more options in the political party requirements for elected county officials.

In addition to Mrs. Anderson, other officers and directors elected for 1970-71 are: Mrs. Robert Haack, first vice president; Mrs. Vernon Ihlenfeldt, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Benson, Mrs. Roland Berry, and Miss Kitty Voelker, directors.

Other Officers

The nominating committee will consist of Mrs. Luther Barrett, chairman; Mrs. N. L. Lindquist, and Mrs. Albert Halcli.

Miss Voelker, District of Columbia Petition Drive chairman, announced that the Escanaba League will participate in a nationwide petition drive, seeking signatures to petition Congress to propose a constitutional amendment to give D. C. residents representation in Congress.

At present the only government officials D. C. residents can vote for are the president and vice president and the local school board. In all other matters the city of Washington is governed by Congress.

Know Your County

In May delegates from the 40 Leagues throughout the state and the state officers of the League of Women Voters of Michigan wil convene in Escanaba for State Council. Plans are afoot for this meeting under the direction of Mrs. N. L. Lindquist.

The League's annual report was distributed. Some of the highlights during the year included candidates' meetings for school board and city council, LWV 50th anniversary celebration and drive for funds, demonstration of new voting machines in Gladstone, giving testimony before the Michigan Water Resources Commission in support of high water quality standards, and a public meeting to discuss the pros and cons of public funds for non-public schools.

The Escanaba League's handbook on local government, "Know Your County" is now completed. It contains a wide variety of information on Delta County, Escanaba, and Gladstone with many charts and pictures.

New Leaders

Politically, quite a fuss was made several months ago as the United States closed out the "Soaring Sixties" and embarked into a new decade. President Richard Nixon talked about the programs of the 10 years ahead. So did Gov William Milliken of Michigan. A census was scheduled to count up the people and some of their problems. It was time to revitalize the nation, to assess the advances and setbacks of the 1960s and to move forward.

But few people in Escanaba then realized just how important 1970, all by itself, will be to the future of the community.

Before the year is over, voters of the city will have cast ballots in at least five elections. The first of those elections is history as three councilmen were put into office Monday. Still to come is the Escanaba Area public schools Board of Education election, a millage proposal of some type from the school board, the state primary and finally the general state election. And when the balloting is over, in addition to the city council, voters will have decided on the composition of the school board, the financial stability of the school district, a state representative, a state senator, state officers including the governor, a United States Congressman and a U. S. Senator. The question of aid to non-public schools also may be settled in Michigan if a petition drive to place a Constitutional amendment on the November ballot is successful.

* * *

In retrospect, voters of Escanaba appear to have done a reasonable job in Monday's Municipal election, choosing a banker, pharmacist and a businessman to help govern the city for at least the next two years. Ron DeVos, the banker, and Albin (Bud) Pearson Jr., the businessman, will be around for four year terms. Richard Pryal, the pharmacist, won the right to serve the final two years of an unexpired term.

Voters could have elected any of the eight candidates and received honest representation, but there is indication that the new composition of the council will give it a balance that might not have been achieved with other combinations.

DeVos, who along with incumbent Councilmen Robert Bink might be classed as "The Young Lions" of the community on the basis of their agressive involvement in community affairs, is a relative newcomer to the community, moving here from Illinois about five years ago. As such, he may lend a varied viewpoint to council deliberations.

Pryal, who has served an internship on the council as an appointee during the past year, as a pharmacist and businessman logically might represent a different view point, perhaps providing leadership in problems the city faces in its central business area. His experience as a professional man also should be invaluable.

Pearson, at least in terms of years, will be the senior member of the new city council and he brings with him the experience and knowledge of nearly three sometimes stormy years on the Area Board of Education. Council's gain is the school board's loss, but if Pearson can do anything to bring about a greater cooperation between the two groups the city and school district both may wind up winners.

The fifth member of the council is Cecil Chase, an employe of Clairmont Transfer Co. who brings as much dedication to his job as anyone.

* * *

Hopefully, the five men will be able to work together for the good of the community. The campaign is over now. Monday, the new Council will meet to reorganize and elect a mayor. Next Thursday, the firing starts in earnest. And the council's work is cut out.

Immediately, the budget is at hand. There is a $6 million water and wastewater treatment program. The yacht harbor needs improvements.

What does the city plan to do about the municipal dock? How about traffic flow in the city, particularly in downtown Escanaba and in the area of the new shopping center? There is need to expand the electric generating capabilities.

How about the ice arena? Can the city assist?

What about the airport? The snow removal difficulties of winter 69-70 apparently are gone, but winter 70-71 must be considered. County operation should be explored anew, in fact, greater cooperation between city and county government should be given a long, hard look from both ends.

The challenge of the 1970s is just beginning. It's up to the five men in the council chairs to lead the way.

Peninsula Potpourri

Harris Kahl, veteran school administrator with 35 years of experience in the tri-county area, resigned as superintendent of the Rudyard School system, effective June 30. He will remain as consultant to the Rudyard system and expects to continue living at his home in Rudyard.

Visitors to Fort Wilkins State Park this year will find an enlarged park store and remodeled nature museum, according to Park Supervisor Ike Lundberg. Books, brochures and pamphlets pertaining to the fort, Keweenawland, the Copper Country and Upper Peninsula will be available.

* * *

Snowmobilers in the Wakefield area think that Raymond Kahila may have set some sort of a record for distance traveled in one season. Kahila logged 5,700 miles this winter and has a two-year mark of 10,100 miles. His longest trip was 140 miles, traversing the territory through Silver City, White Pine and Bergland, his favorite route. He travels both day and night from November to April. This year he went through 410 gallons of gasoline and 82 quarts of oil, averaging 13.9 miles on a gallon of gas and 71 miles on a quart of oil. Kahila, who is a construction worker in the summertime, last worked at Copper Peak, has been a snowmobile enthusiast for four years.

Bold U.S. Approach Needed In Mid-East

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The politics of oil and the Middle Eastern policy of Secretary William Roger's State Department seem inextricably mixed. But nothing in our teeter-totter Middle Eastern diplomacy seems to be thought through.

We try to offend nobody, neither the Arabs nor the Israelis, and we end up by offending everybody. Jittery about our big oil investments in Libya and in the Arabian peninsula, we fail to give real solid backing to Israel, denying that plucky little country 35 Phantom jets that may be needed, at some point along the line, to counter the steady flow of armaments (including the new SAM-3 anti-aircraft missiles) that the Russians keep sending to Egypt's Nasser.

But if the Arabs ever get the jump on Israel — and we must remember that the Israelis, with their tiny living space, can't afford to lose even a single battle — our eastern oil investments will collapse overnight.

Without a strong Israel, the Russians, using the Arabs as their front, stand to take over the whole Middle East. Their fleets would dominate the eastern Mediterranean, the Red Sea, and even the Indian Ocean.

Paradoxically, the Occidental oil interests in Libya, for example, depend on Israel's continued existence. As long as there is a balance of power between Arab and Israeli in the Middle East, tense though it may be, the attractiveness of our technological oil know-how and our capital can do something to protect our stake in Arab oil. But if Israel falls, and the balance of power collapses, the Russians, probably with the help of the French, would pick our bones all the way from Algeria to the Persian Gulf.

* * *

In a half-hearted way the Nixon Administration recognizes the dangers we run. Realizing that it would be imbecilic to put ousselves at the mercy of the Arabs — and the Russians — for our oil supply, Nixon has shelved the recommendations of his task force on oil import control.

The task force panel, headed by Secretary of Labor Schultz, had recommended a switch to a tariff system which would have made imported oil to our East Coast consumers more plentiful and cheaper than the present quota system allows. In a world without dangerous power politics there would be no legitimate argument against free trade in oil.

But when the marauders of Communism threaten to close the seas, it would be dangerous to tie our oil consumers to dependence on a foreign product even though they might save a few dollars on it for the short run.

* * *

So we continue to encourage the domestic oil industry. By enabling the domestic business to continue operating the more marginal stripper wells, which account for approximately 30 per cent of all domestic oil, we keep the industry profitable.

Oil exploration capital continues to be raised on a complicated tax shelter basis by companies such as Inexco, King Resources, Buttes Oil and Gas Prudential and Apache, which can show funded people how to limit their risk in playing for big oil profits. (Oil, cattle, and real estate are three inflation-proof items that can withstand almost any market debacle.)

The very existence of oil on the Alaskan North Slope, even though the decision for a clearance of the Trans Alaska Pipeline languishes, is a heartening assurance that the Arabs — and their Russian supporters — won't be able to hit us in the solar plexus so far as fuel is concerned.

But we don't use the prospect of a western hemisphere oil sufficiency to any effect when it comes to our diplomatic dealings in the Middle East. Instead of letting the Arabs worry lest we declare our total oil independence, we seem to be doing the worrying.

It would be a more effective diplomacy if we coupled a forthright support of Israel with a policy of blaring to the Arab world our successes in opening great new oil fields in Alaska and in sending ice-smasher tankers such as the Manhattan through the Northwest Passage.

Congressman Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut sees the virtue of coupling strong support for Israel with a correspondingly tough diplomatic representation to Nasser that, while we are glad to have access to Arab oil, we don't need it on any blackmail terms.

In life, the Milquetoast approach betrays the stigmata of the born loser. In international diplomacy, the same rule holds. We should be bold in our approach to the Middle East.

EMBARRASSED ANNOUNCER

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) —The announcer on Rhodesia's only television channel began a news item about an African wanted for housebreaking. As he said police were appealing for information about the man, on the screen flashed a picture of Chief Leabua Jonathan, prime minister of the tiny African kingdom of Lesotho. "It was just one of those things," mumbled an embarrassed station spokesman.

Veteran Space Pilot Will Guide Apollo 13

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The world's most experienced space pilot will be at the controls for man's third, and most dangerous, landing on the moon.

James A. Lovell Jr., a 42-year-old Navy captain who has spent more time in space than anybody, will guide the Apollo 13 lunar module to the first manned landing in the rugged highlands of the moon.

Apollo 13 is the fourth space flight in eight years for Lovell. No other man has made as many flights into space or stayed there as long.

Last Career Trip

The moon mission also is the finale for Lovell's space career. He has announced he'll retire from space flying after Apollo 13.

"I feel that I've had more than my share of spaceflight," says Lovell. "I think in my career I've touched on every aspect of space flight that we have done."

Apollo 13 will be Lovell's second moon trip. He was the command module pilot on Apollo 8, which orbited the moon for the first time.

On Longest Voyage

He was also aboard for the longest space voyage, the flight of Gemini 7 in 1965. Lovell and Frank Borman orbited the earth 14 days to test man's ability to live in space.

Lovell was commander of Gemini 12, the last of the Gemini missions. The four-day flight included the first rendezvous using on-board computations.

After the two Gemini flights and the Apollo 8 lunar orbit, Lovell was asked if he had had enough.

"It'll be hard for an encore after going around the moon for 10 times and coming home," he said. But later he added: "I want to command a moon landing mission."

Will Quiet Addiction

Apollo 13 is that mission and Lovell believes it will quiet what he calls his "addiction to space flight."

Where once he talked excitedly of more space adventure, Lovell, now speaks of trips with his family and of working with the space agency from behind a desk.

"It seems like ever since 1962 I've been either going on a flight or off one," he says. "My wife is pretty happy that I can slow down a little bit and not either be training or debriefing and going into training again."

Milwaukee Native

Lovell grew up in Milwaukee where he showed an early, and almost disastrous, fascination with aviation and rockets.

He recalls that he and a high school friend once constructed model rockets using packing casings with gunpowder and glue. One of the home built missiles exploded on launch, he says and he and the friend narrowly escaped injury.

Lovell tried for the U.S. Naval Academy after high school graduation but was rejected.

Instead, he enrolled in the University of Wisconsin and joined the Naval Air Cadet program. He dropped out of college after his sophomore year and began naval flight training at Pensacola, Fla.

Academy Appointment

But within two months he received an appointment to the Naval Academy, left flight training and headed for Annapolis.

As a midshipman, Lovell "was far from a bookworm," says a classmate, but he still managed grades well above average.

He married Marilyn Gerlach of Milwaukee, three hours after his graduation. Lovell and Marilyn had dated since their high school days.

Lovell was a test pilot at the Naval Air Test Center in Patuxent River, Md., when the space agency asked for applications for America's first group of astronauts.

Passed Over

He was among the first in line, but was passed over. When second selection was announced, he again applied and was in the astronaut group chosen in 1962.

Six years later, Lovell, Borman and William A Anders stunned the world by orbiting the moon 10 times on Christmas Eve.

They beamed earthward a television view of the moon from 60 miles above its surface. In a Christmas time gesture, the three spacemen read the first 10 verses of the Bible, the story of creation.

Rocket Fires

On its 10th lunar orbit, Apollo 8 disappeared around the backside of the moon as Lovell was preparing to fire the rocket engine to start homeward. If the rocket failed, the astronauts would be stranded about the moon.

For more than 40 minutes listeners on earth waited tensely to learn if the rocket had worked.

They learned it from Lovell. As Apollo 8 reappeared from behind the moon, he quipped from 223,000 miles out in space: "Please be informed there is a Santa Claus."

Trio Lands Safely

Two and half days later, the three astronauts landed safely in the Pacific. Borman and Anders had had enough. They dropped from the space corps within a few months.

Lovell, Fred Haise Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II served as the back-up crew for Apollo 11, the first moon-landing mission.

After that success, the trio were named to Apollo 13.

Lovell's plans to retire as an astronaut are a relief to Marilyn Lovell.

"Each space flight is more difficult. I can't explain why," says the astronaut's wife. "I'm behind him, but I'll be very happy when he retires from space."

The Lovells live in a two-story house in a lakeside community not far from the Manned Spacecraft Center. Most of the other astronauts live nearby.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

Let's say you're East, defending against four spades. Partner leads the queen of diamonds, dummy following low, and continues with the jack, which South ruffs. Declarer enters dummy with a spade to the ace and returns a heart.

If you make the mistake of following low, South makes the contract. His jack forces West's ace and there is nothing your partner can return to harm declarer.

A heart lead to your king would be futile, since it would make South's queen a trick and permit him to discard one of dummy's clubs on the queen. A club return would be equally fruitless, while a diamond return would also accomplish nothing, since declarer could build up a heart trick all by himself.

But if you climb up with the king when the heart is first led from dummy and return a club, the story is altogether different. South winds up losing two hearts, a diamond and a club — and down he goes.

Now how in the world are you supposed to know that you should go up with the king of hearts at trick four? It seems to be a difficult play to make without seeing all four hands, especially because it violates the rule of second hand low.

Yet, actually, the king play is entirely logical. You can tell from seeing dummy that the only real hope of acquiring four tricks on defense is to assume that your partner has a trick in hearts and a trick in clubs.

If declarer has the A-Q of hearts, your king is dead regardless of what you do, so you might as well put up the monarch and hope for the best. When the king wins the trick, returning a club is like adding some icing to the cake.

Organ Transplant Gives Woman Jitters

Dear Ann Landers: All this talk about transplanting organs has me worried sick. For personal and religious reasons I don't want any of my parts removed after I die. I want to meet my Maker intact.

Why should the dean of Harvard Medical School or my next of kin have access to my heart or kidneys or eyes?

I have no objections to anyone else giving up their parts if they want to, but I do not choose to do so myself. How can I make sure it won't happen? — Anchorage Reader

Dear Anc: Put it in your will.

Dear Ann Landers: On occasion you reprint poems sent in by readers. I've been saving this one for years. It was written by Betty Billipp. I'm sure there's as much truth as poetry here. Please print it.

"No child of mine, I used to cry,
Before the stork had fluttered
Will ever throw a temper fit.
by,
Or bite or scratch or whine or
hit.
Or wear a diaper till he's three
Or sit for hours and watch TV
Or dawdle so he makes me late
Or leave his spinach on the plate.
Or act, in short, like other kids
Who've made their parents flip
their lids.
But with the patter of baby feet
Are 40 million words to eat."

Any parent who is honest will appreciate this. — Mrs. D. H. J.

Dear Mrs. D. H. J.: Yeah — and grandparents, too. Thanks so much.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a reader wrote complaining about doctors — their fancy cars, trips to Europe, etc. I would like to use your column to say "Thank you" to a doctor in Grant, Nebraska.

His "office" is in his home and his hours are when you need him. Believe it or not, he even makes house calls. I know personally of times he has driven 25 miles at 2 a.m. to see a patient and then brought him to the hospital in his own car, which is a Ford not a Cadillac. I know of one hospital patient who was so upset he couldn't sleep. When the nurse called for special orders Dr. C. came to the hospital at 4:30 a.m. to talk with the patient.

Dr. isn't a young man anymore. His wife is his office nurse and assistant. You pay him when you can and he never duns you.

I know there aren't many doctors like Dr. C. and I want everyone to know how much we appreciate him. Grant, Nebraska

Dear Friend: I'll bet Dr. C. will have a busy telephone today! My best wishes to you — and to him.

Cyanide Leakage Into Lake Causes Uproar Downstate

LUDINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of gallons of deadly cyanide were released into Lake Michigan some three weeks ago, and officials were at odds today over whether the public could have been endangered by the leakage.

Leakage Made Public

Leakage of the poison was first made public at a Ludington City Council meeting Monday night when the council asked local plating companies to provide emergency waste disposal systems so nothing similar could happen again.

"I'm no chemist," said Ken Baars, manager of the Ludington sewer treatment plant, "but if someone were to drink that water, they'd have been done."

Baars said if the leak had occurred during the summer months, anyone swimming near the plant's outlet or drinking water from the outlet could have been killed.

However, Donald Pierce, chief of the Waste Water Department of the State Public Health Department said that as far as could be determined the spillage did not endanger Ludington's water supply.

Water Inlet Nearby

The spillage occurred March 15, and according to a spokesman at the Straits Steel and Wire Co. from 800 to 1,000 gallons of eight per cent cyanide solution escaped when electrolitic action ate a hole in a 12,000-gallon holding tank.

When asked why there was no public announcement that the cyanide had been released, Ludington Mayor Robert Overholt said:

"I'm not sure. There have been a couple of council meetisgs since then."

Baars said a report from a state laboratory indicated there were 180 parts per million of cyanide coming into the sewer plant that night and 80 going out —despite heavy treatment with chlorine at the plant that Sunday night.

Goes Into Lake

He said the cyanide went into nearby Pere Marquette Lake and eventually into Lake Michigan.

"We knocked out 100 parts of it, but still this is awfully potent for any stream," Baars said, adding:

"I'd hate to go through it again."

He added that the situation might have been far more serious if the leak and had not been noticed quickly and the sewage plant informed so that it could begin treatment at once.

Even so, Baars estimated that 80 parts per million of cyanide remained in the effluent when it reached Lake Michigan.

No Dead Fish

Surprisingly, he said, weeks of tramping beaches near the plating plant outlet and the outlet for the sewage plant have not disclosed a single dead fish.

"I've been unable to find that any fish were killed, Baars said. "Personally, I believe there just weren't any fish there."

Baars said he doesn't believe anyone wanted to keep the release of the poison secret. He said county Health officials and the State Department of Natural Resources were notified immediately.

City Manager James Cartier also denied any effort to hide the information and added that city officials wanted "evidence so this couldn't be covered up."

Chlorine Being Used

Cartier added that the city protected the lakes "to the best of our ability — we were pouring chlorine to it at full capacity."

He said he questioned whether any cyanide as such got into Lake Michigan at all.

An official for the steel company said the cyanide tank burst "while we were standing there."

The spokesman, who asked the Ludington sewer system got about 800 to 1,000 gallons of cyanide before the plant managed to stuff rags into the leak and stopped it.

"As soon as we found the leak, we called the sewer plant so they could begin treating it."

Began On Sunday

He said it was lucky that the leak occurred on a Sunday morning when little water is used, so that about three hours elapsed before any of the cyanide actually got to the treatment plant.

"Cyanide tanks don't break," he said, "You never have an accident like that — but we did."

The official added that the company had a construction company on the scene within 25 minutes to begin pumping the rest of the tank into another storage tank, and the sewer is now plugged when the plant is closed each night.

Official Criticized

Pierce, the State Health Department official, was sharply critical of the city's handling of industry pollution. He said Ludington has been giving soft treatment to industry

"We have been working with the city for six years or more to strengthen their backbone," Pierce said in a telephone interview. "It seems every time we think things are under control, some months later another incident happens."

Pierce said that in the past there had been more than one industry involved in Ludington.

"About four in the town have created this kind of problem," he contended.

"It seems to me that the industrial management people are not taking the matter seriously enough to undertake steps to put in positive control measures so that they won't have a loss to the city sewer system from time to time."

Similar Incidents

Mayor Overholt said similar incidents had happened "a couple of times in the past, and we had fish killed—but there is a lot of water out there."

He said no humans have been affected by the latest or earlier discharges of cyanide.

The mayor said thus far there have been no public protests because the public was not informed about the leakage of cyanide.

"But maybe there will be now that the press is checking into it," he said. "Maybe we need a little public pressure sometimes. I'm not unhappy that it's out and whatever public opinion or pressure that comes, we'll be thankful for."

Time Change Due April 26

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States' "annual bout with confusion" is due at 2 a. m. on April 26, when many Americans will advance clocks, watches and other timepieces by one hour, marking the beginning of daylight saving time.

The confusion stems from the fact that not all Americans will switch to the new time. For example, in 1966, before Congress passed a law standardizing DST, more than 100 million citizens living in 20 states made the annual time change, but more than 80 million other Americans either did not go on DST at all or did so on a later date in the spring.

There were then 18 states that observed DST on a statewide basis, 18 other states where some communities observed it, and isolated communities across the country that observed "wildcat DST," a sort of voluntary compliance without formal legal sanction.

Jim's Miracle Market

THIS EARLY PICTURE taken about 1930 in Chippewa County is typical of much of the land purchased to make up the Hiawatha National Forest. Reforestation and fire control has brought most of this "waste land" back into production. It is fast approaching the day when it will contribute its fair share to the support of local governments. The Federal Government through the Forest Service spends 7.6 cents per acre each year for fire control and to prevent reoccurance of scenes like that in the picture above. Fire control is another cost which the state and local governments do not have inside the National Forest.

Hiawatha Forest Serves Public In Variety Of Ways

By L. E. HAACK

Forester U. S. Forest Service

Much has been said about the impact they have on the economic and social life of the communities.

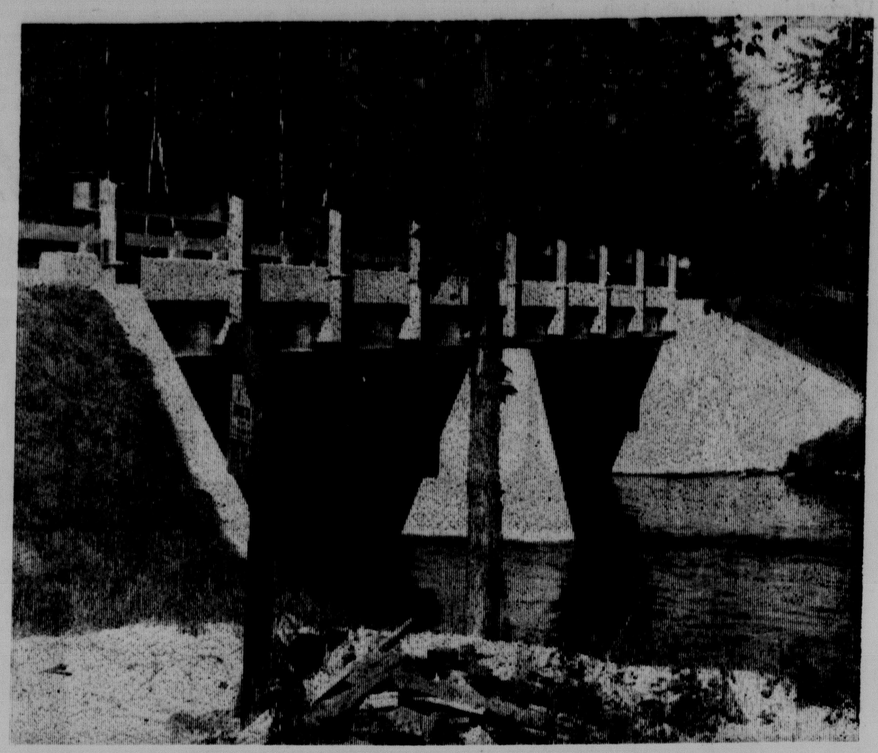
Improvements and investments made by the Forest Service needed to return this land to productivity and to make it available to the people also contribute to the economy.

Returns on these investments are increasing each year. They include road construction and maintenance, recreation area construction and maintenance, reforestation and fire control. These contributions far exceed the ad valorem tax.

In 1969, on the Hiawatha National Forest, they equaled $1.35 per acre. This was in addition to the 25% of National Forest receipts paid to the counties as cash payments.

(The accompanying pictures illustrate the growth and development of the Hiawatha National Forest to its present productiveness and the promise of greater public contributions. The Hiawatha National Forest includes areas in Delta, Alger, Schoolcraft, Mackinac and Chippewa counties.)



THIS BRIDGE BUILT over the Sturgeon River is an example of road and bridge projects financed and built by the Forest Service. The construction and maintenance of roads on the National Forest are a saving to the local governments. Last year the Hiawatha built an additional 14.8 miles of road and maintained 663 miles. How much did these activities contribute to the betterment of the eastern U. P.? The total maintenance and construction cost amounted to 92.3 cents for each acre of Hiawatha National Forest land.

TREES PLANTED 30 or 35 years ago contributed to the 33 million board feet of timber sold last year. The timber is cut by local labor, hauled over roads built by the Forest Service and most of it finds its way to local mills to give added jobs to local communities. In 1969 the reforestation and timber stand improvement programs contributed a total of 12.6 cents per acre. An additional 1,389,000 trees were planted and the quality of high value hardwoods was improved for future harvest.

THE CONSTRUCTION and maintenance of the 28 recreation areas on the National Forest is accomplished with federal funds and by personnel who live in the area. The cost of this construction and maintenance equaled 23.3 cents for each acre of National Forest land in 1969. In this year there was over 1½ million visitor days of recreational use making a sizable contribution to the economy, if the conservative figure of $7.00 spent per day per person is used.

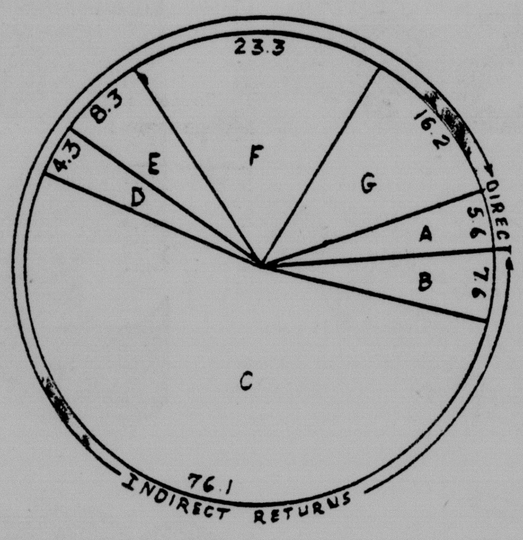
Detroit Council Asked To Reject Marchers' Permit

DETROIT (AP) — Patrick Murphy, commissioner of police in Detroit, asked the common council to deny anti-war marchers permission to hold a rally at Kennedy Square on April 15.

In a letter to the council Murphy said he wanted the group to disband at the foot of Woodward Ave. rather than at the square to avoid "mass confusion" and "possible belligerent confrontations" between marchers and those that disagree with their views.

James Lafferty, co-chairman of the Detroit Coalition to End the War Now, said in a letter to the council that "I trust the common council will recognize, as we do, that we have the right to assemble at Kennedy Square and engage in a peaceful protest, which is our intention."

The council invited both sides to a meeting Tuesday night to discuss the situation.



DIRECT AND INDIRECT RETURNS total $1.41 per acre to the area economy from the Hiawatha National Forest in the fiscal 1969. Here's the breakdown on contributions: A — 25 per cent cash return; B — Fire protection; C — Road construction; D — Timberland improvement; E — Reforestation; F — Maintenance and construction of recreation facilities; and G — Road maintenance.

Television Set Of Future Built

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Ten California Institute of Technology students have built, as they see it, the television set of the future.

By pushing buttons-like choosing a tune on a tavern jukebox-you'd get what you want in education, news and entertainment. Each category could be triggered with a hand-held control into almost limitless subdivisions.

Education would tutor everyone from preschool toddlers to college-graduate specialists. You could have a general news summary or the latest in any one field—stock market, religion, politics, etc.

Choices under entertainment, on the mock-up model, are "Low-Brow Drama," "High-Brow Drama," "Low-Brow Comedy," "High-Brow Comedy," "Travelogues," "Cartoons" and "Sports."

News would appear either printed or pictorial. At your command, a news sheet would roll out the front, electronically printed and including subjects of your choice.

Another, Jim Black, 20, electrical engineering major, explained a category labeled "Community Matrix." Through it viewers at home could hold a town meeting-and click their votes to a headquarters on their hand controls. Political candidates' latest pronouncements on issues could be instantly rerun. From home, housewives could see wares and prices at the supermarket.

Beck said more sophisticated models than their design could be in use by the year they have picked-1999. Screens probably would be flat, and portable like mirrors.

Toledo Worker Raps Questions On Census Form

ERIE (AP) — Because he thinks it is "an invasion of privacy and not very American," a 31-year-old factory worker has sent his long-form census questionnaire back without including what he considers "personal information."

James T. Manning, who lives in Erie and works in nearby Toledo, Ohio, said Tuesday he doesn't want "to become a martyr" and isn't in "financial condition to stand a fine." But he doesn't know yet what he'll do "if it comes to a final confrontation" with government agents.

He filled out the names, ages and relationships of everyone in his home, but he skipped the other questions, "because I felt they were getting out of hand."

"When the government starts piling up information like this on everyone," he added, "I don't think it's very American. I sure agree with two fellows in Delaware who called it (the long questionnaire) 'an invasion of privacy, probably unconstitutional and big-brotherism at its worst.'

"I wish I had the money to pay a fine and fight the questions to a finish.

"I called the Census Bureau in Toledo and asked what they would do. They told me they'd send a census taker to my home. I would have no objection to giving the information anonymously and I guess the answers could be of some statistical benefit to the government. Right now I'm just waiting."

Mrs. Hart Fears Her Conviction May Hurt Mate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Jane Hart, wife of Sen. Philip S. Hart, D-Mich., says she is concerned that her conviction for participating in a disturbance at the Pentagon last fall may affect her husband's chances for re-election in November.

"Some people will not vote for him but others will because of this," she said.

Mrs. Hart called Tuesday's verdict "a surprise and a disappointment," but said her husband agreed that an "appeal to a higher court is the right course to follow."

She told a news conference she didn't feel that the trial was unfair. "The judge conducted it as he should have done," she said.

Bark River High School Hosts Chilean Students

BARK RIVER — Two girls from Chile are being sponsored by Youths for Understanding International at the Bark River-Harris High School this term.

Ximema attended a catholic School, Monjas Francesas, a three story building, having an attendance of approximately 1,000 students, six days a week from 8:10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. or longer, for nine months from March through December. She began school when she was five years old.

Private School

Angelica (or Pelusa, her nickname, which means fluff) began school when she was four and attends the Charles de Gaulle Private School which is four stories and has 1,000 students. She goes to school five days a week from 8:10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. She has had 12 years of French.

Since Ximema came here her family has moved to Santiago, Chile's capital. She will be a high school senior this year and the plans to attend college there and major in math. Her father works for the government. She has two sisters, 18 and 15.

Pelusa will also attend college in Santiago and plans to major in languages. Her father has an electrical appliance store and her mother is an elementary teacher. She has a 10-year-old sister and a brother, 12.

School Subjects

In Chile, both girls took art appreciation, geometry, algebra, biology, French, English, chemistry, gym, music, government, psychology history and geography. Here, Ximema is taking algebra, English, government, history and home ec. Angelica is taking English, government, algebra, chemistry and journalism. The girls said at home, the teachers change rooms instead of the students.

Like Hamburgers

Both girls expressed a liking for hamburgers which they do not have at home and said teenagers dress the same as here. Their television and radio programs have many of our programs of music and movies. In Chile they have breakfast at 7 a.m., dinner at 12:30 p.m., tea time 5 to 5:30 p.m. and supper at 9 p.m.

Return In July

The girls met in the airport at Santiago when they left for the United States and were able to make the trip together. Their route of travel was from Santiago to Lima, Peru, to Miami, Chicago and Escanaba which took 20 hours. Both are returning home in July.

Ximema left April 4 for California to visit for two weeks with an uncle in Hollywood. She has been living with her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ahlin, and Angelica is living with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Ritenburgh. Both girls thought they were very fortunate to be here and said they were very happy with their families here.

Delta County Faces Deficit Of $80,000

Delta County may wind up 1970 with an operating deficit of over $80,000 if expenditures continue at levels projected by County Clerk William E. Butler for the Board of Commissioners.

The board Tuesday night gave approval to a tentative 1971 county budget which includes a projected deficit from 1970 of $81,451.

Total budget for 1971, including the deficit, would be $995,766, an increase of over $233,000 from the budget adopted last October and up more than $129,000 from the anticipated county expenses this year.

The actual operating budget which the Board of Commissioners will submit later this month to the Delta County Tax Allocation Board totals $914,315, an increase of about $152,000 from the 1970 appropriation.

Had Balance

If current expense projections are accurate, the 1971 budget also would be about $47,600 over anticipated 1970 costs.

Budgeted in 1971 is a five percent cost of living increase for county employes on the present base salaries. The raise, however, will not apply to members of the Board of Commissioners.

According to the estimated financial statement for 1970 prepared by Butler, the county had a balance on hand Jan. 1 of $68,227. Added to that are revenues of $461,992 (5.2 mills assessed on the county tax base, less 1970 delinquent returns) and $255,000 in miscellaneous returns including delinquent taxes from previous years

The miscellaneous returns reflect about $127,900 in state income tax rebate to the county.

Total 1970 revenue will total $785,219, according to the statement, with expenses expected to run $866,671.

Departures Cited

The major departures from the year's budget adopted by the board include $30,000 to Probate Court for state institutions (child care), $33,500 to the County Department of Social Services (welfare, etc and $10,800 to District Court (including $7,000 appropriated after the budget was adopted for the court's new probation program which was partially funded by a grant from the Michigan Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement).

Added expenses have come both in the form of deficiency appropriations by the Board of Commissioners and in increased costs experienced by the various county departments, Butler reported.

More Millage

To balance the 1971 budget, the county would need to levy 6.88 mills on the 1970 equalized valuation of $113,557,500 Butler indicated. This would be an increase of 1.68 mills over the present allocation of 5.2 mills.

An increase in the county allocation would be a comparable decrease in millage allocated to school districts of the county.

The tentative budget for 1971 includes a $38,000 appropriation for remodeling at Pinecrest, up from $25,000 expected cost this year; $10,000 for the County Air Pollution Commission which was included as a provision of the air pollution cotrol ordinance adopted Tuesday, plus increases to reflect the salary increase and additional expenses incurred this year.

There was a reduction of over $50,000 in the budgeted contingency fund.

October Action

The County Tax Allocation Board, which is scheduled to meet in an organizational session April 20, will consider the county budget along with tentative budgets submitted by townships and school districts in the county.

Final allocation order will be issued in May.

Tanker Freed From Sand Bar

The tanker SS Mercury of the Cleveland Tankers Corp. was released from a sand bar about 600 feet offshore at the Shell Marine Terminal at Wells this morning, after being stuck there since last evening. She was undamaged.

Paul Buchholtz, terminal manager, said the Coast Guard cutter Mesquite pulled the Mercury loose about 9:30 a. m. and the tanker returned to East Chicago.

The tanker ran aground after unloading at the Shell Terminal about 6:30 p. m. Tuesday when she was swinging around to head out into the channel.

The SS Mercury is 373 feet long, has a cargo capacity of 44,000 barrels, and her officer is Capt. M. J. Campbell. She was the first tanker to enter Little Bay de Noc this spring.

Other vessels are also having difficulty because of bad ice conditions here, at Sault Ste. Marie, Whitefish Bay, Marquette and the Duluth-Superior harbor.

Ore movement from Escanaba is delayed by the ice-choked harbor and cold weather that has frozen ore in the cars and in stockpile.

Sex Education Legal: Kelley

LANSING (AP) — Atty Gen. Frank Kelley issued an opinion today saying Michigan law and education policy clearly support sex education in the state's schools.

But birth control, Kelley said, may not be taught "under present law."

The opinion, requested by Dr. John W. Porter, acting superintendent of public instruction, and board member James F. O'Neil, also said that Michigan law saying students may be excused from such classes at the request of their parents does not conflict with U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

"Include other general family planning information such as the social, economic and psychological implications of various sized family units, the effects of population growth upon our natural environment and natural resources, population studies, and birth and death rates."

State Board of Education officials asked Kelley last fall for a review of Michigan laws on the subject. A continuing debate over sex instruction in the classroom kept the board from approving a set of statewide guidelines by the start of classes last fall.

O'Neil, the board's treasurer, mounted a continuing attack on then-Supt. Ira Polley and came up with his own set of guidelines which emphasized complete parental control.

Authority for sex education in Michigan classrooms is contained in a law passed by the Legislature and signed by former Gov. George Romney in May, 1968. It specifically directs the State Education Department to:

"Aid in the establishment of educational programs designed to provide pupils in elementary and secondary schools, institutions of higher education and adult education, wholesome and comprehensive education and instruction in sex education."

Romney, however, vetoed a related bill that would have authorized birth control instruction by removing an existing prohibition now on the lawbooks.

Such a repeal, Romney said, "would simply increase the tendency to sexual permissiveness which is already growing at an alarming rate."

Reindl Loses At Menominee

Menominee voters Monday elected a new mayor and approved a $500,000 bond issue to help construct a major bridge across the Menominee River.

Five term incumbent Mayor John W. Reindl was defeated by Jerry Nesbitt, 2,061 to 1,716. Nesbitt, 36, personnel manager of Vernco Corp. here, was making his first bid for the office.

At Kingsford incumbents Albert Groeneveld and Bruno Maule were returned to their council seats in the Kingsford city election Monday.

Groeneveld, mayor pro-tem of the council, was the heaviest vote getter among the three candidates for the two positions with 465 votes.

Mrs. Beatrice Corriveau and John R. Bianchetti were top vote-getters in a field of four candidates for the city commission in the annual municipal election Monday at Munising.

Mrs. Corriveau, 67-year-old mother of five grown children, received 468 votes to head the list in her first bid for public office. Bianchetti, incumbent commissioner who ran second, was given 349 votes.

Handicap Child Funds Approved For U.P. Schools

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education has approved distribution of more than $1 million in federal funds to 31 local or intermediate school districts for projects in special education for handicapped children.

The grants are to continue 19 approved last year and to begin 12 new projects.

"These grants will assist the local and intermediate districts involved to carry forward with programs that are already in progress to educate handicapped persons and will open new doors for this kind of education, which is so desperately needed," said board president Peter Oppewall.

Projects and amounts approved in 1969 and continued for 1970 include:

Marquette - Alger Intermediate District, $151,880; Menominee Intermediate District, $8,000; Sault Ste. Marie public schools, $22,351.

Projects and amounts approved for first funding in 1970 include: Marquette - Alger Intermediate District, $18,550.

North Central Reports Gains In Air Traffic

There were gains in all but one classification of air service in March at the Escanaba City Airport, North Central Airlines manager Pete Zimmer reports.

Here are comparative figures for the month:

Passenger total, 2,118 up from 1,689; first class mail 5,159 pounds up from 4,872; express 3,316 pounds up from 2,696; and freight 16,062 pounds up from 11,194.

The quantity of air mail declined from 5,800 to 3,517 pounds, and the drop may have been due in part to the recent strike of postal employes in several metropolitan centers.

Fishing Boat, Crew Held In Ice 18 Hours

GARDEN—Four men stranded in a fishing boat near Fairport for 18 hours Tuesday are safely back in port today.

Joe Peterson, Hector Peterson, Pete Jensen and Bill Stiener, all of Fairport, became stranded in the ice when returning from a day of fishing. Their boat became frozen in the ice and they were unable to move.

They left the Fairport dock at 6 a. m. without difficulty, and remained at their fishing site until 2 p. m. The men said they had tried to return to Fairport but the ice was freezing and piling up and by 7 p.m. they could go no further. The 45 foot long fishing boat was visible from the Fairport dock, however, no one was able to reach them.

In efforts to keep warm the men burned their buoys, life jackets, and fish boxes as well as their one-day coal supply.

The four men finally managed to get the boat to dock at 7 a. m. today. They were tired, cold and hungry, but un-hurt.

Railroad Suit To U.S. Court

The suit of a group of north Escanaba residents asking relief from activities of the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. at its iron ore terminal in Escanaba has been transferred to U. S. District Court in Marquette.

Transfer of the case from Circuit Court in Delta County under statutes which allow non-resident corporations involved in litigation in excess of $10,000 to have the case heard in a federal court.

Plaintiffs in the case, all residents of the area near the iron ore terminal, have asked damages totaling $615,000 from the railroad.

Petition to transfer the case to U. S. Disrict Court, Western District of Michigan, Northern Division, was filed by C&NW legal counsel.

Hearing on the part of the case asking a temporary injunction against the railroad's iron ore terminal operations had been scheduled to begin Monday in Circuit Court in Escanaba.

No new date for hearing has been set by Judge W. Wallace Kent of the federal court in Marquette.

Efforts are underway and meetings have been scheduled by attorneys and representatives of the railroad and of the complaining parties to find solutions with the least delay.

Shopping Good Test Of Survival For Man

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals for a mere man is supermarket shopping.

It is for him more a test of endurance and survival than of character.

For if there is one place in the modern world where woman doesn't have to struggle to obtain equal rights, it is in the average supermarket. There, in the unending war between the sexes, she has every advantage; man is at very disadvantage.

A grown man is as out of place alone in a supermarket as a 3-year-old child at a picnic of banshees and harpies. There is something about his presence there that arouses the killer instincts in veteran women shoppers.

They take out on him all the pent-up wrath they have felt in centuries of submission to male domination.

All a guy making his first trip through a supermarket has to do is to innocently ask a lady where the cans of dog food are. A look of unholy glee crosses her face as she deliberately misdirects him to the frozen vegetables department.

Then by whispered word and eyebrow gestures the ladies pass the news about him along: "This guy's a greenhorn. Let's give him the works."

If he tries to buy a steak, four ladies surround the fresh meat counter shoulder to shoulder and keep him away for 15 minutes while they chat about household problems.

If he starts to ask a 60-year-old biddy old enough to be his mother just where the store hides the tomato juice, she is likely to reply in stentorian tones:

"Are you trying to get fresh with me, young man? I've a good mind to slap your face. It's getting so a girl isn't safe anywhere anymore."

If he heads for the nearest checkout counter, half a dozen women elbow him out of the way. They show him no mercy, they yield him no quarter.

But their chief educational weapon in reducing him to a quivering jelly is the wire pushcart. After he has gone less than 50 feet into the store he feels like a squirrel on a thruway during the rush hour.

They hold to the exact center of the roadway and crash into him head on, sending half of his own groceries flying. They lie in wait and ambush him on the turns. They smash into him from behind every time he pauses to select an item.

"I spent two years in the infantry, but I never saw a battlefield quite like that," said one man, recalling his first visit to a supermarket. "I kept looking for a foxhole to dive into, but there wasn't any. I would have surrendered, but the women shoppers in that store didn't seem to want to take any male prisoners alive."

A man is fairly safe if he accompanies his wife to the supermarket—the other ladies recognize he has been captured—but any fellow who has to go it alone ought to get a combat medal for each trip he makes. And a government disability pension if he lasts a full year.

Warren, King To Get UAW Awards

DETROIT (AP) — Earl Warren, retired U. S. chief justice, and Martin Luther King Jr., slain Civil Rights leader, have been chosen to receive the Social Justice Awards of the United Auto Workers Union this year for "outstanding contributions to humanitarian causes."

Warren, also a former California governor, will accept his award and address delegates on the afternoon of April 22 at the UAW's convention in Atlantic City.

Mrs. King will accept the posthumous award to her late husband on the same program.

Other convention speakers will include Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Secretary of Labor George P. Schultz, only member of the Nixon administration appearing on the April 20-25 convention program.

Nelson speaks April 21 and Schultz on the morning of April 22. UAW President Walter P. Reuther will address the opening session April 20.

Hollywood Director Proud Of War Effort

"It's a shame that only war and common danger bring out the best in men," he said.

But at 67 Wyler, a landmark Hollywood director and producer whose films have accounted for 40 Oscars and 140 Academy Award nominations, is still trying himself to bring out the best in men.

"It s my philosophy that a man should stand up for something," he said. "I like to make entertaining pictures, but I also get great satisfaction out of making a film that hopefully can contribute something to the improvement of our society."

Right now he is hopeful that his latest film, "The Liberation of L.B. Jones," a drama of lust and revenge, will help the plight of the Negro in the South.

A careful craftsman who takes two years or more to complete a picture, Wyler has been remarkably successful in turning out films that ring the cash register whether they are pure entertainments or also carry a message.

The director came to this country at the age of 18 from his native Alsace and started as a film company clerk at $20 a week. By 1925 he was earning $60 a week turning out two-reel westerns budgeted at $2,000 each.

His work since then has won him 13 personal Academy Award nominations and three Oscars. They were for directing "Mrs. Miniver," "The Best Years of Our lives," and "Ben-Hur." He has also won critical acclaim for such other films as "Wuthering Heights," "The Little Foxes," "Roman Holiday," "Detective Story," and "Funny Girl."

What are the chief requirements of directing?

"I'd say they are a knowledge of your craft and a passion for your subject," replied Wyler. "You have to have both. One alone is not enough.

"And that's a big problem. It isn't always easy to find a story or a subject that stirs a passion in you."

And what are the rewards of directing?

"Well, it is fascinating because there are no two days alike," he said. "And when you do something good, the rewards are tremendous.

"People remember what you've done for 20 years or more. That's very gratifying, when you consider that so many millions of people who do good work every day in other fields get only a slap in the back."

Castro's Sugar Harvest Plans Hit Sour Note

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba's sugar harvest is running so far behind schedule that they're betting on this side of the sugarcane curtain that Fidel Castro won't reach the 10 million tons on which he says rides the honor of his revolution.

The five millionth ton of Castro's dollar crop, scheduled for harvest March 17, was reached nine days late, Havana radio reported. Castro blamed rains and other factors. The tropical rain season still lies ahead.

The sixth million was scheduled for harvest Friday. Economists noted that more than 50,000 tons daily would have been needed to make the goal even if the halfway mark had been on target. Daily production, announced in Cuban broadcasts monitored here, have been below 45,000. Wednesday's, one of the higher ones, was announced at 44,887 tons, placing the total harvest at 5,296,882 tons.

"The best month-March-is gone," said the Economic research Bureau, operated by exile economists.

Brewers' Debut Spoiled Before 37,237 Fans

A huge crowd of 37,237 who watched the California Angels crush the Milwaukee Brewers 12-0 was nearly the largest Tuesday audience in the majors.

"It's exactly what I expected," said baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who watched the return of baseball here. "It's just another in a series of miracles to be wrought in Milwaukee again."

"I was confident that the enthusiasm would be here," the commissioner said. "It's just tremendous."

"Baseball is good for Milwaukee," Kuhn said, "and Milwaukee is good for baseball. No doubt about it."

More than 1,800,000 fans turned out in 1953 after the Braves moved here from Boston. In the team's 13-year stay in Milwaukee, the Braves drew nearly 20 million fans, leading the National League in attendance for several seasons.

While the game marked Milwaukee's return to the majors following the Braves' departure to Atlanta following the 1965 season, the Brewers' debut was not as successful on the field.

"Every one of us wanted to do well and be impressive," said Brewers Manager Dave Bristol. "Maybe we tried too hard. But then they had a pretty good guy going for them."

Andy Messersmith limited the Brewers to just four hits—three by outfielder Steve Hovley—while the Angeles' bats pounded out 14 hits, including three triples.

California opened its scoring parade in the second inning on Alex Johnson's triple and Jim Spencer's sacrifice fly. Bill Voss tripled home two more runs in the third, then scored himself on the first of two Brewer wild pitches.

The Angels added four runs in the fourth, three in the seventh and one in the eighth, battering five Milwaukee pitchers.

Messersmith struck out 11 and walked four, tying his own record set ironically against the Seattle Pilots Sept. 14, and equalled against the Pilots Sept. 22.

Chiro's Win League Title

The City Bowling League (Bowl-A-Rama, Monday, 7 P. M.) held its year end playoff Monday evening. The first half winners, Drewry's Beer and second half winners, C. J. Chiro's, rolled off the league championship. Chiro's bested Drewry's with scores of 915-870-887, total of 2672 to Drewry's 804-792-865 total of 2461.

Trophies and achievement awards were presented by Dr. Stanchina, President and Leonard Boudreau, Secretary-Treasurer. Chiro's took the team championship, Drewry's the second place trophy. Dr. Stanchina high average 191; high individual game, Dave Moyle 257; and high individual series, Red Holmes 680. The most improved bowler, an ABC award of a belt buckle, went to Chuck George and Dr. Stanchina received the past President Pin.

In conjunction with the rolloffs, a fun night was held. Mrs. Karl's Bread took honors of high series, 3040, with handicap, Herro's RCA high team game with 984, Ernie Baribeau, high individual game, 223, and high series, Dr. Stanchina, 594.

The members of the winning team were Dr. C. J. Norelius, Dave Moyle, Jim Cole, Paul Cole, Fred Lancour, and Les Kamin.

Senators Clobber Tigers; Six Pitchers Worked Over

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit Tigers' manager Mayo Smith was philosophical after the Washington Senators blasted his team out of its brief stay in first place 14-4 Tuesday night.

"We had a bad night tonight but I guess I can't complain too much because we have been going real good." The Tigers won their last five exhibition games and beat the Senators 5-0 in Monday's season opener.

Losing pitcher Earl Wilson was the victim of some cheap hits in his 2 1-3 innings but he said, "That's part of the game. On another night, they might have been caught."

Joe Grzenda of the Senators picked up a save by pitching the last four innings, the longest he ever has pitched in the majors.

In Detroit's only glittering moment, left fielder Willie Horton made a sensational lunge into the Tigers' bullpen to snare a cinch fly homer and rob Ken McMullen of a three-run homer.

"The ball was out of the park," Horton said after the game. "I leaped about two feet over the fence, holding the fence with the other hand. The bullpen helped. Sometimes they scare you off but they helped by not saying anything."

Detroit went through six pitchers and collected only four runs off 11 hits while Washington got 14 runs on 17 hits. Washington used only two pitchers.

The Tigers scored first in the first inning when Dick McAuliffe singled and Cesar Gutierrez hit a slow dribbler to the left of the mound past pitcher Casey Cox that allowed McAuliffe to score and Gutierrez to take third. Gutierrez scored when Norm Cash hit into a double play.

The Tigers added another run in the third when Al Kaline led off with a long double, took third on Cash's infield out and scored on Horton's ground ball to short.

Cash then put a Cox pitch over the rightfield screen in the fifth to narrow the spread to 6-4.

The Senators scored runs in all but two innings, the 1st and 8th. They got four runs in the 2nd and again in the 5th inning.

McMullen, Lee Maye and Dave Nelson singled to load the bases with Senators in the second inning and then Wilson walked veteran catcher John Roseboro to force home a run. Del Unser singled in two more with a ground ball and Ed Brinkman singled home Roseboro with a bouncer.

Alyea's Big Bat Leads Twins Over White Sox

By The Associated Press

Brant Alyea's famous yo yo imitation may be over at last.

Alyea has been up and down and all around the Washington organization so often over the last few years that there were times when he looked to see where the string was attached. But now he seems to have found a home in, of all places, Minnesota's outfield.

He blasted two homers and two singles, driving in seven runs in the Twins' 12-0 Opening Day romp over Chicago and those are impressive credentials, even for a yo yo.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday, California welcomed Milwaukee back to the majors with a 12-0 shellacking of the Brewers, Baltimore slugged Cleveland 8-2, Boston tripped New York 4-3, Oakland defeated Kansas City 6-4 and Washington pounded Detroit 14-4.

Until Tuesday, Alyea's claim to fame had been a home run in his first major league swing with the Senators back in 1965 and stickers on his luggage since then that read Hawaii, York, Montgomery and Buffalo —all ports of call for Washington hopefuls.

Alyea got into 104 games with the Senators last year and was one of the few hitters who lost ground instead of gaining it under Manager Ted Williams.

"I wasn't one of his proteges," said Alyea. "I batted .270 the year before he took over and .250 under him."

The Senators, shopping for pitching help this spring, dealt Alyea and his active luggage to Minnesota for Joe Grzenda three weeks ago. He was installed in left field and now it looks like he can unpack for keeps.

He had the biggest day of his career in the opener against Chicago, singling in his first two swings and then jolting consecutive three-run homers as the Twins romped.

Alyea's heavy hitting made things easy for Jim Perry who coasted on a six-hitter for the shutout.

Baltimore opened defense of its AL crown with an impressive victory over the Indians as Dave McNally spun a four-hitter and struck out 13.

Paul Blair and Dave Johnson each drove in two runs with eighth inning doubles as the Orioles broke the game open. Frank Robinson homered for Baltimore and rookie Ray Foster connected for Cleveland.

A pair of run-scoring doubles by Rico Petrocelli had helped the Red Sox to a 4-0 edge before the Yankees knocked out Peters in a three-run sixth. But Lee shut the door after that, making Eddie Kasko's major league managerial debut a success.

Oakland used home runs by Sal Bando and Don Mincher and some tight relief by Rollie Fingers to beat Kansas City.

Bando's two-run shot and a double and triple by Rick Monday as well as Mincher's homer, helped the A's to an early lead and then Fingers shut off a KC comeback in the late innings.

Phillies Blank Cubs 2-0; Cincinnati, Mets Triumph

By The Associated Press

It took one Short cut to get Lucchesi in high gear, two arms to get Anderson off the ground . . . and eight years and 11 innings to get the Mets safely out of the starting gate.

Right-hander Gary Nolan kept Anderson, Cincinnati's new skipper, in orbit by following southpaw Jim Merritt's three-hit opening day triumph over Montreal with a two-hit 4-0 conquest of Los Angeles.

The world champion Mets, winless in all eight of their previous season openers, tripped Pittsburgh 5-3 on Donn Clendenon's two-run pinch single in the 11th inning.

In other National League opening games, Norm Miller's three-run pinch homer carried Houston past San Francisco 8-5 and a three-run blast by Nate Colbert helped San Diego stun Atlanta 8-3.

St. Louis played its first game today at Montreal.

Short, who pitched just 10 innings last April before undergoing surgery for the removal of a herniated disc, launched his comeback with a five-hit performance against the powerful Cubs. It was his first victory since Sept. 29, 1968, and his third opening day shutout in 11 years with the Phils.

"It's a lot to miss a year out of your career," he said. "There are only so many years you can play. I knew I was back from the way I pitched in the spring, but you still have to prove it to the hitters."

Leo Durocher, the Cubs' pilot, needed no further proof after watching his hitters mowed down by the 32-year-old veteran. "He shut us out, didn't he?" Leo snapped. "You can't win without runs. He looked the same to me—tough!"

Nolan, 21, checked the Dodgers on two singles—both by Willie Crawford—and permitted just four other runners to reach base, three on walks and the other on an error. Crawford's scratch single off shortstop Dave Conception's glove in the fourth inning was the lone Los Angeles hit until he singled to right in the ninth.

Ex-Pirate Clendenon drilled a single off reliever Joe Gibbon's first pitch with the bases filled in the 11th, giving the Mets their opening day breakthrough. Pittsburgh had tied the game against Met ace Tom Seaver in the sixth on a triple by Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente's single.

Miller drove Gaylord Perry's two-strike delivery over the left field fence in the seventh inning at San Francisco, knocking in three runs to snap a 3-3 tie. The Giants rallied for two runs in the bottom of the inning but Houston relievers Jack DiLauro, Jim Bouton and Fred Gladding stopped them the rest of the way.

Colbert's homer off Atlanta ace Phil Niekro climaxed a five-run third inning explosion and the Padres breezed home behind Pat Dobson and reliever Ron Herbel.

Phoenix Loses; Playoffs Knotted

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, "acting more like a close-knit unit," and sporting a hard-nosed defense, have forced a turnabout in the National Basketball Association's Western Division playoffs.

Down 3-1 in the best-of-seven series with the Phoenix Suns, the Lakers have roared back to knot the matches, 3-games-all, with two straight victories, including a 104-93 decision Tuesday night.

Final game is Thursday night in the Los Angeles Forum.

Milwaukee and New York begin a best-of-seven series Saturday in New York to decide the Eastern Division championship.

The Dipper may have sacrificed himself offensively, with 12 points, but he made up on defense, with 26 rebounds.

"It was kind of physical out there," Wilt said. "But, when I'm doing what I can to help the team, I'm completely satisfied."

Jerry West led all scorers with 35 points, and was credited with an unofficial 12 steals defensively.

About as damaging to the Suns, however, was the play of guard Keith Erickson.

Erickson, who sat out most of the first half and didn't score a point, came off the bench in the last half to score 15 points and harry the Suns on defense.

His two buckets broke open a 73-3 deadlock going into the fourth period, and a key steal from Dick Van Arsdale with Los Angeles leading 95-91 with 2:30 remaining helped ice the win.

"I can't be anything but ecstatic," Erickson said. "We're playing our kind of ball now... we're better on defense and that means we're doing better on offense, too."

Phoenix committed 23 turnovers, including two in a row after narrowing LA's lead to 93-91 with only three minutes to play.

Stanley Cup Playoffs In Full Swing Tonight

By The Associated Press

At least the Stanley Cup playoffs still have Gordie Howe even if they don't have the Montreal Canadiens.

The National Hockey League post-season fight for the Stanley, symbol of world supremacy, starts tonight with the Canadiens on he sidelines for the first time in 22 years.

Winners of a record 12 Stanley Cups including the 1969 championship, Montreal was shoved out of the playoffs on 1970 the final day of regular season play by New York.

The venerable Howe hasn't been in quite as many playoffs as the Canadiens but this marks the 19th year for the durable Detroit star, who recently celebraed his 42nd birthday.

Two games in each division tonight start the best-of-seven quarter-final series in the NHL and with Toronto also on the sidelines the United States is assured of its first Stanley Cup since 1961, when Chicago won.

In he East, New York is at Boston and Detroit at Chicago. The West matches send Minnesota to St. Louis and Oakland to Pittsburgh.

Howe's 19 years in the playoffs equals the NHL record held by Red kelly, who is also a Stanely Cup playoff participant this year—but as coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Gordie needs a total of 14 playoff games to equal the record of 164 by Kelly, who was in the playoffs every year from 1948-67 except 1959 while playing for the Red Wings and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

In his 150 previous playoff games, Howe has scored 156 points, including 91 assists—both postseason marks.

This is the first time in modern NHL history there is an all-American cast for the Stanley.

The East combatants are fresh from the wildest race in NHL history. The Black Hawks wound up in first place, becoming the first club to move from last place to a regular season title in one year. Boston was second, Detroit third and New York fourth.

Chicago will pit the firepower of Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita plus rookie goalie Tony Esposito, whose 15 shutouts were a modern NHL record, against Detroit's veterans, headed by Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich.

The Red Wings have won more Stanley Cups than any other American team. They last captured it in 1955 and won six earlier times. The Black Hawks are three-time winners.

For Boston, 1941 was the last Stanley Cup year and it's been a year longer since the Rangers achieved supremacy on the ice. Each team has won a total of three Stanley Cups.

The Bruins' savage defense must be penetrated by New York and the Rangers also have to worry about the high-poiwered offense of Boston's sensa-to nai ldefenseman Bobby Orr, the NHL scoring leader, and forward Phil Esposito, who finished second in scoring. New York will counter with goalie Ed Giacomin and the offensive play of Jean Ratelle and Walt Tkaczuk.

The scoring of Red Berenson and Phil Goyette sparks St. Louis, which easily won first place in the West. The Blues were finalists fofr the Stanley Cup the previous two seasons. Goalie Gump Worsley gave Minnesota a big boost in the stretch drive after being acquired from Montreal and the Stars get offensive boosts from Billy Collins, Danny Grant and Claude Larose.

Pittsburgh, in the playoffs for the first time after a second-place finish under first-year Coach Kelly, have rookie goalie Al Smith and forwards Dean Prentice and Ken Schinkel as their big guns.

Oakland will try to halt the Penguins with the performances of veteran forwards Earl Ingarfield and Billy Hicke and converted defenseman Carol Vadnais.

Navy Develops Undersea Gun

WASHINGTON (AP) — In strict secrecy, the Navy has developed a new underwater gun to arm its combat swimmers against enemy frogmen and sea creatures.

Brief mention of "a hand gun for self-defense against hostile swimmers and marine life" appears in Navy testimony asking Congress for authority to buy a variety of weapons.

When asked for details on the underwater handgun, the Navy refused on grounds "all additional information is classified."

Navy sources seemed surprised that reference to the new weapon had appeared in the testimony, indicating it may have skipped past the censor.

The new gun is intended for the Navy's commando-like Seal —for sea, air and land—teams and its underwater demolition units.

The Seals are known to have operated in Vietnam, setting ambushes in Mekong Delta streams among other things, sources said. But whether the Seals ever engaged in fights with Viet Cong swimmers is not known.

However, nearly four years ago U.S. Navy leaders in Vietnam expressed concern over evidence that several hundred Viet Cong frogmen had been trained to mine ships and bridges in Vietnamese rivers and harbors.

The Seal teams were established by the Navy in January 1962, when the idea of special warfare units like the Army's Green Berets caught the fancy of the late President John F. Kennedy.

The Seals are trained to conduct unconventional and paramilitary operations with little outside support after leaving surface vessels or submarines, or parachuting into a target area.

Fish-Eating Ban Asked By Michigan Governor

LANSING (AP)—In the wake of a Canadian ban on sport fishing in Detroit waters, Gov. William Milliken Tuesday recommended Michigan residents not eat any fish from the St. Clair river, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River.

Milliken termed his suggestion "a temporary precautionary measure" in light of the Ontario ban levied because of concern over possible mercury contamination in the fish.

Milliken pointed to a recently issued state agency report that found "no evidence of damage to health" from the fish and said "in view of this, I see no reason for Michigan to prohibit sports fishing in these waters at this time."

But, the governor added, he has requested state agencies meet immediately with Canadian government agencies and U.S. federal agencies.

"I have further directed state agencies to accelerate efforts to completely eliminate mercury contamination of all Michigan waters" the governor said.

Milliken noted that the state report, prepared by the Departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Public Health and released last Friday, did not indicate any mercury poisoning danager in fish from Michigan waters.

"There is no risk of toxicity or illness in sport fishermen or others who occasionally eat fish from these waters," the report said. It did not define the term "occasionally."

"Based upon all available information, there is no evidence of any acute or chronic health problem due to mercury contamination of the water or fish," the report added.

Milliken said Tuesday the state was "attempting to learn what additional information Ontario authorities may have relating to health implications of mercury in these fish.

"Meanwhile," he added, "Michigan departments have uncovered no new information of their own which would alter the appraisal made last Friday..

"However, in view of the actions Ontario has taken, I would suggest that as a temporary precautionary measure, Michigan residents not eat any fish from the St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair or the Detroit River until this matter can be further clarified."

A spokesman for the State Natural Resources Department said that the agency has no authority under Michigan law to close sports fishing, except in cases where a species is in danger of extinction by over fishing.

He said that under the present circumstances, sports fishing could be halted only by the governor, under an emergency proclamation, or the Legislature, by passing a special bill.

Canada To Compensate Lake St. Clair Fishermen

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadian Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday the federal government will make compensation payments to fishermen whose incomes have been cut off because of mercury pollution in Lake St. Clair.

He said the amount of the initial compensation will not be made public "since it might prejudice the efforts of the fishermen to get further compensation from the companies responsible for the pollution."

Energy Minister J.J. Greene, who also attended the meeting, said in a later interview the Canadian government last week wrote "a strong letter" to the U.S. State Department protesting pollution of the St. Clair River by chemical plants in the Detroit area. There had been no reply, he said.

Davis said a maximum of 100 commercial fishermen will be affected by the Ontario government's ban, announced Monday, on fishing in Lake St. Clair and some adjacent waters.

Kerr said he and Brunelle will meet officials of Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd., Wednesday to discuss compensation by the company to the fishermen.

If Dow fails to cooperate, fishermen could take their cases to the courts, Kerr said.

Dow is believed to be one of the companies largely responsible for the mercury pollution, Kerr said.

He said 11 companies have been found to have mercury losses into lakes and rivers in Ontario and have been given provincial government orders to clean up their operations.

Brunelle said no plans are being made to compensate sports fishermen for their losses as a result of the ban.

Ironwood Man Finds Driving Tricky Affair

IRONWOOD (AP) — "I'm a very unlucky man," said 29-year-old Ossi U. Kuula of Ironwood as he dusted himself off after two automobile smashups in virtually the same spot within a span of less than 11 hours.

On the other hand, sheriff's deputies considered him "a lucky man" because he escaped with only a few minor bruises.

Ossi, driving east toward this Upper Peninsula community lost control, and his car went off a country road and crumpled a fender against a wheel about 11:40 p.m. Sunday. Deputies took him home and towed his car to a garage.

Ossi appeared bright and early today, straightened the crumpled fender sufficiently to permit driving and started west on the same road to look for a hubcap lost in his first accident.

At 9:55 a.m., in virtually the same spot, Ossi lost control again, went off the road and hit another tree, this time smashing in the front of his car.

Deputies said an overnight drizzle mixed with snow was an extenuating circumstance today. But they also said Ossi was driving on a temporary permit and told him to come in for re-examination when his car's fixed.

Detroit Soldier Dies Following Shell Explosion

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — The Army said Tuesday Pfc. Victor Worthy, Detroit, Mich., died from wounds received when he apparently disturbed an artillery projectile on a firing range and the shell exploded.

Worthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Worthy, was inspecting the range with an officer for communications wire when the blast occurred. The officer was unhurt.

The soldier was airlifted by helicopter to Ft. Knox' Ireland Army Hospital, where he died about seven hours after the incident. Army doctors tried to save him with surgery for multiple fragment injuries.

An investigation was under way.

Abortion Law Reform Action Under Scrutiny

LANSING (AP) — Abortion law reform, labeled a "must item" for this legislative session by Gov. William Milliken, is expected to undergo close committee scrutiny by next week.

Sen. N. Lorraine Beebe, chairman of the Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement, said Tuesday that she expects a bill to be reported out at least by month's end.

The committee already has proposed amendments to consider, said Mrs. Beebe, a Dearborn Republican.

Those amendments may bring one of some eight pending bills into conformity with provisions put forth by Milliken.

The governor endorsed a sweeping proposal that would allow a woman less than three months pregnant to decide on an abortion with the approval of her doctor.

Mrs. Beebe expressed hopes that the measure would pass, saying "the people have spoken —now it's time for the Legislature to act." She pointed to public opinion polls and lawmakers' constituent surveys as indications of the people's sentiments.

"There are very few people who won't say the word 'abortion' out loud today," Mrs. Beebe added. "A year ago you didn't find this."

TWOFOLD SUCCESS

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP)—Church warden J. Hoole decided to use a carbide gun, sounding like a small cannon, to frighten away the tick birds which have been fouling the Anglican church of St. Peters at Kimkelbos, near here. It is set to go off every ten minutes, even when church services are in prograess. It has had the two fold success of scaring off the birds and keeping the congregation awake.

Pollution Trip

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken will make another try April 15 to visit areas with pollution problems.

The air tour had been planned April 2, but was scrubbed because of bad weather. The trip will involve the Midland-Bay City-Saginaw area, the Detroit area, Benton Harbor, Muskegon and Grand Rapids.

Anaconda Hikes Price Of Copper

NEW YORK (AP) — Anaconda Sales Co. said Tuesday it was following other producers in the four-cents a pound price increase for copper initiated last week by Phelps Dodge Corp.

Anaconda Sales, a subsidiary of Anaconda Co., said its new price of 60 cents a pound for refined copper produced from domestic ores was effective immediately. It said the price holds only for domestic shipments.

Approval Of Sports Fishing Puts DNR In Middle Of Rift

By The Associated Press

Government officials on both sides of the international boundary running through Lake St. Clair and the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers have reacted differently to evidence of mercury contamination of fish taken from those waters, but their message is the same: don't eat the fish.

Sport Fishing OK'd

But the State of Michigan declined to follow Canada's lead in banning sport fishing in the affected areas. A spokesman for the State Natural Resources Department said that the agency has no authority under Michigan law to close sports fishing under the circumstances.

Commercial fishing has been closed to Michigan residents in Michigan waters for some time, but Ontario authorities acted a week ago to ban commercial activity on the Canadian side when sample fish were found to contain mercury.

Precautionary Measure

Milliken termed his warning a "temporary precautionary measure" and said that a recently issued state agency report indicated there is "no evidence of damage to health" from the fish.

Authorities Rapped

Michigan's decision to continue to permit sport fishing in the affected areas brought a critical response from Ted Pankowski, assistant director of United Auto Workers conservation department.

Pankowski charged that Michigan authorities are more concerned with tourist trade than health.

I wish to thank all of my friends and relatives for the cards, gifts, flowers and visits I received while a patient at St. Francis Hospital. A special thanks to the nurses on third floor North for their wonderful care, to all the hospital staff, to Dr. Wm. LeMire III and Dr. Hockstad. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered. Also I would like to thank all those who have made my convalescence at home a pleasant one.

SHELBY (AP) — A 79-year-old Oceana County resident has literally gven his land back to the Indians.

Leon Shatenberger, who lives with relatives in Hart, said he gave the deed to 71 acres he owns near Walkerville to the Indians Sunday. "I donated my treasured land to the Indians because they have a plan to improve the entire Walkerville community," he said.

Douglas Pierson, head of the housing authority for the Grand River Bands of the Ottawa Indian Nation, said the land is ideally suited for an Indian housing project but 12 acres will be preserved as a recreation area for county residents.

Shatenberger's donation was the second received by Indians in Oceana county this year. Earlier, the village of Walkerville donated 13½ acres for low cost Indian housing.

Rugged John Wayne Rated Top Actor

Britain's Maggie Smith, in an upset over such glamorous domestic types as Jane Fonda and Liza Minelli, was named best actress. She played the opinionated school teacher in "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

Scores of stars, dazzling in their finery, turned out for the ceremonies at the Los Angeles Music Center. The show, televised internationally by satellite, ran nearly half an hour over its scheduled two hours.

Goldie Hawn, the blonde giggler of television's "Laugh In," was chosen best supporting actress. She played Walter Matthau's girl friend in "Cactus Flower."

Gig Young bounded onstage as if on springs to accept the supporting actor award for his performance as the breezy master of ceremonies at a dance marathon in "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

It was also a night for memorable moments:

—Fred Astaire doing a twisting, capering, whirling dance at 70 as nimbly as in his films of yore.

—A salvo of applause and a 20-second standing ovation for graying Cary Grant, voted a special Oscar by the academy's governors for many memorable performances.

—Wayne telling the audience: "I'm John Wayne. I work with my clothes on. I have to. Horses are rough on your legs—and your elsewhere."

Wayne received his Oscar for his role as hard-bitten, whisky-drinking U.S. Marshal Rooster Cogburn in "True Grit." Striding solid and massive across the stage, Wayne, 62, said: "I shudda put that patch on 35 years earlier."

Wayne noted he had picked up Oscars before for other winners, and that one night he picked up two—for director John Ford and the late actor Gary Cooper.

"I was clever and witty then," Wayne said, his voice roughening with emotion. "Tonight I don't feel very clever and witty. I feel grateful and humble. I owe thanks to many people."

Barbra Streisand presented Wayne's Oscar.
